Britten Is for Quick Illinois Action.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—An effort was made today to learn from the Illinois delegation in congress why that state and the central west have been neglected in the allocation of the public works easy money fund. One member of the Illinois delegation was found—and he was away from the capital—who was stirred up by the government's failure to allot a fair share to Illinois and adjacent states.

That member is Fred A. Britten of the Ninth Illinois district, who is going to see what he can do about it. In general, the senators and representatives from Illinois revealed a complete lack of preparation and effort by public officials from the states.

Allotments to Date.

An analysis of the allotments made thus far from the public works fund, published in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE today, disclosed that Illinois, paying 7 per cent of the federal tax bill, received only four-tenths of one per cent of the public works money, excluding road moneys from the calculations. The five Chicagoland states, paying 13 per cent of the tax bill, were assigned only 3 per cent of the public works money, exclusive of road funds.

In general the Illinois delegation in Washington is Democratic, its members being presumably close to the reigning administration. It remained for a Republican, Mr. Britten, to promise constructive action.

Britten to Start Action.

Reached at West Point, N. Y., where he had gone to review the cadet corps, Congressman Britten declared that Illinois always had taken the long end of the tax burden and the short end of rewards.

"But the whole purpose of this public works fund, it was represented to congress and the people," Mr. Britten said, "was to relieve unemployment. Two important centers of unemployment, where remedies should have been applied among the first, are Chicago and Milwaukee.

"It is no excuse to say that the local officials haven't presented a program, although, to be sure, I would criticize them as well for their delay. But the federal government has not waited for other units to come in with programs; it has initiated many great and expensive projects around other parts of the country.

"The administration has given $50,000,000 to start dams, flood control, soil erosion control, and an ambitious social experiment in the Tennessee valley. It has given $38,000,000 for Boulder dam, $63,000,000 for the Grand Coulee dam in the state of Washington, $22,700,000 for the Casper-Alcova dam in Wyoming, $238,000,000 for naval construction on the east and west coasts.

Why Not Aid Middle West?

"These are all federal projects. Why can't the administration promote the middle west as well? They could start in admirably and with the soundest of reasoning by purchasing the sanitary district canal, thus providing much needed millions to be used in the immediate construction of the remaining sewage disposal plants ordered by the United States Supreme court.

"If the purchase money wouldn't be sufficient to put the project on a completed basis the government should lend the funds to the district, just as it has lent $44,200,000 for a new bridge and $37,500,000 for a new tunnel to the city of New York.

"Why shouldn't the administration provide funds for building in Chicago the outer drive bridge, the elevated highway to the west side, an airport for the lake front?

"Those projects are of vital importance, much more so, in my opinion, than is the building of a bridge across San Francisco bay with $60,000,000 of government money or the building of new bridges and tunnels in the city of New York.

"I shall see Secretary Ickes immediately upon my return to Washington and, if necessary, I shall discuss the unfair treatment of Illinois with the President."

Dieterich Awaits Program.

"I have not been called upon to present any projects to the administration," he said, "and consequently

FORD CONFERS WITH SON; NRA BELIEVED TOPIC

Refuses to Talk to Questioners.

Cates Quits NRA

Dudley Cates of Chicago, aid to Gen. Hugh S. Johnson and a key man in NRA code administration, resigned yesterday because of conflicts over the code's handling of union labor. He proposed brand new "vertical" unions nationally controlled, and his plan was rejected by Johnson. Page 19.

4,000 Return to Jobs

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 31.—(AP)—The return of between 3,000 and 4,000 men to their jobs in the Ford Motor companies' factories was announced today in a communication sent by Ford officials to Ford welfare officials in the suburbs of Dearborn, Inkster, and Garden City.

The employes will return, the announcement said, on the basis of a forty hour week. The daily rate was fixed several months ago at $4.

The last report of the number employed by the Ford factories in River Rouge gave the total as 42,000 on Aug. 20.

Marquette, Mich., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Speculation as to whether there was any reference to the NRA in a lengthy telephone conversation today between Henry Ford, vacationing near here, and his son, Edsel, at Seal Harbor, Me., ran high tonight.

Ford, as on the previous day, flatly declined to make any comment "on anything." He hastened into a local hotel from his secluded camp at the Huron Mountain club, about forty miles north of here, and ordered the telephone operator to get in touch with Edsel.

While waiting for the call to be completed he was questioned about the statement of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, that "maybe the people will crack down on Ford" if the motor magnate does not obtain the NRA Blue Eagle by signing the automotive code.

Silent on Johnson Talk.

"I have nothing to say about the NRA or anything else," said Ford. "I have nothing to say at all."

He conversed at length, from a room in the hotel, with his son, who is the president of the Ford Motor company. Then, driven by his chauffeur, he turned back to the camp, where there are no telephones and no modern means of communication. Messengers occasionally go to the camp with telegrams for the motor magnate, but stewards at the camp said he is "not much in communication" with outside events.

Ford's chauffeur and others of his party made careful attempts today to prevent the motor magnate from coming in contact with questioners during the brief visit here.

Rests in Secluded Spot.

The camp at which Ford, with Mrs. Ford, has been staying for the past week is near the Huron mountains, in the northernmost point of Marquette county on Lake Superior. A number of pretentious lodges, owned by wealthy Detroiters and Chicagoans, have been built along the mouth of Pine river, fronting the lake. Most of the recreation in the secluded resort is obtained in fishing and hiking through the mountainous region.

Ford has emerged from the camp only twice during the past week, according to the stewards. On Wednesday he went to Big Bay, several miles to the southeast, where there is a telephone. At that time he conversed with his representatives in Detroit.

Brief Visit at Marquette.

Today he came to Marquette to make the telephone call to Maine, remaining for only a brief visit.

He is expected to make the return trip to Detroit by boat, probably leaving this week-end, arriving in Detroit Monday or Tuesday.

At no time during his visit in the upper peninsula has the motor magnate permitted an interview. His associates have declined to describe his activities during his vacation, but residents near Big Bay said he spent much time inspecting a lumber yard there on Wednesday.

Edsel Refuses Comment.

Claire Windsor in Letter Vows Love for Read

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Claire Windsor was star and spectator today for about 20 minutes while attorneys for Mrs. Marion Read presented to the jury inscribed snapshots as part of Mrs. Read's $100,000 suit that charges the affections of Alfred Read, a broker, were stolen by Miss Windsor. The jurors, seven men and five women, viewed a packet of snapshots showing Claire and Alfred and with endearing words written on them.

Miss Windsor was silent as she sat in the witness chair in the midst of a 75 by 45 foot courtroom, filled to almost suffocation and with its temperature in the middle eighties. She was haughty for perhaps five minutes. After that she was somewhat wilted. Most of the spectators were women.

Two of the photos showed Claire and Read kissing. One of Claire was inscribed, "Al darling—you should never leave all this love I have for you, cause it's a world full. Lover Claire."

Clash Over Love Letters.

Superior Judge Joseph Sproul intervened between wrangling counsel at several points, but chiefly during the morning, when lawyers for Miss Windsor sought to exclude her love letters and Read's from public reading or acceptance in evidence. The judge said, "We will admit them."

At once the drone of the court clerk began. Read's letter to Claire, written on a train from New York to Chicago in September, 1931, said:

"Dearest Claire: Please excuse the writing, but this train does wabble. Sweetheart, I never knew before just how many tears I had in me. I have had your picture out almost continuously. If there was only a way to get off this train and get back to you for just one more kiss I think I probably would do it.

"I hope, sweetheart, that while I am away from the dearest thing in my life you will think about me and know that, whatever happens, I will always love you. I am growing more confident all the time that, as far as I am concerned, things will be able to be worked out.

"Do you know that I love you, darling, with all my heart, and will be living only to return to you next month? Be good, sweetheart, and think of your AL."

Tells of Loneliness.

A letter from Miss Windsor to Read said:

"New York, Sept. 17, 1931.

"Darling: I have received four let-

So She Turns Nudist Quite Unexpectedly

Mrs. Frieda Pitman of Cheyenne, Wyo., was standing at State and Madison streets last evening when she saw her dress. Another woman was wearing it with obvious pride. It was a dress which had been in Mrs. Pitman's baggage when the baggage was stolen an hour after she arrived in Chicago last June 3.

Mrs. Pitman came to Chicago to see the World's Fair. She lingered here because her son Raymond, a medical student at Northwestern university, is one of the ricksha runners on A Century of Progress grounds.

Knows Her Own Creation.

Summoning a policeman, Mrs. Pitman explained the situation and the policeman stopped the woman. After a closer glance at the dress Mrs. Pitman asserted: "Yes, I'm sure that this is my dress."

"Impossible," scoffed the wearer of the dress. "There must be hundreds just like this in Chicago. How could you be sure?"

"I can be sure," replied Mrs. Pitman, "because I made that dress with my own hands and from a pattern of my own design."

Claims All But the Hat.

The party then proceeded to the detective bureau. The woman identified herself as Miss Alice Ziebur, 927 Eastwood avenue. After accompanying the prisoner to the women's quarters, Mrs. Pitman demanded that she be given her dress.

Before an outraged matron Miss Ziebur unhooked the garment and handed it over. Then Mrs. Pitman looked at the gloves Miss Ziebur was wearing. She also looked at the slippers, at the hose and at the lingerie.

"Why," she exclaimed, "everything the woman is wearing belongs to me except her hat. I want those clothes and I want them immediately. Let her keep the hat, but she must give me the rest."

Screen Shelters Alice.

Resignedly Miss Ziebur stepped behind a convenient screen and item by item handed over the filmy garments, the gloves and the shoes. Then she shivered.

"A hat," said she, "is not particularly warm. Especially when one is on a cement floor."

Mrs. Pitman was sweeping out the door, her recovered garments over her arm. Triumphantly she halted to say: "I suggest that you find yourself a good newspaper and make some clothing you can call your own."

Nine World's Fair visitors and the pilot of the speedboat Texas were forced to leap into the lake to save their lives late yesterday when fire attacked their craft while they were cruising a mile out in Lake Michigan off 31st street.

All were rescued by a coast guard cutter and a number of small lake boats which sped to the scene and took the victims to the hospital on the Fair grounds. The speedboat sank after burning to the water line. The spectacular blaze was witnessed by thousands of visitors at A Century of Progress.

Second Accident in Week.

The burning of the Texas was the second World's Fair speed boat accident in a week. On last Friday night the Chris Craft speed boat Miss Chicago collided with a cabin cruiser at the mouth of the Chicago river, causing the deaths of three persons on the Miss Chicago.

Those on board the speedboat were:

MISS RAMONA BROCKMEYER, 22, Glencoe, Minn.

BUD SHELDON, pilot.

The speed boat started its cruise from the docks of Hollywood-at-the-Fair and proceeded south to 31st street and then east out into the lake. When about a mile from shore Allen, who is a stationary engineer for the Marshall Field estate, noticed smoke rising from a trap door in the center of the boat, just above the motors.

Avoid Panic on Boat.

Pilot Sheldon immediately ordered all on board to don the life preservers, which were under the seats. Later Allen asserted there was no panic or hysteria among the passengers as they made ready to leap into the water. The men helped the women to don the life belts.

When the smoke and heat became intense the pilot ordered every one to jump. They did so, leaving the boat in groups so as to avoid upsetting it. Once in the water they clung to each other so the waves would not separate them while they waited to be rescued.

The coast guard cutter, with First Mate Albert Delimater in command, was the first to reach the scene, but seven other Chris Craft speed boats and the Romance, operated from the A. & P. dock at the Fair, also sped out to where the victims floated in a group.

The coast guardsmen pulled the victims into the cutter and then turned their attention to the speed boat. Fearing an explosion, they extinguished the flames with chemicals, but the craft sank a short time later.

Guardsman Saves Girl.

As the speed boat passengers were being taken aboard the cutter, Jean Allen suddenly exhibited signs of distress and appeared to be drowning. Coast Guardsman George Payer leaped into the water and pulled her to safety. She was revived aboard the cutter.

All the passengers were put to bed at the Fair hospital and after their clothes had been dried and returned, all departed, apparently none the worse for their drenching.

Pilot Sheldon said he did not know what caused the fire. There was no explosion and the flames did not appear to be fed by gasoline.

'Spike' O'Donnell Is First Arrested.

Killers Guilty

Fifty-nine additional warrants for public enemies were issued yesterday by Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green under the new law which empowers the state to prosecute a man as a vagabond if it is shown that he has a criminal reputation. At the same time the first conviction was obtained before Judge Green against a hoodlum arrested on one of 25 warrants issued previously in the drive against public enemies under the new law.

Vagabond warrants also were issued for the arrest of nearly 50 men named as pickpockets by Chief of Detectives Schoemaker. Judge Joseph H. McGarry issued these warrants.

"Spike" O'Donnell Seized.

The police acted swiftly yesterday after the issuance of the new warrants for the public enemies. They took as their first prisoner in the drive Edward [Spike] O'Donnell, survivor of 10 years of beer gang warfare on the south side. O'Donnell, whose nickname of "Spike" distinguishes him from the west side beer gang headed by "Klondike" O'Donnell, was arrested in the city hall shortly after Judge Green issued the warrants. A short while later the police arrested Sanford [Gimp] Rosenbaum, O'Donnell's bodyguard.

Sergt. Charles McMullen late last night arrested Michael [Bubs] Quinlan, one of those named in the new public enemy list, at 79th and Halsted streets and took him to the detective bureau. Quinlan, who was intoxicated, gave his address as the Southmoor hotel, 67th street and Stony Island avenue, before he lapsed into a stupor.

Gunman Is Found Guilty.

Walter Guida, a northwest side gunman, was found guilty by a jury in Judge Green's court and was immediately sentenced to the maximum term under the new vagabond law, six months in the Bridewell. In his own defense Guida said he drove beer trucks for a living. A plea for a delay in the trial was refused by Judge Green. Guida was one of the 25 named in the first list of "men of criminal repute" presented to Judge Green by Chief Schoemaker last week.

Assistant State's Attorneys Frank S. Righeimer Jr. and John S. Boyle prosecuted Guida. Attorney Bernard McMann was appointed by Judge Green to defend the prisoner.

Tells of Criminal Reputation.

Chief Schoemaker testified to Guida's general reputation as a violator of state and national laws. He showed that Guida had once been convicted of contributing to the delinquency of a minor and that a suspended sentence had been imposed on him for driving while intoxicated. He was constantly associated with criminals and was suspected of a murder, Chief Schoemaker testified. Under the law it was necessary for Guida to refute the bad character reputation ascribed to him, and he did not do so.

A motion for a new trial was overruled and Guida went to the House of Correction a few minutes later.

To Be Arraigned Today.

James Belcastro, known as "the king of the bombers," one of those named in the first list of 25 vagabonds, was taken before Judge Green yesterday. When he asked for a change of venue a call to Chief Justice Sonsteby of the Municipal court brought the response that another judge would be sent to help Judge Green today and that Belcastro would be arraigned before him immediately.

Sam Battaglia, another of the first 25 for whom vagabond warrants were issued, was ordered to trial tomorrow. Maxie Eisen, still another on the earlier list, was told to be ready for trial Tuesday.

59 Named in Warrants.

The list of the 59 men named in warrants issued by Judge Green yesterday is as follows:

SAM ["THE GREEK"] ALEX, formerly

CHARLES HADESMAN, a northeast side gunman who has a record dating back to 1912.

WILLIAM HEENEY, a suspect in the murder of Assistant State's Attorney William M. McSwiggin and since involved in many crimes.

SAMMY ["The Greener"] JACOBSON, a west side police character involved in several shootings and a long time enemy of Sam Kaplan.

NICK JUFFRA, head of Capone's booze delivery service outside Chicago. Served two years for bootlegging.

SAM KAPLAN, a notorious election terrorist, living near 14th and Halsted streets and leader of a gang of thieves. Was accused of murder of Octavus Granady, colored 20th ward politician in 1928.

MARCUS [STUDDY] LOONEY, long a labor racketeer. Partner of Murray Humphries, public enemy No. 1, in the T-N-T transportation extortion racket.

LAWRENCE MANGANO, known as "Dago Lawrence." Vice and gambling ruler of near west side, and known to be a gunman. Long suspected of kidnaping.

GEORGE [BUGS] MORAN, leader of the north side gang which was almost exterminated by the Valentine day massacre in 1929. Former partner of Dean O'Banion, "Schemer" Drucci and "Hymie" Weiss, all slain.

DOMINICK NUCCIO, convicted as burglar member of old Gioriana gang a dozen years ago. Boss of alcohol gang in near north side territory and noted as a quick trigger gun fighter.

BERNARD O'DONNELL, brother of Klondike and member of the gang.

EDWARD [SPIKE] O'DONNELL, an ex-convict who has waged war with the Saltis and other south side beer gangs.

MARTIN O'LEARY, a Cicero criminal believed to be a kidnaper and recently a member of the Touhy gang. Suspected of killing Policeman Raymond Martin, who was trying to trap kidnapers.

MICHAEL ["BURS"] QUINLAN, operated a beer business of his own on the south side for many years; often engaged in duels with Saltis gangsters and still lives.

MELVILLE REEVES, known as the skyscraper burgler. Recently tried for burglary after he was captured in a downtown building.

Known as a prison crazed machine gun executioner. He was returned to prison to serve out a life sentence but was released by Judge Edward Shurtleff of Marengo, Ill. A Supreme court ruling on Judge Shurtleff's action is expected in October.

TONY "MOPS" VOLPE, a man without a country. Once a Capone gunman, he was ordered deported because of false statements to immigration bureau and two criminal convictions. Italy will not permit him to land in that country and he is also barred from Argentina, where he was born of Italian parents.

WILLIAM [THREE FINGER JACK] WHITE, a gunman for Capone, Klondike O'Donnell, and others, and a partner of Humphries, Looney, and Klondike O'Donnell in the T-N-T. Tried for many crimes. Convicted of murder twice. At liberty because of technicalities.

GUS WINKLER, a criminal for many years and now under sentence for gun toting. Set himself up as racket and booze boss of the north side. Suspected of complicity in Valentine day massacre with his pal, Fred "Killer" Burke, who is now serving life sentence in Michigan for killing a policeman.

Al Capone's Brother Seized.

Matthew Capone, younger brother of Al, was arrested last night at 22d street and Wabash avenue by Sergt. Michael Whelan and locked up at the detective bureau. He gave his age as 24 and his address as 7244 Prairie avenue, the Capone family home. He has no Chicago criminal record, police said, having been in school in the east while his brother was the czar of Chicago gangland. No specific charge was placed against him.

H. G. WELLS PEERS INTO FUTURE; SEES WAR IN 1940 IN HIS NEW BOOK

LONDON, Aug. 31.—(AP)—H. G. Wells has had a "dream" of what is going to happen in the next couple of centuries. In this he saw a terrible war and the destruction of the present economic system, to be followed by a new order of things in which there will be no rent, interest, or profit, and a full and happy existence will be possible for every one.

Wells recorded this in his new book, "The Shape of Things to Come," published today. He traces the history of the world from 1913 to 2116 and paints a picture of a horible war in Europe in 1940, leading to wholesale death and plague from gas, germs, and bombs, and collapse of the world system as we know it.

From the ruins rises a reconstructed world, in which, as he puts it:

"There remains no way of becoming passively wealthy. Gambling is ruthlessly eradicated. Usury ranks with forgery as a monetary offense. Money is given to people to get what they want and not as a basis for further acquisition. There are no speculators, shareholders, private usurers, or rent lords."

HOLDUP KILLERS CONVICTED; ONE GETS LIFE TERM

Other Is Sentenced to 14 Years in Prison.

Chester Gallas, 27 years old, the slayer of Jacob C. Pedersen, 46 years old, a street car conductor, was found guilty by a jury before Judge Marcus Kavanagh in the Criminal court last night. His punishment was fixed at life imprisonment. James Kuratko, 31 years old, Gallas' companion in the crime, also was convicted by the jury, which set his penalty at 14 years in prison. The judge formally sentenced the men immediately after the jury had returned its verdict.

Pedersen was killed on Aug. 7 in an attempted robbery at the end of the Cicero avenue car line at 25th street. The conductor, who lived in Elmwood Park, resisted the robbery, and Gallas, who was armed, fired two shots into his body. Gallas and Kuratko escaped after a chase by police, but a Cicero police lieutenant recognized Gallas as he was pursuing him and the pair were arrested later.

Prosecutor Refuses to Bargain.

Assistant State's Attorney John O'Hara had refused to bargain with the defendants, who had offered to plead guilty if the prosecution would agree not to send them to the electric chair. The defendants admitted their guilt, but offered in defense a plea that they were so intoxicated at the time of the holdup that they did not know what they were doing.

Defense Attorney Julius Skrediewski thanked Judge Kavanagh and the jury after the verdict saving his clients from the electric chair had been returned. He did not make the usual motion for a new trial. Judge Kavanagh asked the defendants if they had anything to say before he imposed sentence. Gallas spoke up and started to talk about a new trial.

Lawyer Silences Client.

The defense attorney promptly caught him by the neck and cut short his remarks. He said something to his client and the latter thereafter remained quiet while the judge imposed sentence.

Judge Kavanagh, dean of the bench, remarked after the trial that it was amazing to observe the difference in the defense of murder cases at present and those made before the war on crime was started. Instead of defense attorneys trying to hoodwink juries into acquitting clients, he pointed out, they are now content with urging juries not to inflict the death penalty.

239 Prison Sentences.

The sentence imposed last night on the two murderers brings to 239 the total of penitentiary sentences imposed since the campaign against criminals was started a month ago by Chief Justice John Prystalski. Three death sentences have been returned by Criminal court juries in the last week.

John Scheck, the courtroom slayer of Policeman John Sevick, yesterday was formally sentenced to die in the electric chair on Oct. 13. Judge Harry B. Miller imposed the penalty in accordance with the verdict returned by a jury several days ago. Morris Cohen, slayer of Policeman Joseph Hastings, has been sentenced to die on the same day.

George Dale, 23 years old, sweetheart of Mrs. Eleanor Jarman, the "blonde tiger girl," the third bandit for whom the death penalty was fixed within a week, is to appear this morning before Judge Philip L. Finnegan to be formally sentenced. Mrs. Jarman and Leo Minneci, Dale's companions, for whom the jury decreed prison terms of 199 years each, also are to appear before Judge Finnegan this morning for sentence.

Policeman Is Acquitted.

John J. McDonough, 41 years old, who for 10 years was a policeman assigned to the Brighton Park station, was acquitted of the murder of Austin Kittredge, 26 years old, on April 2, in a soft drink parlor at 3622 South Marshfield avenue. The policeman, who was off duty at the time, killed McKittredge and wounded his two companions, Robert McCormick, 25, and Edward Lawrence. McDonough was suspended after the shooting.

Defense Attorney James M. Burke cited the present crime war conditions in defense of his client in his closing argument to the jury. McDonough, the father of eight children, had testified he heard one of the men say something about a holdup when they entered the saloon, and he immediately opened fire.

"If you bring in a verdict of guilty in this case you will wreck the morale of the police department," Attorney Burke said. "Eleven policemen have been murdered by quick triggered gunmen since Jan. 1 and many orphans and widows have resulted. Do you want the policemen to be instructed by your verdict that they dare not shoot until after they have been shot at? The police are now doing good work. Tell them by your verdict to go ahead and bring in the gunmen."

The jury returned the not guilty verdict on the first ballot. The jury was limited to a manslaughter verdict by Judge George Fred Rush because the state could not prove any motive for the shooting. The prosecution had contended that the policeman shot without reason.

Five Other Prison Sentences.

CHARLES HOWARD, colored, sentenced to 1 to 14 years for manslaughter by Judge Molthrop. He shot and killed Arthur Thomas, also colored, in an argument over money.

LOUIS FILLICETTI, 16 years old, sentenced to 1 to 20 years by Judge Miller for robbery. He robbed Herman Piffer of Whiting on July 5. He was a companion in crime of Mike Rozulich, who escaped from the county jail several weeks ago by taking the place of another prisoner.

JAMES C. COON, 36, sentenced to 4 years for rape by Judge Donald McKinlay. He attacked a 14 year old girl.

JOSEPH PERINO, 23, sentenced to 1 year to life by Judge Rush. He was found guilty of robbing John Ross, 2519 North Lincoln street, of $80 on March 19. He was one of a group of hitch hikers picked up by Ross.

ELIJAH GORE, a colored Baptist minister, sentenced to 10 years by Judge Kickham Scanlan. He was found guilty on a bench trial of attacking his 15 year old niece.

Judge Miller, who gave up his entire vacation to help in the war on crime and who is regularly assigned to the Criminal court for the next year, said he would not relent in his work. He set the trial of Scheck's mother, Mrs. Rose Scheck, for Sept. 12. She is charged with having smuggled the revolver to her son which enabled him to kill Policeman Sevick. Scheck and his mother met in court yesterday for the first time since the jury decreed the death penalty for the killer. Scheck wept when they met.

Judges Walter La Buy and Francis Allegretti yesterday notified Judge Prystalski that they want to continue the war on crime. Judge La Buy is at present in the court as a volunteer, but he was scheduled to leave next week. Judge Allegretti is a new volunteer and will start to work on Tuesday.

BANCROFT MITCHELL SEES AUTHORITIES ABOUT SANBORN CASE

New York, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Inquiry into the mysterious death of Henry F. Sanborn, railroad executive, was resumed tonight with the questioning of Bancroft Mitchell, investment broker, on his return from Europe.

Accompanied by his father, William D. Mitchell, United States attorney general in the Hoover administration, Mitchell presented himself at the office of the assistant district attorney in Queens county. What passed in the district attorney's office remained undisclosed.

The body of Sanborn, who authorities believe was slain, was found in a shallow grave on Aug. 5.

CALL GUIDANCE OF YOUTH BEST CURB ON CRIME

A real permanent offensive against crime would be the utilization of all resources to guide boys and girls along paths of good citizenship and habits instead of letting them drift into questionable byways. That was the consensus of speakers at the opening session of the annual conference on delinquent youth at the Great Northern hotel yesterday. The conference is sponsored by the Big Brothers Association of Illinois.

Phases of such a program were discussed at five sectional conferences. In addition conferences on the same subject were started yesterday at the St. Charles School for Boys, at Mooseheart, and at the Geneva School for Girls. Gov. Horner will be the principal speaker at tonight's dinner meeting at the hotel, following another day of discussions.

Several educators and sociologists direct the activities of the Big Brother movement, which has as its aim the guidance of juvenile delinquents along moral, recreational, and educational lines. Rodney H. Brandon, formerly state director of public welfare, is president of the association.

Nephew of Allman Sent to Prison; Companions Freed

Frank Allman, 22 years old, nephew of Police Commissioner James P. Allman, was sentenced to serve from one year to life in the penitentiary when he pleaded guilty yesterday before Judge Denis E. Sullivan in Criminal court to a charge of burglary. The sentence will run concurrently with a similar one imposed on him Wednesday for robbery with a gun. Two of Allman's companions, Frank Brady and Cyril Ahearn, obtained a trial by jury and were found not guilty.

Ossining, N. Y., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Three Negroes were put to death in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison tonight in the second triple execution there in two weeks. All were convicted of murder.

HIGHLAND PARK FAMILY LOSES BY TAX RULING

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—(AP)—The United States board of tax appeals, considering the petition brought to them by three children of Ross J. Beatty of Highland Park, Ill., ruled that they were not entitled to deduct trust losses from their individual income tax returns, and that each petitioner owes the government $733.83 for the year of 1926 and $656.67 for the year of 1927.

The three children, T. Rosslyn, John T., and Mildred Veronese Beatty live with their father and, with him, have a trust fund. During those years, the decision sets forth, certain sales were made of capital assets by the trust which brought losses. The trio deducted these losses from the individual income tax returns. This, the board ruled, is illegal.

VOTE 6 MILLIONS IN SCHOOL PAY; ONE-THIRD CASH

Board Starts Sending Out Checks Today.

A pay day of $6,127,775 for the 14,000 teachers and 4,000 other school employés was voted by the board of education at its meeting yesterday. This was the first compensation the school board has been able to provide for its workers since salaries totaling $12,467,629 were paid in cash on May 18, following a series of conferences between Mayor Kelly and loop bankers.

The checks will go out today, according to James B. McCahey, president of the board.

The pay checks will be for the first two weeks in January, for which the board owes its employés $2,078,000. For their services the last half of January and the first half of February the teachers will be paid in warrants, a total of $4,049,775.

Warrants Bear Interest.

The warrants, bearing 6 per cent interest, will be issued in $50 and $25 denominations. It will probably take a week or ten days before the 120,000 pieces can be signed and ready for distribution.

The position of the board was explained by Trustee Joseph P. Savage. Facing a crowd of 200 teachers in the board meeting room in the Builders' building, he painted a gloomy picture of the financial condition of the schools and the need for coöperation if the schools were to be kept open.

"It is impossible for persons not conversant with the board's finances," said Trustee Savage, "to understand the problems confronting us. There have been a great number of requests that warrants should be distributed along with cash. The teachers have told us that they can pay some of their creditors with warrants and hold on to their cash."

Pleads for Tax Relief.

Mr. Savage declared that unless some new method of obtaining revenue for the schools is inaugurated they will be unable to function. The people are not paying taxes, he said, because the income on buildings is not sufficient.

"Mayor Kelly and other public-spirited citizens," said Mr. Savage, "are striving to reduce the tax rate on real estate to 1 per cent. Income from other sources is our only hope for recovery. This trouble, and the teachers' organizations realize it, has arisen because real estate cannot carry 85 per cent of the burden of taxation.

"We can't start the next school year without revenue to operate. If all of these people who are wasting their time saying they are going to vote against this Democrat and that Republican who favors the economy program would get behind this fight to reduce taxes on real estate they would be doing a constructive thing."

Mr. Savage said President McCahey should be congratulated for his efforts to pay the teachers. Mr. McCahey completed a sale of $633,000 worth of 1933 tax anticipation warrants to the Commonwealth Edison and Peoples Gas companies to make up the cash pay roll just an hour before the meeting started.

After the meeting Charles Gilbert, secretary for the board, said that the pay checks were ready to mail to teachers and other school employés and that they would be sent out some time today.

The $6,000,000 pay day will reduce the staggering total of unpaid salaries. Harry Brackett, school auditor, announced Wednesday that the board owes its employés $32,756,195 for services this year up to July 15.

GAIN 8 POUNDS EACH AT C. M. T. C.

Contemplating 199 Year Prison Term

Mrs. Eleanor Jarman, the "blonde tigress," in county jail yesterday after receiving 199 year term for her part in the murder of Gustav Hoeh. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

LIFE SENTENCE A RELIEF, SAYS "TIGER WOMAN"

Escape from Chair Brings Peaceful Sleep.

Mrs. Eleanor Jarman, 29 years old, known as the "blonde tigress," admitted yesterday she felt relief that her penalty for the murder of Gustav Hoeh, 71 year old haberdasher, had been fixed by a jury at 199 years in the penitentiary instead of death in the electric chair. She said she slept soundly after the trial was concluded Wednesday for the first time since her arrest.

George Dale, alias Kennedy, her sweetheart, whose penalty the jury set at death in the electric chair probably Oct. 13, refused to see reporters. In another cell at the county jail Leo Minneci, who also received a record sentence of 199 years, was muttering to himself.

The "blonde tigress" said she realized that public indignation had been aroused by the newspapers.

"You know," she said, "I feel lucky that I got out with a prison sentence instead of—well, you know what."

No Sympathy for Pals.

She did not express sympathy for her two companions in crime. When she was told that Minneci was acting strangely, she immediately spoke up. "He's just putting that on to try to make an insanity plea," she said. "I've known him long enough to know that."

Mrs. Jarman, who is the mother of two sons, appeared to have dropped off five yeas of her age since the conviction, confirming what she said of her fear of the death penalty. She looked calm. Lines of worry had disappeared and the tenseness was gone from her husky voice.

Called Brutal by Victims.

The "blonde tigress" won this title through her savage treatment of robbery victims who were cowed by revolvers held by the two men, according to witnesses in 39 holdups who identified her. Frequently she would strike the victims herself, or order Dale or Minneci to do so. Invariably she cursed them and made violent threats.

"There was nothing in it anyway, but a lot of excitement and worry," Mrs. Jarman sighed. "I decided to go out and look for a job, but then I was arrested."

Her children, Leroy, 11 years old, and Laverne, 9 years old, are with a sister in Sioux City, Ia. Her husband has been gone for several years and she does not know or care where he is.

Judge's Dog Track Injunction Recalls Famous Cleveland Case

The injunction issued by Judge Charles A. Williams in the Superior court on Wednesday, restraining the sheriff and state's attorney from interfering with betting on dog races at the Thornton Coursing club, recalls a similar injunction issued by a Cleveland judge in July, 1929.

The Cleveland writ, issued by Common Pleas Judge Frederick P. Walther, was ignored by Sheriff Edward P. Hanratty, who raided the Thistledown race track, arrested three men, closed the track and kept it closed.

Prosecutor P. L. A. Leighly of Cuyahoga county held that Judge Walther's injunction was "not worth the paper it was written on," and, subsequent developments bore him out, for the only results of the writ were contempt sentences for two newspaper men and these were promptly reversed.

Editorial Hits Decision.

Acting upon the opinion of Prosecutor Leighly and the strong implication in an editorial in the Cleveland Press that Judge Walther had acted not judicially but politically, Sheriff Hanratty carried out his previous announcement that betting on races would not be tolerated.

The Press, in its editorial, said the injunction was "either monstrous or ridiculous." This statement referred to the terms of the injunction which restrained interference with the so-called "contribution" system of betting "if the same be not in violation of the law."

Thistledown was a horse race track, while the Thornton Coursing club is a dog track, but the laws are the same in both cases. Ohio had banned parimutuel betting on horses races, and the Illinois law prohibits pari-mutuel betting on dog races.

As a result of the editorial, Louis B. Seltzer, editor of the Press, and Crailon K. Matson, chief editorial writer, were cited for contempt of court on the motion of a young attorney who was a friend of Judge Walther. The judge then heard his own case, finding the men guilty of contempt and sentencing them to serve 30 days in jail and pay a fine of $500 each.

Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, defended the newspaper in the action which became a famous freedom of the press case. Attorney Baker dismissed Judge Walther's injunction as "utterly meaningless" and then launched into vehement defense of the "American prerogative of criticizing public officials." He also argued against the application of the contempt laws of "the dark days when the press was efficiently gagged."

An Old System Rebaptized.

Attorney Baker declared that the "contribution" system of betting was the old pari-mutuel system "rebaptized by the gamblers and dressed in new pants." He then offered to dismiss the remainder of his case if the judge would show him "anything in the history of American equity to correspond to the order you granted Thistledown."

Immediately after the newspaper men had been sentenced, Attorney Baker went before the Appellate court and obtained their release in bond pending appeal. The opinion of the Appellate court said in part:

"Because a man gets on the bench it does not necessarily mean that he has changed his temperament or his liability to get excited. Reversed for the reason that the court abused his discretion in sitting in the trial of the case."

MARKS SUMMER DOWN AS CITY'S SECOND HOTTEST

Chicago this year experienced the second warmest summer since the keeping of records was begun in 1871, it was revealed yesterday by Chief Meteorologist C. A. Donnel of the government weather bureau as the books for August were closed.

The average mean temperature for June, July, and August this year was 74.4 degrees, and the normal figure drawn from the 62 years previous is 70.5 degrees. The record holder is the year 1921, with 74.7 degrees. It was also a dry summer, the deficiency of precipitation, mainly rainfall, being 2.84 inches.

Mr. Donnel compared the total of 18 days this summer when the mercury reached 90 or more degrees, with the average of 8 such days.

June lifted the summer's average for heat considerably, for this month twice saw official temperatures of 100 degrees recorded, breaking the record of 99. In June the average temperature was 76.4 degrees, which is 8.9 degrees above normal.

July this year showed an average of 75.6, which was 4.1 more than the customary figure. August lagged behind with 71.4, against 71.6 for an average of all the other years.

GUARD BROTHER OF BANKER LUER, ONCE KIDNAPED

Millville, Minn., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Fearing that an attempt might be made to kidnap another member of the wealthy Luer family of Alton, Ill., an armed guard was placed tonight at the country home of Dr. and Mrs. Herman Luer at Jarrett, west of here.

Mr. Luer, a retired banker of Alton, is a brother of August Luer, also a banker of Alton, who was kidnaped July 11 and released five days later, although no ransom was paid.

Placing of the guard followed the visit of a stranger to the Herman Luer home at Jarrett last Friday.

YOUTH IS KILLED BY ACCIDENTAL SHOT FROM RIFLE

The accidental discharge of a rifle yesterday fatally wounded Jack Tinko, 19 years old, 5601 Blackstone avenue, and later at the Illinois Central hospital a second bullet from the same weapon slightly wounded a nurse and a friend of Tinko.

The nurse is Miss Emily Bray, 28 years old, living at the nurses' home of the hospital, whose ankle was grazed by a ricocheting bullet when the rifle was accidentally fired the second time. Oscar Metz, employed at the Century garage at 5526 Harper avenue, where Tinko works, suffered a flesh wound in the neck.

Tinko was pulling the rifle from a car in the garage when it first discharged, the bullet striking him in the abdomen. Henry Horbach, 4903 Lake Park avenue, another employé at the garage, was unloading the weapon in the receiving room at the hospital and his finger slipped against the trigger. The inquest into Tinko's death was continued to Sept. 8 for further investigation.

Police to Guard Doctors to Prevent Holdup Traps

Police Commissioner Allman yesterday notified all district captains to provide police escorts for physicians who request them while responding to telephone calls at night. A request for the escorts was made by Dr. Austin A. Hayden, president of the Chicago Medical society, who pointed out that several physicians have been robbed recently after having been lured to out of way places by fake distress calls.

Dr. Breasted Reports His Illness Is Only a Cold

A telegram was received last night from Dr. James H. Breasted, internationally known Egyptologist, who is at Gallup, N. M., stating he had a slight cold and would stay in bed for several days on the advice of physicians. The message was received by his son, Charles Breasted, executive secretary of the oriental institute at the University of Chicago, who said he desired to correct reports that Dr. Breasted was seriously ill.

Trio Rob Store; Patrons Are Unaware of Holdup

While 13 customers in the H. B. Cole & Son drug store at 2060 East 71st street were unaware that a holdup was in progress three bandits last night robbed the place of $297.

AUGUST PERMITS TO WED EXCEED JUNE FIRST TIME

For the first time since the present system of keeping county records was started in 1871, there were more marriage licenses issued during August than during the proverbial wedding month of June. When the marriage license bureau closed last evening 3,760 licenses had been issued during August. The total for June was only 3,754.

"Our records go back to the Chicago fire, when earlier files were destroyed," said Chief Clerk Sidney Summerfield, "but never since that time were there more licenses issued in any month than in June of the same year.

"The reason for the record breaking during 1933 is twofold. First there is the new deal and then there is the World's Fair. I believe we have had an average of more than fifty couples a day who have come to the Fair and decided to get married."

The increase in marriages not only applies to August but to all the months of 1933. During the eight months of the year 20,740 licenses have been issued. During the first eight months of 1932 only 18,139 were issued.

White City Bankruptcy Plea Filed by Creditors

Involuntary bankruptcy proceedings were instituted yesterday against the White City Amusement company by the Nathan Fox company, Inc., and Butler Brothers, with aggregate claims of $600.

BUSES REPLACE TROLLEY LINES IN MANHATTAN

New York, Aug. 31.—[Special.]—The board of estimate has reached an agreement on the substitution of buses on 98 miles of trolley routes in Manhattan and the awarding of seven additional crosstown bus routes. These embrace about thirty route miles.

The agreement, reached in open session with representatives of the New York Railways company, the Fourth and Madison Avenue company, and the Rosoff bus interests, marked the end of eight years of bargaining in reaching a solution of the problem.

The city will receive 10 per cent of the gross receipts on the crosstown lines and 3 per cent on the longitudinal lines. The franchises will be for 25 years.

HAWKS ARRIVES AT SEATTLE ON CHICAGO FLIGHT

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Capt. Frank Hawks, speed flyer, dropped down here at 7:28 p. m. Pacific standard time today to complete the second lap of his tri-city air dash from Chicago to Los Angeles to Seattle and return. He was five hours and 33 minutes in covering the approximately 1,000 mile air line.

Although he had stopped only a little less than an hour at the Glendale airport at Los Angeles, after arriving from Chicago, he planned to remain here overnight. The flight north was "uneventful," Hawks said. He planned to take off again at 4:30 a. m. tomorrow, headed for Chicago nonstop.

GERMANY BANS ROASTS ON ONE SUNDAY A MONTH

Savings Will Be Used to Feed the Poor.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 31.—Nazi welfare officials, preparing for the winter relief campaign, ruled today that on the first Sunday in every month German families must relinquish their Sunday roasts and remain satisfied with a stew. The money thus saved will be turned over to national welfare funds, it was decreed.

Imitating practice in the United States, Nazi welfare organizers plan to issue metal signs reading, "We help." They will be nailed to the doors of all contributors.

To increase jobs for the unemployed, daughters of civil servants today were forbidden to earn their own livings, as a result of a decision by the city fathers. This is a sequel to an order forbidding wives of officials to be gainfully employed.

Fix Emigration Rules.

A decree regulating conditions under which Jews desiring to emigrate to Palestine will be allowed to take along part of their property was announced today. The principle of the agreement is that Palestine companies shall place orders for the German goods in a central office in Germany. That office will export the goods to Palestine and will receive the proceeds resulting from the sale of property the emigrating Jews desire to leave behind.

A Jew emigrating to Palestine will be allowed to take along £1,000 (about $4,600 at current exchange rates) and may place orders for goods aggregating $5,000.

Further provisions were made to enable Jews who desire to emigrate later to prepare their financial plans through an Anglo-Palestine bank. The Jews of this group may be allowed to take along $16,000.

All deals must be approved by a special office of "Palestine trustees advising German Jews." This office was created by the German government, together with Jewish leaders.

Quits Germany Under Pressure.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Aug. 31. — Edgar Ansel Mowrer, for many years Berlin correspondent of the Chicago Daily News, left Berlin tonight by way of England and the United States for his new post in Tokio. He had put forward his departure by six days under pressure.

Mowrer's resignation as president of the Foreign Press Association of Berlin was demanded in March under pain of official boycott of the association on the ground that certain members of the present cabinet had taken grave exception to his book "Germany Turns the Clock Back." He was confirmed in his office by the almost unanimous vote of the Foreign Press representatives.

On Aug. 8 Mowrer, whose transfer to Tokio had been decided upon, offered to resign the presidency if a member of the Foreign Press association then in prison was released. This offer was accepted by the German government.

Mowrer then made arrangements to leave Germany Sept. 6. The reason for his departure six days earlier is that the most strenuous efforts have been made by the German government to have him leave the country before the appointed date. As a last resort the German chargé d'affaires in Washington informed the state department that his government could not be responsible for Mower's security.

Hitler Slips Out of Nuremberg.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

NUREMBERG, Germany, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Chancellor Hitler, finding the turmoil of this convention city uncongenial for preparing the important speeches he will deliver at the biennial conference of the National Socialist party, today slipped quietly away to Bayreuth. There in solitude he completed the work on two important pronouncements he will make tomorrow.

Meanwhile the city was thronged with more than 600,000 men, women and youths, come to this ancient city to pledge again their adherence to the Nazi leader.

Nazi Wounded in Flight.

BOLZANO, Italy, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Franz Hofer, Austrian Nazi leader who escaped from a jail at Innsbruck yesterday, was recovering today at Bressanone, near here, from a bullet wound in the knee received while he was fleeing from Austrian gendarmes.

Three Nazis who accompanied Hofer in his flight, reported to the police, but none of the four were placed under arrest, it being held for the time being at least, that Hofer was a political prisoner. The four men crossed the frontier late last night.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Charges implicating the highest Nazi leaders in the burning of the reichstag are contained in the "Brown Book of Hitler Terror," which will be published here tomorrow. The book has been prepared under the auspices of the "world committee for victims of German Fascism," headed by Dr. Albert Einstein. The volume is a composite of damaging evidence of every conceivable kind against Chancellor Hitler's government.

Dr. Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, and Capt. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, premier of Prussia, are blamed above all for the reichstag fire—Goebbels for originating the idea and Goering for directing operations and letting incendiaries use his house as headquarters. These charges have been whispered more or less openly since the fire, but much of the evidence is new.

Publish Secret Memorandum.

For the first time there is published a secret memorandum written at the end of April by Dr. Ernst Oberfohren, former leader of the Nationalists in the reichstag, who was found dead in his apartment in Berlin on May 7. It was alleged by Nazis that he committed suicide, but the book asserts he was murdered because he knew too much. Several weeks before his death he sent a full memorandum of the circumstances of the fire to Alfred Hugenberg, his chief in the Nationalist party, protesting bitterly against continuation of coalition with the Nazis.

According to this document Goebbels was responsible for the police raid on the Karl Liebknecht house, the Berlin headquarters of the communist party, a few days before the fire, and for smuggling incriminating material into it for the police to seize.

But this wasn't enough, Oberfohren wrote.

"Goebbels thought it was necessary to heighten the effect of the material alleged to have been discovered in the Liebknecht house by an incident of some kind," the document alleged. "He thought he woud achieve the greatest success by a series of acts of arson, culminating in the burning of the reichstag."

Lists Suspicious Circumstances.

In 100 pages the book lists suspicious circumstances attending the fire—the fact that Hitler and all his chief lieutenants were in Berlin; that all storm troopers were confined to barracks all day, ready for instant action; that while the fire began at 9 p. m. 1,500 arrests were made by midnight, each with a warrant containing a photograph of the accused persons.

The history of Marinus Van der Lubbe, young Dutch communist, accused of starting the conflagration, is told in detail to show he was merely a puppet in the hands of Nazi chieftains, notably Capt. Ernst Roehm, storm troop commander, with whom he was on the friendliest terms over a period years.

The actual incendiaries according to the book were led into the building by a man named Heines, a Silesian storm troop leader. The book alleges they entered the reichstag through an underground tunnel from Goering's house carrying with them several hudred pounds of inflammable material. When the building was blazing in several places, they retreated to shelter of Goering's house again and left unsuspected after the police arrived on the scene, according to the book. The book establishes an alibi for Ernst Torgler, communist member of the reichstag, who has been imprisoned ever since the night of the fire.

Much of the book consists of the familiar stories of tortures, beatings and killings which the German government have denounced as "atrocity lies." There are photographs of victims after their beatings, some dead and some alive. As an appendix there is a detailed list of 250 murders alleged to have been committed by the Nazi régime since last March.

"Full Confession" Announced.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Aug. 31.—The German press announced today that Marinus Van der Luebbe, shirtless young Hollander charged with being the chief incendiary of the reichstag "has made a full confession of his act and the motive therefore."

The same newspaper reports add "it is German law to institute proceedings on such established matters of fact and pass sentence on the miscreants. That will be done with Van der Luebbe and those charged with having been his accomplices.

"What else is being ventilated in public opinion abroad can become of moment in a German court only if it can be made sufficiently tenable to induce the court to make juridical use thereof."

CHILD LABOR BAN IN EFFECT TODAY IN MANY FIELDS

Provisions of the President's employment agreement against working children under 16 years of age becomes effective tomorrow for those industries which have not prohibited child labor in their own codes.

Many of the industrial codes provide exceptions permitting employment of children from 14 to 16 in certain occupations outside of school hours. The prohibition applies chiefly to manufacturing and mercantile establishments and not to agriculture.

AIR RACE MEET OPENS TODAY AT GLENVIEW FIELD

Joliet Flyer Forced Down in Qualifying Flight.

Chicago's second air racing meet this summer will open today at Curtiss Reynolds airport, in Glenview, with a program of four closed course races, precision parachute jumping competitions, stunting, and military aircraft formation flying. The meet is the International Air races, to be conducted in connection with the Gordon Bennett balloon race, which will be started tomorrow afternoon.

Yesterday afternoon three of the small racing planes were qualified over an official course for the closed course races. Art Chester of Joliet, flying a Keith Rider racer [Menasco motor], narrowly escaped injury when a gasoline feed line broke as he flew at 220 miles an hour, and he was sprayed with gasoline. He landed hurriedly, forgetting to lower the retractable landing gear, but the plane was not seriously damaged.

Other Flyers Qualify.

Roy Liggett of Omaha, Neb., qualified a Folkerts special racer [Cirrus motor] at 183.59 miles an hour and S. J. Wittman of Oshkosh, Wis., qualified a Wittman racer [Pobjoy motor] at 159.84 miles an hour. Other entries were accepted on qualifying speeds made previously this year.

This morning qualifying dashes will be flown by Gordon Israel, 21 years old, St. Louis racing pilot, in a plane of his own design [Menasco motor]; Walter Bognick, flying a Heath midwing racer [Continental motor], and Bill Reedholm of Grand Junction, Ia., flying a Loose Special, powered by a composite motor.

Meet Starts at 1:30 Today.

The air meet will open at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon with a parachute contest. The races scheduled today are restricted to planes of 200, 375, 550 and 1,000 cubic inch motor displacement. Among the stunt performers will be Lieut. Tito Falconi of Italy, inverted flying specialist, and Maj. Ernest Udet, German ace. The first pursuit group of the army air corps from Selfridge Field, Mich., and a marine corps squadron will execute military maneuvers.

Other stunts on the program include an autogiro exhibition, a delayed opening parachute drop from 10,000 feet and three Hollywood motion picture flyers in a formation stunting team. Kurt Kunau of Chicago has announced that he will give an exhibition of wing walking.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS PROTEST 'SET' SPEECHES OF ADMINISTRATION

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Youthful Democrats, while asserting their backing of President Roosevelt's recovery program, today applauded a protest at the convention of the Young Democratic Clubs of America against "set speeches" by administration spokesmen.

Edward Lee, a delegate from Minnesota, got the floor after Robert Fechner, director of emergency conservation work, completed an address on the civilian conservation work.

"I want to know how long we are going to be asked to sit here and listen to set speeches by these men from Washington?" Lee asked. "Are we going to spend three days here on a set program like this when we came to discuss problems close to the hearts of young men and women in the Democratic movement?"

The crowd applauded.

Several addresses on the program were postponed, including that of Harry H. Woodring, assistant secretary of war.

Joining in Lee's protest, L. R. Sutton of Indiana said it seemed "the whole program is taken up by these eminent speakers and statesmen" without committees having an opportunity to report.

ST. LOUIS AREA SLEEP SICKNESS DEATHS TOTAL 52

Germ of Disease Baffling Science.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—With 52 deaths from sleeping sickness, and 388 pending cases, description of the disease was made public today. It was said that science has not been able to isolate the germ that causes a virus that spreads the disease in the human system.

The University of St. Louis, however, disclosed that in the fatal cases, traces of diseases, other than encephalitis, were discovered. The largest contributing cause was found to be arterial sclerosis. It was stated from other sources that the sleeping sickness itself was an inflamation of the brain and of the covering of the spinal cord. It was added that there is a difference of type between the disease as discovered in St. Louis and elsewhere.

Two Physicians Accused.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Dr. Merrill Wells of this city and Dr. D. M. Morrill, superintendent of Blodgett Memorial hospital here, were charged with failing to report a case of sleeping sickness, in warrants prepared today by Prosecuting Attorney Bartel J. Jonkman, at the request of Dr. J. B. Brook, county health officer.

The charges grew out of the case of Mrs. Gertrude Allender, 50, of Kirkwood, Mo. She was brought to the hospital here Aug. 6, from a summer resort at Black Lake, near Holland, Mich. The case was not reported, Dr. Brook said, until Aug. 28.

Reports Rare Disease.

Canton, Ill., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Hodgkins disease, a rarity in medical circles, is reported as the cause of the death of Charles O. Snively, Cuba. Snively is the second victim of the disease in less than a week.

Sleeping Sickness Death.

Litchfield, Ill., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Walter Bowker, 15, died at his home in Medora Wednesday night of encephalitis. It is reported there are four other cases in Macoupin county.

Death at Jacksonville, Ill.

Bloomington, Ill., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—A report from Jacksonville today revealed that Mrs. Julia Dobbs of Herrick, Ill., had died of encephalitis in the Norbury sanitarium, the third victim of that disease in that vicinity.

Another Victim in East.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 31. — (AP) — Sleeping sickness claimed its second victim within a week today with the death of Margie Johnston, 12, of suburban Aliquippa. William Clough, 15, of Chicago, visiting with friends in another suburb died Monday.

EXTEND '31 TAX DEADLINE A DAY; PAYMENTS SOAR

Crowd of 10,000 Jams Treasurer's Office.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday totaled $1,783,851, making a total of $44,172,399 collected since the enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act, was started on April 28. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the last four years follow:

| | 1928. | 1929. |
|---|---|---|
| Aug. 31 | $ 16,837 | $ 32,031 |
| Uncollected | 17,990,996 | 48,284,284 |
| | 1930. | 1931. |
| Aug. 31 | $ 128,686 | $ 1,606,897 |
| Uncollected | 75,427,414 | 99,806,717 |

County Treasurer McDonough announced late yesterday that the penalty deadline for the payment of the second installment of 1931 real estate taxes would not fall until midnight tonight. This announcement came while thousands of taxpayers were crowding the county treasurer's office in a rush to pay their taxes in the belief that the penalty deadline became effective last night.

Earlier in the week the county treasurer had announced that the delinquency period would begin at midnight Aug. 31. After studying the law yesterday it was decided that the deadline did not fall until midnight Sept. 1, giving real estate owners one more day of grace. After tonight a penalty of 1 per cent a month is assessed on unpaid taxes.

Receipts Cheer Treasurer.

With the arrival of the zero hour for the tax payments, County Treasurer McDonough estimated that more than 50 per cent of all the 1931 real estate taxes will have been paid by midnight tonight. The estimate included several millions of dollars in taxes paid to country town collectors.

Up to and including yesterday and exclusive of mail country town payments and unaudited tax warrant division payments, $80,009,321 of the total 1931 realty tax bill of $179,910,000 had been paid. The unaudited payments will bring the total to approximately $84,500,000, or almost 47 per cent of the entire tax bill. Today's last minute rush, it was expected, will bring the percentage well over 50 per cent.

Large Payments Listed.

Among substantial payments which have been made in the last few days at the tax warrant division, which remain in the unaudited account, were $502,255 by the Commonwealth Edison company, $410,721 by the Marshall Field estate, $333,596 by the New York Central lines, $253,574 by the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, $154,101 by the McCormick estate, $64,510 by the Illinois Central railroad, $55,926 by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and $50,411 by the National Tea company.

COURT HEARS 300 CASES

County Judge Jarecki heard 300 tax receivership petitions presented by the county treasurer yesterday. He appointed the treasurer as receiver for 26 of the properties to enable him to collect the back taxes under the Kerner-Skarda act. Attorneys for the other properties paid a total of $188,000 to avoid receiverships.

The properties placed in receivership owe a total of $129,485. These properties and the amount of taxes owed by each are shown in the following list:

| | |

DEMOCRATIC AID DISPUTES $777,443 INCOME TAX DUES

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—(AP)—William T. Kemper, Democratic national committeeman for Missouri, has filed a petition with the board of tax appeals seeking to avoid payment of $777,443 which the government alleges is due in back income taxes. For 1927 and 1928 Kemper paid a total tax of $626,483. The treasury contends that the amount should have been $1,403,927.

The government alleges Kemper made unauthorized deductions in computing his tax for those years and understated profits from the purchase of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railroad, then in receivership.

The treasury contended this profit was taxable, Kemper that the sum properly was a capital gain, since the stock was held for more than two years and was not taxable as income.

STRICKEN IN PARK; DIES.

Adalbert Horbath, 48 years old, 5131 North Sawyer avenue, was stricken with heart disease yesterday in Grant park and died as he was being taken to a hospital.

WALTER S. BEMIS IS SUED BY WIFE FOR 5 CHILDREN

A petition for the custody of her five children, who were taken from her by a court order last year, was filed by Mrs. Gertrude J. Bemis, 40 years old, 902 Spruce street, Winnetka, yesterday before Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude. Judge Trude set Sept. 30 for a hearing.

Mrs. Bemis has a suit for separate maintenance pending against Walter S. Bemis, a consulting engineer, with offices at 105 West Adams street. Last year, after a hearing in which Mrs. Bemis charged her husband with undue friendliness with his secretary, Elsie Zimmerman, Judge Trude awarded the children to Bemis' mother, Mrs. Annie Bemis, a former county commissioner, who lives at 1473 Lawrence avenue.

Attorney Lloyd Faxon, who represents Mrs. Gertrude Bemis, alleged in the petition filed yesterday that the grandmother has not been taking proper care of the children. The petition also charged that Bemis struck the eldest child, Frederick, 15 years old, last May 29, and that Miss Zimmerman dines with the children. The mother recently returned from California.

JACOBS FIRES 62 MORE, SAVING $8,500 A MONTH

County Assessor J. L. Jacobs continued his economy moves yesterday by discharging sixty-two more employés. This cut will reduce the monthly pay roll in the office by $8,500. There are now 274 employés in the office, and it is believed that Mr. Jacobs contemplates further wholesale cuts, with the possibility that his staff may be reduced to 150.

Last Saturday the assessor dropped twenty-seven employés, including Chief Deputy Harry S. Cutmore and his secretary, Gordon Shea. On Wednesday Mr. Jacobs announced that all employés would be placed under the civil service and a committee of engineers and real estate men plans to conduct the examinations shortly. It was reported that University of Chicago and Northwestern university students might be a large part of the staff personnel under civil service rules, but Mr. Jacobs would not comment on this. He said that the appropriation for his office was nearly exhausted and "extensive changes" were necessary.

DIES AS RESULT OF FALL.

Patrick Galligan, 66 years old, 4325 Lake Park avenue, a clerk, died in the Mercy hospital yesterday morning of injuries which he suffered Monday when he fell on the sidewalk while near his home.

TAX REDUCTION AIM OF MAYOR'S RECOVERY DRIVE

Voluntary Budget Control Is Proposed.

Mayor Kelly, elaborating yesterday on the program of the Chicago Recovery Administration, plans for which he will submit on Sept. 6 to a group of civic and business leaders in his office, disclosed that the administration will be in effect a voluntary budget control commission for the major governments of Cook county.

It was suggested earlier in the year that the legislature establish such a commission, clothing it with statutory powers. The legislature did nothing, however, largely because no way could be found of getting around the constitutional provisions which would prevent the legislature delegating to another body the power to fix tax rates, an essential part of the operation of any budget control scheme.

Mayor Kelly would get around this constitutional bar by making participation in the scheme voluntary on the part of the various governments. Under his plan they would still fix their own tax levies, governed by the tax rate limits set by the legislature, but the levies they fix would be those prescribed by the C. R. A.

Mobilization of Expenditures.

"The administration," said Mayor Kelly, "would set up the distribution of the tax dollar, and also prescribe the manner in which funds thus distributed would be expended. In this way expenditures can be mobilized where the need is greatest. Essential governmental services would not suffer. Non-essential services would be eliminated or reduced as was found necessary.

"The C. R. A. would begin its work by analyzing the budgetary needs of the various governments, keeping in mind that the total tax bill of the county must be reasonable. The body would be a sort of board of estimate and apportionment, distributing among essential governmental services the proceeds of the total tax bill which is reasonable for the public to pay. Under such a system we would not cut $10,000,000, say, from such essential work as fire fighting, only to have some obscure park district add an equal sum to its bill for planting grass.

Taxes Must Be Cut.

"I cannot stress too strongly the necessity for reduction in real estate taxes. I believe they can be cut to 1 per cent of the full valuation of property [they are now approximately 2.7 per cent], but to do this we must find some other form of taxation to bring in the additional revenue which local governments must have. That would require legislative action. The C. R. A. may have to advocate a special legislative session."

As a corollary to the budgetary control activities of the C. R. A., Mayor Kelly said that it should also classify and standardize positions in all local governments, to the end that each government shall pay the same salary for the same type of work.

ILLINOIS IS WARNED IT'S NEAR END OF U. S. FUND FOR RELIEF

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Only two million dollars remains available to Illinois in the government's so-called "matching fund" for relief, it was announced today, and all further federal assistance to the state will be cut off when this money has been exhausted.

The federal emergency relief administration warned Gov. Horner that it does not contemplate granting Illinois additional money outright from the "discretionary" fund from which it makes direct grants to needy states. The "matching fund" is disbursed on the basis of one federal dollar for every three state dollars spent for relief.

Thus far, including a "matching fund" grant of $291,590 made today, Illinois has received a total of $18,348,957, of which $4,240,000 came from the "discretionary" fund.

BY EARL MULLIN.

Attorney General Homer S. Cummings will arrive in Chicago today to make a two day visit to the Fair. The cabinet member will not officially visit the Fair until tomorrow morning, at which time he will be accorded a cabinet member's salute of 19 guns and a review of United States troops from Camp Whistler.

When he arrives in Chicago this afternoon he will be met by United States District Attorney Dwight H. Green and will make an informal visit to the Fair during the evening. At his request all formal functions have been waived and it is probable that no one will recognize the cabinet member in the crowds. It was understood that the visit has no official significance, merely being a trip to see the Exposition.

Pyrotechnic Show Tonight.

The principal event of today's program at the Fair and one of the most colorful single events yet staged will be the fireworks display given in conjunction with Illuminating Engineers' day festivities. The display will be given at the south end of "The Wings of A Century" stage and is under the direction of W. D'Arcy Ryan of the General Electric company.

The basic unit of the exhibit is a battery of 24 searchlights with 1,500,000 candle power. The lights have screens of varying color and will play on streams of fireworks shot into the air and in a smoke screen shot far above the crowd of visitors.

Clouds of Colored Steam.

The grand finale of the fireworks display will see the use of a steam scintillator. This is a series of jets from which live steam is shot at high pressure to form myriad designs, pinwheels, plumes, fans, and huge irregular formations. The colored lights will play on these to fill the sky with the brilliant colors of the rainbow in the most fantastic formations witnessed in a display of this type.

The fireworks show will be staged at 10:15 p. m., following a reception to the Congress of Illuminating Engineers by the General Electric and Westinghouse Electric exhibits on the grounds.

Also featured during the day will be the parade of fraternal bands, floats, drill teams, and choruses. This parade is given in conjunction with Fraternal day at the Fair.

Highlight of yesterday's Fair was the visit of more than 12,000 Holland-Americans participating in Netherlands day at the Fair. A program of pageantry, music, and speeches by leading nationals was given in the court of the Hall of Science. One of the features was singing by a chorus of 1,057 persons dressed in native costumes.

The attendance at 11:30 o'clock last night totaled 171,834. That figure increased the August attendance to 5,828,116, a daily average of 188,003. The total for the thirty-one days of August was approximately 85 per cent as great as that for the sixty-six days of the Fair before Aug. 1.

FAIR TO START PAYING 2 MILLION ON BONDS TODAY

Officials Rush Plans for Razing Buildings.

The Fair will start this morning the payment of $2,000,000 to the bondholders who underwrote the Exposition. This sum represents 20 per cent of the bonded indebtedness and will be paid notwithstanding the fact that bonds are not due until 1935.

Coincident with this payment officials of the Fair, contrary to numerous reports that the Exposition would continue after Nov. 1, began formulating plans for the demolishing of buildings, clearing of grounds and the disbanding of personnel.

Two meetings were held this week between Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of the Exposition, and the directors. A third meeting will be held Monday at which final arrangements will be made. With the definite announcement that the Fair would close on Nov. 1, officials emphasized the fact that there are only 61 more days in which Chicagoans, heretofore lax in their support, may visit the Exposition.

Fourfold Undertaking.

The program of demolishment is divided by the Fair officials into four major parts. First, the Fair must remove all exhibits that are owned by private corporations, do this with expedition and without losing or damaging any of the objects. Second, the huge expensive personnel, which represents thousands of dollars each day the Fair is open, must be disbanded. Third, all buildings not wanted by the south parks must be torn down. Fourth, the entire grounds must be landscaped and placed in the condition they were in at the time the Fair started construction.

Six men now are working night and day digesting the 5,000 individual contracts between the Fair and exhibitors. By Monday a program will be evolved for the removal of a majority of the exhibits in the first two weeks after the closing of the Fair. For many of the exhibits the Fair is financially liable and this portion of the program is causing more worry than any other.

Administration Building to Stay.

The south parks have not yet designated the buildings which are to remain, although it is generally assumed that at least the Administration building will stay. Present plans call for this structure to be used as downtown administration headquarters for the board.

A majority of the employes will be automatically laid off at midnight, Oct. 31. Only a skeleton staff, to superintend the demolishment program, will remain. Many entire departments will be abolished outright.

The buildings not wanted by the park board will either be sold at the grounds and carted off by contractors or torn down by the Fair and sold for whatever they will bring.

In line with the same general program of saving money in every manner possible, the Fair is taking practically all the money in the trust indenture at the present time to pay off the percentage of the bond issue. By the payment of $2,000,000 at this time an interest charge of $10,000 a month is saved.

Another Payment by Oct. 1.

Another payment will be made Oct. 1 or earlier and a third payment as soon as the trust indenture contains more than a million dollars. After today's payment the trust indenture will hold approximately $200,000, which is being augmented by the 40 per cent of the gate attendance, some $40,000 a day.

In addition to the percentage of gate admissions, the trust indenture calling for 40 per cent of the admissions, the trust will be augmented by money from concessions and money remaining from the 60 per cent portion of the admissions after expenses are paid.

Last night $14,062,374.89 had been paid into the Fair by various concessions on the grounds. At the same time $4,800,000 had been paid in gate admissions, exclusive of money derived from pre-opening sales. An optimistic attitude was evident among the officials when this report was studied. For the last two weeks the Fair has been on a cash basis, paying all salaries and bills in cash.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

Thomas P. Henry, president of the American Automobile association, will make the principal address at a dinner at 7 o'clock tonight in the Administration building preliminary to the opening of Automotive week at the Fair tomorrow. President Rufus C. Dawes of A Century of Progress will be host to a large gathering of leaders of the automotive industry.

A "queen" for South Side day at the Fair, Sept. 15, will be selected through contests in various theaters on the south side, according to the committee in charge of arrangements for the day's program. Any girl more than 16 years old and unmarried residing on the south side is eligible to enter the contest, either by sending her photograph with address and telephone number or registering in person at an authorized theater. The theaters selected by the committee to conduct the preliminary contests will be announced within a few days.

Six newsboys, who were winners in a subscription contest conducted by the Chattanooga [Tenn.] News, end a five day visit to the Fair today.

The World's Fair grand championship cat show will be opened tomorrow in the Domestic Animal building and continue three days. Cats of all descriptions will compete for the many prizes offered.

Practically all the major attractions at the Fair are included among those offering two for the price of one rates tomorrow, Concessionaires' Bargain day. From the lagoon boats and Sky Ride in the north part of the grounds to the dog show and "Days of '49" at the south end, dimes, quarters, and half dollars will do double duty until 6 p. m.

A party of 300 German singers, the Gottfried-Krueger association and the Northwestern Sangerbund of New York City, will arrive in Chicago on a special train over the Grand Trunk railroad Sunday. They will spend three days visiting the Fair.

An average daily attendance of more than 5,000 persons is reported by the International Salon of Photography in the General Exhibits building. The display includes 735 photographs from 22 different countries and is sponsored by the Chicago Camera club.

Dinkelsbuehl Kinderzeche, the annual festival of Dinkelsbuehl, Bavaria, will be observed Sept. 6 in the Midget village, which was modeled after that city. The festival will be a memorial to the children of the city who saved the lives of all the male residents when Dinkelsbuehl was conquered by the Swedish army during the Thirty Years' war.

Jimmy Henshel's orchestra will play at the General Motors building from 2 to 5 p. m. and again from 8 to 10 p. m. Labor day, when the Chevrolet assembly line will not be working. Motion pictures in the auditorium throughout the day will be another attraction.

HOLIDAY CROWD OF HALF MILLION SEEN FOR FAIR

Half a million persons are expected to attend the Labor day celebration at A Century of Progress Exposition on Monday, when the Chicago Federation of Labor will present a program in the court of the Hall of Science featuring Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, chief of the national recovery administration.

Gen. Johnson will speak at 3:53 o'clock, his speech to be broadcast by WCFL and picked up by a nationwide radio hookup. William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, will speak from Akron, O., the speech to be broadcast in the court of the Hall of Science at 1:45 o'clock. Frank Morrison, secretary, A. F. of L., will speak from Pittsburgh, Pa., at 2:45 o'clock, over the radio. Cavallo's Symphonic band will provide music in intermissions.

A program of international songs, including choruses and solos, will begin at noon, in which Americans of Swedish, German, Polish, Lithuanian, English, Scotch, and Irish extraction will take part.

MEDAL FOR MAN WHO HIT HUEY NOT NOW A JEST

New Yorkers Will Carry Proposition Through.

New York, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Plans for raising funds to strike off a gold medal for the man who bruised Huey Long's eye, announced in jest yesterday, received such a response that they were taken up in earnest today.

Owen P. White, author, southern gentleman and grizzled plainsman, who suggested the move, said he had received so many contributions that he would go through with it.

After conferring with an artist, White said the medal would show a kingfish, wearing a black eye and boxing gloves, and reclining in a washstand.

The original of the medal will be held in reserve for the man who struck the Louisiana senator, if he ever emerges from anonymity. If his identity is not established, the medal will be offered to the Sands Point club on Long Island, where the incident occurred, for its trophy room.

Sold to Public.

Cheaper copies, made of bronze, will be sold to the public and the proceeds turned over to the committee of New Orleans women headed by Mrs. Hilda Phelps Hammond which is organizing a nation-wide campaign for Long's ouster from the senate.

Senator Long, at New Orleans, characterized Mrs. Hammond's committee as an organization of "ousted politicians hiding behind the skirts of women."

Hit by Negro Musician?

New York, Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Local southerners are waiting with bated breath for Louisiana's reaction to the latest version of how Senator Huey P. Long received his now historic poke in the nose last Saturday evening at the Sands Point Bath club on Long Island.

The story, printed under screaming headlines by the Amsterdam News, a Harlem Negro newspaper, charges that Huey's assailant was Dallas Turner, a Negro musician employed by the club, and not the five gangsters to whom the senator attributed his injuries.

"Boisterous and offensive," says the News account, "Long had been abusive to the Negro help all evening. He is alleged to have approached the orchestra and said: 'Why don't you stop trying to play white folks' music. You ought to play good nigger music.'

"The senator continued his harangue. Turner left the orchestra to go to the lavatory. The senator followed.

Women Demand Ouster.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 31.—(AP)—While he rested in his home here tonight Senator Huey P. Long learned of a new challenge to his political leadership in Louisiana. The "women's committee of Louisiana" today disclosed plans for a nation-wide organization of women pledged to seek the ouster from the senate of Senator Long and his friend and colleague, Senator John H. Overton, "for total unfitness for office."

WILSON BODYGUARD RETIRES.

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 31.—(AP)—John A. Adams, secret service chief in the Syracuse district of 16 counties and one time bodyguard for Presidents Wilson, Roosevelt, and Taft, resigned on pension today after completing his report for the month.

Huey's Fistic Reputation Suffers Decline Since Famous Long Island Encounter

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 31.—[Special.]—It is now being said of Senator Huey Long that he has never lost a foot race and never won a fight and I am beginning to think that after the boys have softened him up a little more there will be one bloke that I might be able to lick myself.

This is a pretty hard thing to say about any man who fancies himself as a fist fighter, because I learned long ago that I couldn't fight a lick, as we say, and began to build up a sort of sour grapes defense against this rather depressing conclusion. I have spent many an evening glaring at more or less expert fist fighters in the ring and, knowing that these boys had something on me there, I found it a comfort to reflect that they cannot play the typewriter as well as I can.

Huey's Immunity Falls Him.

You may say that one cannot inflict as much hurt playing a typewriter as a good puncher can with a furious volley of lefts and rights to the head and body, but I don't know about that. After the person, or, as he insists, the persons, unknown got through hanging a shiner or shanty on Huey's left eye, the typewriters went to work on him and it is quite possible that when the typewriters have finished with the episode he will have been worse damaged in the newspapers than he was hurt in the gents' room of the club on Long Island where, apparently, he overspoke himself and found that his parliamentary immunity was a broken arm. It not only didn't protect him but the knowledge that his most effective weapon was useless probably encouraged the person, or persons, unknown to bust him another one for luck.

I don't want to fight Huey just yet. In weight and age we are about alike, but when I fight him I want to be sure and I don't think he is quite ready for me. I am as ready as I ever will be, but he will not be ready, to my satisfaction, until he has had at least half a dozen more busts in the nose. Each of these busts should soften him up a little more and raise my confidence a corresponding trifle.

Statesmen Not Prize Fighters.

That is, I hope they will soften him up, although he might resemble Baer in his reaction to punishment, and Baer is a fighter who used to beat his head against a radiator pipe in his dressing room to toughen it. If Huey is like that, then his nose ought to be almost indestructible by this time. That is one chance that I will have to take, I suppose.

I have often been told that Huey is very smart, whatever else may be said of him, but he has conducted himself foolishly in this case. If he did have an argument with a man and the man busted him one, no harm could have come of his admitting to the convention of veterans in Milwaukee that he had taken a punching around. Everybody has been punched around more or less at some stage of his career and if it is fist fighters that the citizens want for their statesmen they have overlooked some great material in the gymnasiums of all the large prize fight centers.

Why Not Tell the Truth?

He could have made a better and more honest impression on the veterans and the citizens in general if he had said, "Well, I never could fight my way out of a cloud of smoke and when I got into this argument one word led to another and he hauled off and popped me one."

Everybody would have understood that and he wouldn't have lost anything by the admission, for there are very few people around who can fight their way out of a cloud of smoke. Most males like to think that they can fight well enough to resent affronts to their ancestry or their opinions, but it is a very good thing for the mass pride that the spirit of compromise is so strong nowadays.

Otherwise this pleasant illusion would be licked out of most men inside a year because any gymnasium keeper will tell you that if you should shoo a hundred men, picked at random off the streets, into the practice rings, match them for weights and tell them to start fighting, there wouldn't be half a dozen with the strength to stand up, much less fight, at the end of three rounds.

Arguments Will Occur.

But a man with a few dollars could hire some very good fighters to go around licking people with whom he happens to have casual arguments, showing that even if he were able to attend to these chores himself that wouldn't add much to him.

Still I know how it is. There is an argument with a rough character and developments rush along until it is a case of compromise or get busted a couple. You may compromise or even go away hurriedly, as Huey seems to have done on several occasions in his political career, thinking, "O, well, even if he can lick me, the truth is mighty and shall prevail without any assistance from me."

Some Comfort in This.

It is cold comfort also to know that, though he is the better fighter, you can beat him playing rhummy.

I guess I still must have a little of the brute man in me, for my ego still desires, in spite of all this reason, to say that there is some one I can lick, and, from my reading of the battle of the gents' room, I believe I am coming to the point, or Senator Long is coming to the point, where he is likely to be it.

ENTERTAINER, 19, HELD FOR PROBE OF RAPE CHARGES

Yvonne Du Mont, 19 year old cabaret entertainer who came to Chicago recently from Indianapolis, told police early yesterday that she had been kidnaped and raped by two youths who forced her into their car as she was walking west in the 4200 block on North avenue.

The girl said the young men, one of whom carried a revolver, took her to Norwood Park, where they attacked her. She was also robbed of a suitcase, she said. Passersby, she said, brought her to the Irving Park police station, from which she was transferred to the Cragin district station.

Cragin police were skeptical of the girl's story, reporting that she had just been evicted from the Lion hotel, 4250 West North avenue, for nonpayment of rent. She was detained pending an investigation of her charges.

BLUE EAGLE NO PROTECTION TO MOONSHINERS

Morganton, N. C., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Moonshiners of Burke county have found the Blue Eagle affords them no protection.

Deputy Sheriff G. S. Hildebran, capturing a 70 gallon copper still and 400 gallons of beer near here yesterday, spied on a nearby tree the familiar symbol of the NRA with its legend: "We do our part."

When he made his report he turned in the Blue Eagle. Underneath he had scrawled: "I done my part."

AMY MOLLISON, ENGLISH PILOT, FLIES TO FAIR

Amy Johnson Mollison, famous English woman pilot, who recently flew from Great Britain to the United States with her husband, Capt. James Mollison, landed in the lagoon at A Century of Progress yesterday in a Sikorsky amphibion plane [Wasp motors] piloted by Maj. Gil Ervin of the Shell Petroleum corporation. She was accompanied by Capt. James G. Haizlip and his wife, Mae Haizlip, both famous pilots.

Mrs. Mollison was the guest of honor at a luncheon in the trustees' room at the Fair tendered by the Shell organization. She attended the banquet of the Society of Automotive Engineers at the Palmer house last night and is leaving for the east today.

WILD DEER IN ILLINOIS.

Jerseyville, Ill., Aug. 31.—(AP)—For the first time in many years a wild deer has been seen in Jersey county, Illinois, residents of the Rosedale district say. The animal was seen at the farm of Parley Phipps, where it was feeding in a pasture with cattle.

SMALL PORTION OF EASY MONEY FOR MIDWEST

Britten Demands Faster Illinois Action.

I cannot enter any protest with the administration for failing to give them consideration. I have been waiting for the presentation of a building program by Illinois officials. When that is offered, I will exert myself to the utmost to gain its prompt adoption."

Senator Dieterich was asked if he did not consider it to be his duty to see the program was prepared. He replied he believed that responsibility rested with the state and municipal officials. He declared, however, he would dispatch a letter to Gov. Horner immediately asking him what progress has been made toward formulating a program.

"When the matter is before the administration," Senator Dieterich added, "I will consider it my imperative duty to promote it vigorously, and if it is denied approval I shall register emphatic protest."

Speaker Henry T. Rainey, who, as an Illinoisan in high place, might have exerted pressure for the more equitable treatment of his state, was reported by his office here to be resting at his home at Carrollton, Ill.

For Rivers and Harbors.

A relatively small proportion of the easy money funds via the war department's rivers and horbors projects was awarded to the Chicago area. This is more or less a routine allotment. A long list of these projects, to cost $68,691,400, was announced. In these allotments Chicago was given $2,092,700 for the improvement of Columet harbor and the Calumet river. For dredging in the Illinois river, $910,000 was allowed, and for the same purpose the public works administration provided $3,000,000 for the Mississippi river between the mouths of the Ohio and the Illinois rivers.

A total of $12,300,900 was authorized for the five Chicagoland states: Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, and Michigan. This is all for river and harbor work.

Huge Funds for New York.

The day's grants, however, were only a veritable drop in the bucket, compared to the many millions which have been doled out to east, west, and south by the public works board. They were trivial compared with yesterday's allotments of $37,500,000 lent to the City of New York for building another tunnel under the Hudson, and $15,415,000 for 14 irrigation projects, all in western states.

Today's allotments to the war department included $2,450,000 for lock and dam construction and $1,425,000 for open channel work on the Ohio river. The federal government has spent many millions in providing adequate navigational facilities on the Ohio, but it has been grudging in consenting to give support to the Illinois lakes to the gulf waterway, which engineers of the great lakes states rate of greater importance.

Six Millions for Kanawha.

Other allotments today include $6,015,000 for locks and dams in the Kanawha river in West Virginia; $4,200,000 in the Caloosahatchee river and Lake Okeechobee drainage areas, Florida; $4,600,000 for the Cape Cod canal, Massachusetts; $1,500,000 for the Sabin-Neches waterway, Texas; $1,500,000 for the Houston ship channel, Texas; $2,500,000 for Brazos island harbor, Texas; $1,650,000 for the Los Angeles and Long Beach harbors, California; $1,276,000 for the Duluth-Superior harbor, Minnesota; $1,077,000 for Conneaut harbor, Ohio;

$15,000,000 Federal Road Aid for Illinois Approved by U. S.

BY HAL FOUST.

Director Robert Kingery of the state department of public works announced yesterday that the federal government had approved projects totaling $15,000,000 out of Illinois' allotment of $17,500,000 of federal funds for highway construction under the industrial recovery act.

The program, as prepared by the state highway department, lists $7,000,000 worth of street work in Chicago and a total of $9,000,000 for Cook county. Some of the street jobs were not approved by the United States bureau of public roads and will be resubmitted by the Illinois department under descriptions that might qualify them for federal funds.

"Construction will be started promptly," said Mr. Kingery, "and within 90 days 4,000 men should be directly employed on this federal road work. Almost as many other men will be indirectly employed in the preparation and delivery of materials."

Million Above Allotment.

The program submitted to the United States bureau of public roads by the Illinois highway department listed projects to cost $18,673,000, a million in excess of the allotment to this state. The bureau approved $4,807,000 for rural federal aid roads, $7,219,800 for federal aid highway extensions into municipalities, and $6,646,200 for rural secondary roads, but refused to approve $2,000,000 for municipal extensions of these secondary roads.

Most of the city streets that were knocked out of the program by this government ruling can be reclassified as extensions of federal aid routes. In Chicago, for example, all of the important arteries connect with state highways that have received federal aid.

Police Promote Carnival to Get Car, Machine Gun

The two man police force of Hillside is not relying on taxes to provide a new squad car and a machine gun to cope with hoodlums who use the nine state highways going through the village. Chief Adam Stang yesterday announced that a three day carnival to raise the necessary funds will be held beginning tomorrow at Wolf and Butterfield roads.

FRANKING EVIL CONDEMNED BY POSTAL WORKERS

Want Congressmen to Give Public Accounting.

Members of the United National Association of Postoffice Clerks, in a resolution passed yesterday in the final day of their convention at the Stevens hotel, urged that the government alter its accounting system to show taxpayers how much each senator, representative and federal bureaucrat costs the government a year through his exercise of the franking privilege.

The resolution, which is subject to committee amendment before being presented to postoffice officials and congress, follows:

"Resolved, that our national officers be instructed to petition the appropriation committees of our upper and lower houses to appropiate a fund for the handling of franked mail, regardless of class and origin, and that the books used in the handling of this fund be open to the inspection of the public."

An Artificial Deficit.

The attitude of the postal employés on the matter was outlined by Charles J. Watrouse of Chicago, chairman of the convention committee of the Chicago local of the organization, which was host to the convention.

"The $100,000,000 deficit reported by the postoffice department each year is an artificial deficit," said Mr. Watrouse, "created by an obsolete bookkeeping system inaugurated by the British and in use since colonial times.

"Politicians enjoying the free franking privilege send carloads of political mail during election campaigns, in addition to their routine mail. The postoffice hires the employés and bears the expenses of delivering this mail, yet does not get credit for the work on its books, as no record of this volume of mail is kept by the department.

"The same applies to bureaus and departments of the government, which are able to boast that they operate on an economical basis because no charge is made against them for the franking privilege. The postoffice department is not credited with carrying this additional mail, yet congress charges the department with running in the red at the rate of $100,000,000 a year.

Debit Each Officeholder.

"We demand a system of books which will debit each officeholder and department with the mail franked during the year. Then when we protest against salary cuts, they can't tell us the department is in the red. We wouldn't be in the red if the books were kept right."

The convention also passed resolutions urging an increase in second class postal rates to wipe out the departmental deficit, requesting national officials to seek an interview with President Roosevelt and attempt to get back the 15 per cent pay cut ordered for postoffice employés and authorizing propaganda for a 30 hour week, without a reduction in pay, for postoffice employés.

Plane Lost Since Tuesday Found in California Bay

MEXICO, D. F., Aug. 31.—(AP)—The air mail and passenger plane piloted by Mack R. Ayres, which had been missing in the bay of California since Tuesday, was found yesterday by Charles L. Bucher, pilot for the Central American airways. The plane was located off the mouth of the Culiatan river, near Altata, in the state of Sinaloa.

AUTO DESIGNERS TOLD TO WATCH HUMAN FACTORS

Urged to Learn More of Buyer's Wants.

The successful automobile designer of the future must go beyond his engineering handbooks and obtain a better understanding of the human factor. Henry G. Weaver of Detroit, director of the customers' research staff of General Motors corporation, gave this advice last night at a dinner of the International Automotive congress at the Palmer house.

"Research in the realms of the physical sciences must be supplemented with a more definite and systematic knowledge of the tastes and desires of the ultimate consumer," he said. "In the early days of the industry the automobile was nothing more than a piece of machinery, and all too frequently it was not a particularly satisfactory machine at that.

Human Factors in Design.

"In contrast to most mechanical products the modern motor car is what we call a social instrument as well as a transportation machine. The instinctive human desire to go about more rapidly is complicated by the social desire for style, appearance, comfort, and other factors which do not lend themselves to laboratory analysis.

"The automobile designer must take into account the coördination between the mechanical problems and the human equation. The design of a restful seat must reckon with anatomy and posture. The operation of the controls must conform to the most natural movements of the feet, legs, and arms. The design of a little thing like a foot throttle must take into account the physiology of the leg muscles and the possibility of nerve strain.

"Thus it is necessary for the designer to look beyond the engineering handbooks and interest himself in such things as physiology, psychology, and neurology."

Gets Guggenheim Medal.

The Guggenheim medal for outstanding service in aviation was awarded at last night's session of the congress to Commander J. C. Hunsaker, vice president of the Goodyear Zeppelin corporation, president of the Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences, Inc., and officer of two projected transoceanic airship lines. Commander Hunsaker was recently appointed head of the department of mechanical engineering of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The Bendix trophy was awarded to Roscoe Turner, winner of the transcontinental race this year, by Vincent Bendix, the donor. Mr. Bendix is president of the Bendix Aviation corporation and is a former president of the Society of Mechanical Engineers.

DRY CONFERENCE ADOPTS PLAN TO FIGHT REPEAL

Will Invade All 24 States Remaining to Vote.

Still hopeful of stemming the tide of prohibition repeal despite the 24 to 0 scare against the drys in the states' balloting on ratification of the 21st amendment, the regional conference of the Anti-Saloon league, meeting in Chicago, yesterday promulgated a six point program which will govern its national policies.

Point No. 1 on the program calls for "an increasing campaign to retain the 18th amendment." Under this heading it is stated that the league will not surrender, but will offer the utmost resistance to further ratification of the repeal amendment.

Plan Drive in Each State.

"In every state still to vote," says the paragraph, "the league will carry on an aggressive and uncompromising campaign of organization and agitation to defeat repeal and record the largest vote possible against it."

The other points are: No. 2, a campaign to hold or retain state and local prohibition laws; No. 3, agitation for the election of dry executives and enforcement officers; No. 4, a continuous and comprehensive campaign to get the highest possible proportion of the voters to vote in all primaries and elections; No. 5, a campaign of education to teach every one the fundamental fact that beverage alcohol is a narcotic habit forming drug, always dangerous and often deadly; No. 6, a uniform nation-wide young people's movement for total abstinence and prohibition.

Seek to Control Elections.

Under the heading on retention and regaining of state and local dry laws, the program declares:

"The league will work for the nomination and election of dry councilmen in villages and cities, dry legislators in states, dry senators and representatives in the national congress, for the purpose of securing the most effective and extensive local, state, and national prohibition laws."

The propaganda campaign, says the program, will be carried on "by all possible methods and means, including radio, silent and sound pictures, literature, newspaper publicity, educational dramas, debates, lessons and lectures in the public schools, Sunday schools and churches, clubs, societies, and home groups."

The conference, which closed yesterday, was attended by the state superintendents of ten central western states and by Dr. F. Scott McBride, general superintendent.

BEER IS BRINGING BACK BANDS, SAYS ARTHUR PRYOR

The opening of thousands of beer gardens throughout the country is bringing band music back into favor Arthur Pryor, famous bandmaster, said yesterday at the opening of the convention of the American Bandmasters' association at the Stevens hotel. The American people are again demanding the old fashioned type of music formerly heard in the better beer gardens, and this included much classical music, Mr. Pryor said.

"Dance orchestras, called 'bands,' are all right for indoor music, but they fail out of doors," the bandmaster said.

Shortage of Whisky Seen After Repeal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Recognizing the danger of a liquor famine in the event of early repeal, the government has pried the lid off whisky production, it was learned today. The government has gone so far as to suggest to old distilleries that they resume operations.

Although the bureau of industrial alcohol still is setting the quotas on liquor production required by law, it is prepared to revise the quotas upward as fast as the distillers exhaust them.

Increase Quota Four Times.

Following out this policy, Dr. James M. Doran, commissioner of industrial alcohol, today announced that he "rather thought" that he would boost this year's quota again before long. The quota already has been raised to 10,000,000 gallons, from an original 3,000,000 and is four times the limit usually set since the advent of prohibition.

To further speed the production of liquors with which to quench the country's 14 year thirst, the bureau has circularized old distilleries, suggesting that they begin production again. They have been assured a share of the new quotas if they renovate their plants.

18 Million Gallons on Hand.

Only seven operating distilleries are now registered with the bureau of industrial alcohol, compared with 72 in the last year before prohibition and more than 1,250 in the heydey of the wet era. Only two more are known to be in the process of restoration.

Warehouse stocks of whisky amount to only about 18,500,000 gallons, according to the bureau, and of these stocks only about 4,300,000 gallons are sufficiently aged to be used. Average consumption before prohibition was 55 million gallons a year, and it has gone as high as 80,000,000 gallons.

Rushing of current production will not help the situation immediately after repeal unless some process for speeding up the "aging" of whisky can be found, officials admit. Ordinarily four years are required to mellow whisky. There are, however, several patented processes for aging it by electrolysis.

GEORGE ROGERS CLARK SHRINE DEDICATION IS SET FOR SUNDAY

Vincennes, Ind., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—The national shrine in memory of George Rogers Clark who captured Fort Sackville from the British here on Feb. 25, 1779, will be dedicated Sunday, Sept. 3.

Clark's victories, almost two years before the surrender of Lord Cornwallis at Yorktown, gained for the American revolutionary forces the land for the Northwest Territory, from which later was formed the states of Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, and Wisconsin.

The dedication falls on the 150th anniversary of the Treaty of Paris, Sept. 3, 1783, which ended that war, ceded the Northwest Territory to the United States. The Clark Memorial bridge on the Lincoln highway over the Wabash river at Vincennes also will be dedicated. Both structures cost nearly $3,000,000.

Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio, chairman of the national Clark commission, will represent President Roosevelt and will be the principal speaker. Govs. Paul V. McNutt of Indiana and Henry Horner of Illinois as well as other state and national leaders will attend.

Move to Quash Indictment in Luer Kidnap Case Denied

Edwardsville, Ill., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Defense attorneys for Michael Musiala, charged with kidnaping August Luer, wealthy Alton banker, were overruled by Circuit Judge D. H. Mudge in their motion to have their client's indictment squashed.

Letter to Concert Manager Here Revealed.

Dispatches yesterday from Athens, Greece, quoted Samuel Insull as complaining that letters he had sent to Chicago relatives and friends had been tampered with.

Insull said, according to the dispatches, that extracts from the text of letters he had sent to Chicago were published in Chicago newspapers on the very day of their delivery.

To mislead the tamperers, the dispatches stated, Insull deliberately wrote to his son, Samuel Insull Jr., the false information that he planned to return to the United States voluntarily, and observed that the information was immediately published here.

Revelation of Insull's complaints provoked considerable mystification here. Federal authorities said that to their knowledge there had been no tampering with his letters.

Letter from Italy Revealed.

With one exception, they pointed out, there has been no publication of any of his correspondence, the exception being a letter he mailed from an Italian town to his wife while he was in flight from Paris to Athens, accompanied by his son. That missive fell into the hands of Italian postal authorities, who made its contents public.

The only other Insull letter coming to public notice was one he sent recently to a Chicago concert manager concerning an Irish singer, Miss Margherita Sheridan, for whom he seemed desirous of promoting an American tour.

The letter indicated that Insull, notwithstanding the anxiety arising from his impending battle to resist extradition to the United States for alleged violation of the federal bankruptcy act, had time to be concerned over the singer's artistic success.

Text of Insull Letter.

"My dear Miss ——: I was obliged to refer Mr. Aylesworth to my son, Junior, as all business is in his hands and the stock in McEnroe's name belongs to Mrs. Insull, and Junior runs all her affairs. I have written Junior that I rely on you absolutely as my friend, but that I am not so sure of the attitude of the other parties.

"I am writing this letter to your house, as I want to write you about Miss Margherita Sheridan (Peggy Sheridan), who was here with a yachting party a few weeks ago. I first met her through the late T. P. O'Connor, the London journalist, and made a contract with her to join the Chicago Civic Opera company, but the contract was never carried out.

"Singer Popular in Europe."

"She had an idea that Polacco and Johnson were both unfriendly to her, so decided not to come to Chicago. She was quite popular in Italy and also in England for some years, and was a La Scala and Covent Garden prima donna for some years. Her records (Columbia) are very popular in this part of the world. She has 'it,' speaks with a pretty Irish accent, and is, I should say, about 35 to 37 years old, is rather pretty and bright and attractive, but as I told her, is too stout and should reduce her weight, which she told me she could easily do.

"She is the only international Irish artist who is not known at all in America. In ordinary times she should be good for a big concert tour in the U. S. A. and Canada—then to New Zealand and Australia and back to England by way of the far east or South Africa, and in ordinary times money could be made out of her and she could make a good deal for herself. Could anything be done for her in these times?

"Her tour around the world would have to finance itself, as she has no personal means of any consequence. I am writing to you as, notwithstanding your last letter, I am wondering if you want to be in a position to take her as your personal artist. If the idea is of any interest to you, let me know. If you want to have Sheridan and cannot get her records let me know and I will see that she sends you some.

"If there is any chance of doing anything, Sheridan, who has quite powerful friends with the London press, could go in, I think, for a preliminary concert tour for publicity purposes in addition to her operatic background as a basis of American publicity.

"She has no contracts with anybody, not even for records, as, although Columbia has some of her records, she has no continuing contract. She sold her records for a lump sum.

"Let me hear from you on the subject.

"With my very best wishes,

"SAMUEL INSULL."

Kane County Old Settlers Hear Tribute to Pioneers

The early history of the Fox River valley was described yesterday by Attorney Charles W. Hadley of Wheaton in an address before the Kane County Old Settlers' reunion at Phillips park, Aurora. Mr. Hadley is a former chairman of the Illinois commerce commission. "The first pioneers came to the valley a century ago, Jacob Carpenter to Montgomery, Christopher Payne to Batavia, and Haight to Geneva," said Mr. Hadley, "and in the following year, 1834, Joseph and Samuel McCarthy came to settle here at Aurora, and to dam the river and build their mill."

3 MEN HELD AS TORTURE KILLERS OF WIDOW, 82

Two More Are Maimed by Bandits; Women Raped.

BULLETIN.

Robinson, Ill., Sept. 1. (Friday).—(Special.)—Forty automobiles loaded with about 200 men from Newton bent on lynching three prisoners held as suspects in the murder of Mrs. Mary Schroeder at Newton were met at the city limits here early today by a dozen state policemen. The officers succeeded in turning back about half of the group, but the others passed them as they talked and drove to the jail, where they were joined by 100 others from Robinson. Sergt. J. E. Griffon said he believed his force was able to control the crowd, but declared he would summon 25 more policemen if the mob became unruly.

Newton, Ill., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Three men were seized by detectives in Indianapolis, Ind., tonight as the torture bandits who raped and killed Mrs. Mary Schroeder, 82, wealthy widow; raped her daughter, Anna, 47, and critically injured Mrs. Schroeder's brother, Bernard Weldon, 84, on a lonely farm near this city.

The three prisoners were taken to Danville, Ill., where neighbors of Mrs. Schroeder identified them as the men who had inquired the way to her farm on Monday evening. The bandits entered the Schroeder home on Tuesday evening and attempted to force the two octogenarians to reveal the hiding place of money. It was not until today that the crime became known when Anna Schroeder was able to crawl to a school house for help.

Angry Crowd Gathers.

Angry groups of farm folk, who have been friends and neighbors of the slain woman for more than 50 years, began to gather in Newton tonight when it became known that the prisoners were being brought to the jail at Robinson. There was little demonstration, but authorities were maintaining a strict guard to prevent a possible lynching.

The three men gave their names as Harry Shelby, 25, of Danville, Ill.; John Allen, 25, of Danville; and Henry Peck, 45, of Indianapolis. They were identified by George Sear and Otto Hippler of Newton as the men who had loitered near Mrs. Schroeder's home. Neighbors, believing that a robbery might be attempted Monday night had watched the farm, but no one appeared. Officers said Peck admitted lending his car to a stranger who drove it to Newton last Monday, but he denies he was in the car.

Beat Victims.

The next evening, however, according to the story told by Miss Schroeder from a hospital bed, the three men burst into the farm house and demanded $20,000 from the aged couple. When both Mrs. Schroeder and Weldon pleaded that there was no money in the home the men stripped all three of their victims of their shoes and held burning matches against the soles of their feet.

When they still insisted that there was no money in the house the bandits seized iron pokers and beat both the women and the man. Weldon's injuries from this beating may be so severe as to cost his life, physicians said last evening.

Roped to Bed.

Miss Schroeder said that the men then took her and her mother into a bedroom and tore off their clothing. The women were roped and wired to the beds and each attacked several times by the robbers. The men took $10 in currency which was found in a drawer and fled leaving their victims still bound. It was not until today that Miss Schroeder was able to free herself.

Weldon today said that he had been the victim of a similar attack about 10 years ago when members of a gang entered his home, bound him and his brother, Henry, and escaped with $3,600. He said he made no report to the police at that time because the gangsters had warned him that they would return and kill him if he did.

It was the license number of the small coupe in which all three of the men who inquired their way to the Schroeder home were riding which led to the arrest of the prisoners. The license was traced to Indianapolis and the men were seized in the car there.

TREASURER OF KANSAS LET OUT OF JAIL FOR OFFICIAL BUSINESS

Topeka, Kas., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Tom Boyd, state treasurer, was released from the county jail today long enough to attend the monthly meeting of the state treasury board. His presence is required at all executive meetings, even if he is a prisoner.

Boyd asked for a check of cash held in the treasury. It was failure to check the $50,000,000 securities held in the treasury vault that allowed Ronald Finney to substitute some of his alleged forged paper for bona fide bonds, thus landing both himself and the state treasurer in jail on charges of conspiracy, forgery, and embezzlement.

Boyd's shifting of $150,000 in deposits to the Eureka bank, controlled by the Finney family, created a scandal that threatens even Gov. Landon's administration when the legislature begins sifting evidence on which to base impeachment proceedings.

Today's meeting of the treasury board was for the purpose of letting state deposits to banks on bids. The Finney banks are closed.

Investigators promise a new sensation soon. It is said that the head of one of the biggest banks in the state will be arrested.

CHECKER TAXI HEARING TO BE CLOSED TODAY

After hearing the testimony of 130 Checker taxi drivers relative to their financial dealings with their company, Special Master in Chancery Charles Eldredge, sitting in the United States court house, last night adjourned until this morning at 10 o'clock his inquiry into the tangled litigation between drivers and employers.

Defense attorneys said they had 460 more drivers ready to be heard, but declared they would abide by the order of Federal Judge John P. Barnes who designated yesterday as the only time during which testimony might be taken. The testimony of the company's rebuttal witnesses is expected to be taken today.

The fight between the company and drivers has resulted in the Checker company's seeking to seize the cabs of drivers who have allegedly not kept up with their installments, insurance, garage and other payments. Mr. Eldredge is expected to have his report ready late this afternoon for submission to Judge Barnes. The judge will rule on the case tomorrow.

TWO NEGROES CONFESS RAPING, KILLING OF GIRL

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Two Negro cotton pickers today led officers to a field southeast of here. They pointed out the body of Miss Katherine Prince, 18, whom they had kidnaped, raped, and murdered last night.

Meanwhile Mace Garver, escort of Miss Prince, lay in a hospital. He may not recover from bullet wounds inflicted by the prisoners, Thurman and Bluit Burkeley, brothers. He was shot when he resisted their order to leave them with the girl after they had surprised him and Miss Prince in his automobile on a lonely road.

CLAIRE WINDSOR IN LETTERS VOWS LOVE FOR BROKER

ters, a telegram and a long distance call, you are a dear to do that.

"I spent a miserable night last night. I wakened and thought something terrible was happening to me, everything was dancing before my eyes. I fell back on my bed, the lights in the park were dancing so I called the telephone operator and had her wait until I was all right. It made me upset the rest of the night. I should hate after all this to have a breakdown. I am sure it is because I need you, dear. I need a protector and some one to love me as I know you do. I only hope I will feel well and rested when I see you.

"I love you, my sweet.

"CLAIRE."

Lectures Railroad Man.

This was followed by another dated the same day.

"Dearest:

"I have written two letters and sent them air mail, but for some strange reason I fear I put N. Y. on them instead of Chicago. I sent a clipping in each letter—let me know if you didn't get them. I will be glad when we can shout to the world that it's really going to happen—something happened last night that makes me appreciate you all the more, you are so sweet, so clean minded, it is something I'll tell you when I see you, but be assured that I held my own and told the party what's what.

"Meeting a rich railroad man, he complimented me in not drinking, called me a lovely lady, but what fun could a man have with a girl who didn't drink? Well, I told him I didn't do anything that was bad for me—I wasn't out to amuse any man, wasn't interested in whoopee nor was I a play girl.

"You just called me from Chicago and I've told you all this over again, so with your sweet voice in my ear I am going to close and put my tired body on the bed. You are so dear. Please believe me when I say I won't do anything I can't tell you or would I hurt you. Always my fondest love,

"CLAIRE."

Miss Windsor Regains Poise.

Miss Windsor regained her poise as time went on, and Mrs. Read seemed to show nervous strain. She heard one of her husband's letters after another, then for a time took refuge in Judge Joseph Sproul's room just off the courtroom.

The voice of the seemingly tireless clerk continued; he read Miss Windsor's letter of Sept. 20, 1931. She had written:

"I think I'll go out dancing tomorrow night after rehearsals as a friend of mine just came in from Paris—Willie K. Vanderbilt Jr. He is related to Gloria Vanderbilt and while I visited her in Paris he was often invited as an extra man to fill in—he's not interested in me, darling, so don't worry, only a kid and with very little sense."

In the hot courtroom, the temperature in the mid-eighties, the clerk hummed on: "Sept. 22.—It made me think of the evenings we danced together there [at El Patio], and did I wish you were there with me? . . . I love you, my sweet, and miss you so. Claire."

The clerk read on:

"New York, Sept. 23, 1931, Wednesday. Darling: Your Sun. letter just arrived, seems it took a long time, m[illegible] because I didn't hear fr[illegible] yesterday. Sweet, I was kid[illegible]bout you taking Hilda to L[illegible] you—you know I don't want you making any trips with any woman, I don't care who it is. I'd be a fool to throw you in the hands of another, wouldn't I? . . . I hope you will call me soon, I am anxious to hear my darling's voice again—do, do, do—I miss you and I love you. Claire."

"Marion Going to Reno."

"[blank], Cal., Sept. 27, 1931.

"Darling:

"Things have been pretty hot here. Yesterday I heard that Marion was going to Reno, and not to bet on the horses, either. But I guess I will know soon. Be good, dear, and think of me all the time. AL."

During her testimony explaining the hugging and kissing photographs, Miss Windsor said with a disarming smile, "O, Mr. Read was just pulling a John Barrymore. He wanted to take some pictures of a love scene like they do in the movies. We were just kidding."

Says Read Told of Row.

Miss Windsor said Read had told her of a quarrel with Mrs. Read and said some things she did not want to repeat. All five attorneys at once jumped to their feet, Mrs. Read's three and Claire's two. All chorused a demand to know what these unrepeatable things were.

MISS WINDSOR—Well, he said his wife was hard to get along with and that she was a son-of-a-gun.

Q.—No stronger language than that? A.—No, he didn't.

Q.—Didn't you suggest that was no way to talk about the mother of his children? A.—I didn't know he had any children at that time. When I learned it I asked why he didn't become reconciled with her for their sake.

Q.—Did you plan to marry Mr. Read? A.—I hadn't definitely decided. I admired him. He was all I would wish of a man. I hoped it would work out some way.

Read Leaves Courtroom.

Mrs. Read's battery of counsel is headed by Assemblyman Walter Little of Santa Monica, Cal., a man with a boom for governor. Mrs. Read and Read both attended the University of California at Berkeley and were old friends when they wed, but Mrs. Read got a divorce after he met Claire Windsor in September, 1930. Read walked out of the courtroom and ground a cigaret with his heel as the letters were being read to the jurors.

SUES CHARLES S. KNICKERBOCKER FOR A DIVORCE

Mrs. Mary Knickerbocker, 22 years old, 7300 South Shore drive, yesterday filed suit for divorce in the Superior court against Charles S. Knickerbocker, nephew of Charles K. Knickerbocker, vice president of the Griffin Wheel company and socially prominent. The bill, filed by Attorney Norman Becker, alleged that Knickerbocker struck his wife on the three days prior to their separation, Aug. 25. The bill also alleged that Knickerbocker failed to contribute to his wife's support and that the rent on their South Shore drive apartment was paid by his uncle. The Knickerbockers were married on Aug. 5, 1929, and have a son 2½ years old.

CUBAN PRESIDENT PROMISES NEW 'MAGNA CHARTA'

Constitutional Assembly Will Be Convoked.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 31.—President Carlos Manuel de Cespedes announced tonight that a constitutional assembly to draft "a new magna charta" for Cuba will be convoked soon. The announcement was made after he emerged from a five hour cabinet meeting.

The president indicated he is ready to comply with revolutionary demands to scrap the old constitution. It is believed he will revoke his decision to quit office in February, 1934, but instead will wait until a president is duly elected under a new constitution.

Plans Assembly in February.

De Cespedes, it is reported, plans to convoke the constitutional convention next February, call the presidential and general elections for August so that a new government may be inaugurated on Oct. 10, 1934.

The treasury department today announced that from May 25, 1925, to Aug. 12, 1933, administration officials under former President Machado embezzled more than $26,000,000 which had been collected by the special public works funds' office.

Sumner Welles, American ambassador to Cuba, will be decorated with the great cross of the National Order of Merit of Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, the highest honor the Cuban government can confer, President de Cespedes announced today.

New Crisis Threatened.

A reaction against extreme revolutionary policies forced upon the provisional government by radical cabinet members threatens a new crisis. The probable lineup appears to be the orthodox Conservatives, the Marianistas, the army party, the Nacionalistas, and a new party being organized by the commercial class against the ABC, the OCRR, and other revolutionary groups.

Elections or a constitutional assembly during a period as hysterical as the present one would defeat the ends of the revolution, according to spokesmen for the Nacionalistas.

Meanwhile, political leaders awaited the appointment tonight of an advisory board by De Cespedes before taking action. The board, which will study and propose governmental reforms, will be composed of 28 members.

U. S. Sends Experts to Island.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—(AP)—To help chart a course to lead new Cuba away from debt and depression, the American government today named two experts to go to Havana forthwith as advisers to the embassy.

The men selected were Adolf A. Berle Jr., legal adviser to the farm adjustment administration on the proposed sugar stabilization agreement, and John Laylin, special assistant to Undersecretary Dean Acheson of the treasury.

Their job, as stated by Secretary Hull today in announcing their appointment, will be to make a thorough appraisal and analysis of the essential phases of financial and economic conditions in Cuba to guide the government as developments calling for cooperation come along.

DIVORCEE AND 10 INCH PIPE ARE LINKED TO LAMSON MURDER CASE

Courthouse, San José, Cal., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Evidence of David A. Lamson's visits to a Sacramento divorcée last spring was coupled by the state today in Lamson's murder trial with testimony that a 10 inch length of pipe "very easily" could have caused the contusions and fractures that resulted in the death of Allene Thorpe Lamson.

Eldridge Ray of Sacramento testified that Lamson, 31 year old executive of the Stanford University Press, had visited Mrs. Sara M. Kelley in Sacramento five or six times in March and April.

Dr. A. W. Meyer, head of the anatomy department of Stanford university, said he made, by request, an examination of the crushed skull of the popular Y. M. C. A. secretary June 2, three days after her death.

"The contusions and fractures could very easily have been produced by the 10 inch length of pipe, and I don't think it would have taken such a tremendous force, in the hands of an angered man," he said.

A piece of pipe was found in a bonfire Lamson had been tending the day of his wife's death. His defense contends Mrs. Lamson was not beaten to death, but suffered her fatal injuries through accident, perhaps in a fall. Blood was found on the pipe.

CUDAHY REACHES POLISH PORT ON WAY TO WARSAW

GDYNIA, Poland, Aug. 31.—(AP)—John Cudahy, new American ambassador to Poland, arrived here today en route to Warsaw, where he will be officially received tomorrow. On disembarking from the Kosciuszko he was greeted by Chargé d'Affaires Crosby and a group of children who sang the "Star Spangled Banner" and gave him a bouquet.

Mr. Cudahy said he traveled by way of Gdynia as a gesture recognizing Poland's unrestricted access to the sea. He had been asked by Col. House, whom he called "the father of President Wilson's thirteenth point," to convey the colonel's affection and appreciation for Poland's achievements in her 14 years of independence.

Mrs. Vincent E. Healy TAUGHT ME A LESSON

Shortly after our marriage we gave a dinner party, inviting several members of the firm for which my husband works. Imagine my horror when I saw a guest cleaning his unused fork on a napkin. Mortified, I saw that my tableware was filthy with unrinsed soap.

Then I read an advertisement in which Mrs. Healy said she used American Family Flakes for her crystal, and china . . . in fact, for every cleaning task. I tried it. Used it for hose, lingerie, woolens and printed things, too. It's perfect . . . gives twice the suds!

"I've used American Family Flakes and Soap ever since I had a home of my own. They're a match for Chicago's dirt, and yet so pure that delicate silks and linens keep their loveliness for ages. Even our sweaters and my jersey dresses never fade or shrink in these gentle suds, and every color comes back as fresh as new. Yet it cleans Tommy's suits and overalls in a jiffy—and how dirty that boy does get, out in the playground! This is the only household soap we use. It keeps dishes and glassware sparkling, bathrooms and kitchen porcelains shining, and woodwork clean. We could not get American Family Flakes in Miami one winter, so we learned what a difference soap can make in the wear of silk stockings and colored things."

Mrs. Vincent E. Healy

Her husband is a broker and a director in Lyon & Healy, famous music house. Mrs. Healy is a sports enthusiast, an ardent devotee of tennis, golf, swimming and riding. Her Wedgwood china, Coalport service plates and her patterned crystal goblets are never entrusted to any but the pure, double-suds of American Family Flakes.

Now my linens dry dazzling white; my crystal, silver and china sparkling! American Family rinses immediately and completely. And you don't have to rub clothes. It floats out the dirt. I'm through in half the time.

It's cheaper to buy good soap than new clothes. Created especially for the hard water of this Great Lakes region American Family Flakes and Soap give double the suds. And it's the Double-Suds that makes the difference.

WHY SALAD DRESSING COSTS ⅓ LESS

NO WATER IS ADDED TO REAL MAYONNAISE. Hellmann's Mayonnaise, you know, is made from eggs, fine salad oils, imported spices and selected vinegar—no water is added, no "fillers," no cooking. While even the finest salad dressing, as this picture diagram shows you, contains inexpensive "fillers" and water (from 30% to 40%) to give added bulk so it can be sold for slightly less than real mayonnaise.

DO THE FAIR NOW.

A good many people who live in Chicago and hereabout seem to be postponing visiting the Fair, or at least visiting it as often as it deserves. We understand their state of mind. It is not lack of interest, but the knowledge that the Fair is at hand. So they permit small considerations to tempt them to postponement. If they don't go today they tell themselves they can go tomorrow. It is so easy to go tomorrow they are waiting until there is no reason for not going today.

They are deceiving themselves and will wake up to sharp and lasting regret when the Fair is over. Only two months remain before the end of this Exposition. We think enough people will realize this to pile up attendance toward the end. Tardy Chicagoans especially will join the rush. They would be wiser to begin going at once. One visit will not satisfy them, but rather entice them to more. They had better drop manana and do it now.

MODEL CITIES IN SOVIET RUSSIA.

The Moscow correspondent of the Manchester Guardian has been looking over the communist cities which were to demonstrate to the proletarians of the world how much happier their lot will be when capitalism and "bourgeois" democracy are overthrown. These model towns to house the happy proletarian at Magnetogorsk in the Urals, Kuznetzk in Siberia, and at the automobile plant at Nijni Novgorod consist of "a scanty group of four or five story red-brick box houses which suggest the ugliest tenements in the poorer quarters of a western European city." The interiors are still more dismal, the rooms usually cold and damp, doors and windows leaky, plaster peeling, and water and drainage habitually out of order. "Clouds of dust from the disorderly piles of sand, dirt, and building material fill the air in summer, and thick mud makes the towns almost impassable in autumn and winter."

Even on these terms and in spite of the urgent need for any kind of housing, as this correspondent reports, "the amount of actual building, in places with a population running into hundreds of thousands, has been scandalously small. In 1932 Magnetogorsk built only 21 per cent of what it was supposed to construct, without completing a single building." Kuznetzk, which was to have built by January of this year 97 blocks of flats, and a school, a kindergarten, a drug store, a laundry, and a bakery, has built only seven blocks of flats. Other new cities have built as little. Kneipustroi being an honorable exception.

These failures are not surprising, considering the lack of preparation in Russia to meet the requirements of the grandiose projects of the soviet bosses, all dogmatic theorists with no experience in anything but politics. But the effects of their acquisition of power have been an untold accumulation of human misery which a more moderate and practical régime would have avoided. The realities are pitiful as they are inevitable under the rule of the bigoted idealogues who hold their authority by military force but ask the workers of the world to accept them as architects of the millennium. "Labor productivity in building work," says the Guardian observer, "was low, partly because workers were obliged to spend hours waiting in queues for their bread rations and meals. In Magnetogorsk, for instance, a workers' dining room that is supposed to accommodate a hundred people actually serves 340, while it has dishes for only 30, and all the 340 are given lunch at the same time. As a result of slack building, tens of thousands of workers in the new industrial cities live in exceedingly bad sanitary conditions, in dirty, crowded, verminous barracks, without running water or lavatories. In Kuznetzk in January of this year 6,000 workers with their families had no permanent abode, 50,000 lived in barracks, and 35,000 in earthen houses and dugouts."

These conditions are suffered by the industrial proletariat, although it is the special care of the bolshevik bosses. Hope of improvement, which may or may not be realized, sustains the victims who have never known much better under the former tyranny. Also the Russian mind is colored by Asiatic pessimism and resignation to fate. If it were not, rebellion would long ago have disposed of their present masters. Under the sinister shadow of the Cheka and of the comparatively well fed Red army, shut up in ignorance of the workers' conditions in other lands, and dominated by a perpetual propaganda glorifying the future of the communist Utopia, they endure and hope. With the half starving and bullied peasants, these patient workers are writing one of the great tragedies in the pages of history.

Meanwhile the picture presented by the Guardian observer might be set off against some of the accounts of model nurseries, schools and hospitals brought back by ingenuous tourists who have seen what the officials intended them to see. It is also to be noted that the moving pictures of the soviet propaganda in America do not include any of these scenes.

WE AMERICANS.

We publish below an editorial from the Evening Ledger of Mexico, Audrain county, Missouri. It is one of a number of comments to the same effect by editors and writers who have visited Chicago during the Exposition, and THE TRIBUNE is receiving many letters from other visitors who take the trouble to write directly to us of their impression of Chicago's hospitality. The number is, in fact, impressive, and, needless to say, the people of Chicago, and especially those officials of the city and the Exposition who have direct responsibility for the entertainment of our visitors, must be gratified and grateful.

Our visitors are not mistaken in this impression, for there is a sincere desire in the whole community that they may feel, as they are, welcome and at home with us. But so far as courtesy is concerned, they have made it very easy to be courteous. Their own good manners, the spirit in which they receive what we have to offer them and make allowance for inconveniences or shortcomings, their intelligent responsiveness have made their presence in the city not only very agreeable but in a deeper sense significant. It is impossible to move among them at the Fair and in the crowded streets of the city these days without warming to them and being proud of our American people.

We have all been passing through a grievous ordeal and voices of pessimism and even despair have declared the failure of American civilization. They exhort us to transform our institutions and find a better way than the American way. We have not believed them, and least of all when we look into the faces of our American fellows and sense their brave friendliness, their clean strength and alertness, are we disposed to surrender the splendid heritage which has made them and which we share with them, to follow the prophets of defeat and the advocates of revolutionary change.

If we have made our visitors feel they are warmly welcome it is because they well deserve it. If they, as they have graciously told us, are grateful we are doubly grateful, for they give us the most precious of gifts, a renewed faith in ourselves, in our America.

MODERNIZE THE FIRE TUG.

The fire at the coast guard station might have been far less destructive if the fire tug Graeme Stewart had arrived more promptly. The tug was delayed, it was said, because its boilers are so old that the government inspectors will not permit the vessel to carry much steam pressure when the ship is in dock. Before the tug can get into action the pressure must be built up and that takes time.

Under the circumstances it would seem that the fire department might well scrap the present engine and replace it with some type of internal combustion motor. The new engine could be bought on time, if necessary, and the payments might be covered by the saving on fuel. An internal combustion motor consumes no fuel while it is not in operation. For highly intermittent services such as a fire tug is called upon to perform, the internal combustion engine is generally far more economical than the steam engine.

THE NEW FEUDALISM.

Under the American constitution as we have known it hitherto, land has taken its value from its highest and best use. Arable land has been more valuable than land fit only for grazing, and town lots have been more valuable than arable land. Men were free to put land to its highest use and the price of a given parcel reflected the fact.

Under the new dispensation land takes its value from the privileges that run with it. A farmer who contracts with the government to reduce his wheat acreage for a price has, in effect, fastened a sort of entail on his land. Any one who takes the farm must assume the obligation. If the contract with the government is a favorable one, the farm will increase in value, and vice versa.

Are we working around toward the feudal view that property is a privilege, not a right, and is held only on sufferance by the individual and that it is not his in the sense that he can employ it at his own discretion, subject only to requirement that he have a reasonable consideration for the safety and comfort of his neighbors? Government officials, as feudal overlords, impose other conditions and grant privileges which will result in losses to some owners and profits to others.

Another application of the principle is seen in the government's relations to the dairy industry. The government confers a monopoly upon certain dairy farmers. They and they only may supply milk in certain markets. Any one who may offer better milk at a less price may be fined or even jailed. The right to sell milk runs with the ownership of a herd rather than with the ownership of a farm, as in wheat and cotton. The expectable result will be that dairy land, however good, will have no value unless it is owned by some one who is privileged to own a herd.

CHICAGO HOSPITALITY.

[The Evening Ledger, Mexico, Mo.]

Chicago is a great city, regardless of the things which may be said against it in certain matters. Its Century of Progress is a magnificent show, but the thing which it is doing today that will remain longest in the minds of its thousands of visitors is the courtesy shown by every one in Chicago to all guests. There is the graciousness of the old south, the politeness of the French gallant, the wholehearted friendliness of the west, and the civility of a kindliness that impresses you with its sincerity. From the newsboy on the street to the once autocratic hotel clerk an affability radiates which makes you feel they are glad to see you in Chicago and that it is their personal duty to attend to your every request with all dispatch and respect. To the wanderer from the open spaces whose ideas of cities were once gleaned from a hard boiled traffic cop while trying to make a one way street in the wrong direction, this attitude must of itself prove refreshing. The hard boiled method of doing things in cities in the fight for service where the rush crowds make for only the survival of the fittest has been reversed, and every one seems happy and wants to make their guests equally as cheerful. We want to compliment Chicago and its people upon what they have accomplished along these lines. They will profit by it in the years to come as long as memory lingers. We were not held up nor did we see any one put "on the spot," but we imagine if it were done in Chicago today it would be accompanied by an apology and with all the grace so foreign to such an occasion.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

AFTER ONE GETS BACK from vacation the important thing to do is to catch up with the news. Hidden for weeks away up in the bush north of Bruce Mines in Canada, one does not hear much of what is going on in the great world outside. No daily papers, not even a weekly one; no radio, no movies; one doesn't know what's happening outside and neither does he give a darn. The thing of really great importance is not whether a king has been assassinated, an empire dissolved, the economic rehabilitation of the world accomplished, but whether or not the fish are biting today and the alarming discovery that those pesky porcupines have raided the kitchen again and carried off the ham.

Why, just to show you how far away from news, even great, momentous, cataclysmic news, the Conductor of this Column of Conniption has been, he didn't even hear that Hooey Long had been socked in the eye!

THE NEW LOYALTY.

Let us no more be true to boasted race and clan;
But to our highest dream, the brotherhood of man.
Shall Babel walls of greed and selfishness divide?

Let royal hunting grounds be parceled out anew
That little children's feet may know the grass and dew.

No more shall blood be spilled that Greed may count its gain.
Let patience be our power and sympathy our court,
With love our only law and faith our only fort.
New thoughts, new hopes, new dreams, new starry worlds to scan,

THOMAS CURTIS CLARK.

YES, IT'S CERTAINLY HARD to catch up with the news. Reading the papers for the first time in a month, we find that the President and the rest of the government at Washington are hard after Henry Ford. It seems that Washington is just finding out that Henry is a super-government all by himself. The mistake has been in not sending an American ambassador to Henry's independent republic over near Detroit and negotiating a treaty with him. Henry ought really to be annexed to this country. He could be the forty-ninth state. Being the forty-ninth state ought to please Henry so much that he might be willing to play along with the administration. He may insist that he doesn't know what it's all about, but, heck! who does?

STAND BY, PLEASE, for station announcements. We have no words with which to thank Harvey Woodruff for his lovely birthday party in the Line on Aug. 25. We read it yesterday and we felt as though we ought to stay dead, for such nice things are generally only said after a man has passed to the other side of the River Styx. Anyhow, it was mighty nice of Harvey, and we would thank him, only we don't know how. But these feeble words are a feeble attempt to express our gratitude to him and also to the Solicitor and Duke Bakrak and the B. an' C. and A. V. N. Martin and Henry Lee and Lida Kline and Alfred Domigo Gonzales and Blue Eyed Johnnie and R. C. Clark and F. L. W. who sang in Harvey's choir upon the anniversary of our natal day. It was the finest birthday party we ever had.

ANYHOW, IT'S GRATIFYING to a hundred and ten per cent American to know that these United States possess an important military secret. At least, a corporal in the army has been given twenty years in prison for telling what it was. Of course, the secrets weren't published, but we'll bet a cookie we know. It's why our army still hangs on to the cavalry when horses are only really useful today for losing your money on the racetrack.

SMART.

You never ask me where I've been,
Nor whom I've seen, nor why;
You give me no remotest chance
To build an alibi;

And when I say, in semi-jest,
"My dear, you break all rules,"
You answer me, so tactfully,
"Questions come from fools";

And well I know that you are right
In this specific instance;
Questions only fortify
A woman's keen resistance;

For if we'd learn the hidden thing
'Tis wise to ask "wherefor";
Tongues are such deceiving things;

EILEEN QUINLAN.

"FISH CATCHING Is New Worry to Farm Administration Bureau."—Headline. After a month's experience we would say to the farm administration bureau that they shouldn't try to catch fish during full moon. We used to fish all day away up there in Canada and never get a bite, while the lake was simply crowded with big trout and black bass swimming around. We know it was crowded with trout and black bass because the guide said so. But they wouldn't bite because it was the full of the moon and the guide quoted the Indians as saying: "Moon full; no catchum fish." Anyhow, we didn't. And the moon was full. But the farm administration, if it really wants to catch fish, should go to Manitoulin island, north of Lake Huron. Up there the black bass have lost their calendar, or they don't give a hang for what the Indians say, for if you don't bait your hook fast enough they climb right into the boat.

WILL YOU WEATHER THE STORM?

LAST week an article on the depression as a cause of insanity was written. It was claimed that the financial strain of the last three and a half years had not materially increased the prevalence of insanity. There had been an increase of the population in state institutions for the mentally deranged, it is true, but this is not a good criterion.

There is, year by year, an increase in this population, and there has been for more than half a century, and the increase within the recent period is not materially greater than could have been prophesied four years ago without having a prospective period of depression in mind. The increase is further falsified by the increase of the number of mentally disturbed transferred from private sanitaria and private homes because of financial considerations. When the situation is critically analyzed it is found that the financial worries of the depression have not greatly increased the insanity rate.

A parallel proposition is the small effect of the economic situation on the suicide rate. Suicides have tended to be more dramatic, but they have not increased as much as most people accept as being the case. From this the deduction was drawn that the worries and anxieties of the more recent period have not been harder on the mind than were the thrills, excitement, covetousness, ambitions, and strivings for the unattainable of the preceding period.

When this article was written it was shown to a friend, a business man, for his comment. He did not know as to the facts, but he disagreed with the conclusion drawn from them. All of us look at questions through our own experiences. While he has not "broken" and will not [for he has a philosophy of life that buoys him and a past from which he can draw for the satisfaction needed to buoy him across present troubles], he knew that the crises of the recent period had caused him anxious nights and days. In spite of the opinion of this friend, the writer clings to his.

It is often possible to divide a group of men into those with difficult personalities and those who are otherwise. Let us consider some of the difficult personalities in relation to the effects of the depression.

We think at once of the circular personality. It is quite possible that financial strain increases the depression phase of this man's cycle. But, on the other hand, the experiences of the jazz years were hard on the exaltation phase. And who can say which was worse? The man's mind moves in cycles. The higher the peaks, the lower the valleys. One way to make the valleys low is to build the peaks high.

Economists are agreed that for the permanent welfare of a nation booms are worse than panics. The legislation we need, but which cannot be had except under a dictatorship, is that to prevent booms because they cause panics.

Those with shut-in personalities are less disturbed than are those of more normal personalities by what goes on in the world. The excitement of booms and the depression of crashes both have less than their usual effect on them.

The man with a paranoid tendency will often be harmed by the depression. He has a morbid tendency to discover conspiracies against himself. Doubtless more conspiracies to defraud are entered into and operated during booms, but the paranoid personality man hears more about them during collapses. His mind feeds on what he hears as well as on what he suspects.

LOCKJAW.

A. H. writes: What is the cause of lockjaw? Is it more dangerous if the wound is inflicted by a rusty nail? Can an infection take place in any part of the body? Is it curable?

REPLY.

Lockjaw results from infection with the tetanus bacillus. Wounds made by rusty nails are dangerous. The disease results from wounds in any and all parts of the body. Some cases are cured. Many are not. It is preventable.

HALITOSIS.

A. B. writes: I am 16 years old and have halitosis. My teeth are perfect and I have used almost every mouth wash on the market. When I go out I have to be careful not to get too close to anybody. I always have to use peppermint candy.

REPLY.

PROPERTY TRANSFER.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—If a married man is responsible for an accident involving personal injury to others, and transfers his property to his wife after the accident [1] is a judgment secured against him valid against that property? 2. What would the procedure be if the property was in his wife's name before the accident?

M. J. H.

1. No, in the sense that it would not be a lien following the property into the hands of purchasers without notice. Yes, in the sense that the conveyance could be set aside as a fraud on the creditors.

2. If the property actually belonged to the present debtor, the procedure would be by a creditor's bill.

OPEN FIRE HYDRANTS.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—[Friend of the People.]—Please see what can be done to keep the fire hydrant in front of our place shut off. This has been running night and day since school vacation. I turned it off several times but some one opens it again. The curbing is sagging due to the constant stream of water.

F. H. P.

The boys of the neighborhood have a baseball diamond directly west of the fire hydrant and use this hydrant for drinking purposes. The men and boys who were playing ball at the time of inspection were warned not to use hydrant. The hydrant was shut down and an inspection in the near future will be made to see that there are no further abuses of fire hydrants in this neighborhood.

Commissioner of Public Works.

FRIEND OF THE FARMER

[Inquiries on problems of farm management, financing, or governmental regulations sent to this department must be accompanied by stamped, addressed envelope for reply.]

O. D. O. asks: If a lease is entered into for 1934, [a] would it not be proper for the owner to withhold the land left fallow under the government crop reduction contract; and, [b] in this event, would not the owner be entitled to all of the benefits of the allotment?

Answer: The government contract calls for splitting the cash payment between owner and tenant, the amount depending upon type of rent and lease, which must be specified when the contract is signed.

F. J. B. asks: If the tenant on my farm has received financial aid from the government, do you consider it proper for him to share further in the payments for reducing wheat acreage if I, as owner, sign the contract?

Answer: The contract with the government provides that if the producer who signs it is indebted to the United States such debt may be subtracted from the amount of wheat bonus payment. The contract also must be signed by both owner and tenant, so that your tenant might share in the new payments in repaying his debt.

R. M. S. asks: Is flax a good crop to grow—that is, is it hard on the land? Also, is there a market for it?

Answer: Flax may be grown as a substitute crop for wheat, barley, and other cereals. It is not harder on the soil than these crops, according to results in North Dakota experiments, especially if straw is plowed under or land summer fallowed. Flaxseed has a commercial value and is quoted by most mills or elevators.

E. D. V. writes: The farm on which my brothers live is about to be foreclosed and I want to know if something can be done about it.

Answer: Under the law foreclosure can be carried out. But write to W. W. McLaughlin, director, Illinois department of agriculture, Springfield, for possible conciliatory measures under the new state commission.

NRA QUESTION BOX

Q.—Is the presidential reëmployment agreement more than a "share the work" proposition?

A.—Yes, the whole intent of this agreement is to increase employment and pay rolls and any course of action which in any way has the opposite effect is contrary to the letter and spirit of the agreement.

A.—Whenever a firm signs the reemployment agreement, or starts operating under the trade code, sweatshop work is automatically ended. This is one of the greatest single accomplishments of the industrial recovery act.

Q.—Will an enterprise engaged in several fields of industry be subject to compliance with codes formulated by more than one industry?

A.—It is probable that certain enterprises may be subject to the parts of two or more codes, determined by the diversity of the products manufactured. Under these circumstances it is essential that every effort be made to adjust the provisions of such codes so that in actual operation they will not result in conflicting provisions as applied to the individual plant.

Q.—Will the NRA affect the railroads?

A.—The President's campaign to increase employment and purchasing power will eventually reach into every industry and occupation, but whether rail employes will be reached by the NRA or some other agency is not clear at this time.

COMPETITION.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—I am a heavy taxpayer on old improved property in the Tilden High school district. I have a confectionery store, serving sandwiches and light lunches at the noon hour, at 4701 South Halsted street, our building. The school also sells lunch and dinner [called cafeteria] to the public in school season. Since school has been closed I am doing a better noon business. Also before Christmas last they sold box candy, 3 pounds in a box, for one dollar. The persons selling the most candy in certain rooms were given sweaters for their extra labor. I saw the sweater a young man received for his work. He came in my store to show it to me and let me sample the candy.

Now, why are schools permitted to buck us? Why do they sell their lunches and dinners to the public? To my way of reasoning it should not be allowed, because we property owners have to depend upon the neighborhood business man and woman to patronize our stores. We have to pay taxes to keep up the schools; still they are permitted to sell the things we sell.

They should only sell to the pupils their food to eat, and not any confections.

MRS. NICHOLAS FINLEY.

FARM RELIEF.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—A city dweller wants to know why the government is more interested in the farmer than in the masses who live in the city. My husband was a farmer for 25 years and could make money with hogs at $5 per hundred. The farmer has his home and everything he wants to eat on his place. He's never hungry, but the city people have to buy everything. A farmer can make money with wheat at 80 cents a bushel. We know because we did it; and to run food up now is just wicked. If the government buys up all the shoats and sows what price are we going to pay for pork this fall and winter when the hogs go to-market about Christmas time?

You will find out, as everybody before has found out, that you can't legislate for the farmer. When the government fixed the mortgages for the farmer and gave them a long, long time to pay it did the one and only thing essential. The idea of telling them what and when and how much to plant is wicked again, because you don't know how much of any crop is going to be harvested.

MRS. JOHN H. FLANGEN.

DEFINITION WANTED.

Oak Park, Ill., Aug. 29.—I am wondering if some one will give me a definition of what truly constitutes the high standard of living that we Americans boast so much about. Is it culture, refinement, the ability to appreciate the things that money cannot buy, etc., or is it the amount we can purchase with the almighty dollar that we are forever chasing so that we may keep up with the Joneses and they in turn go one better than the Smiths?

Have we Americans ever learned the real art of living? AGNES WHITELAW.

GOV. SMITH'S WARNING.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—I am simply writing to congratulate you on the splendid editorial which appeared in this morning's issue of your paper on "Governor Smith's Warning." I feel that the point which Gov. Smith made and which you have stressed in your editorial is one of great importance to the American people.

H. D. SAYRE,
Commissioner National Metal Trades Ass'n.

SUGGESTIONS FROM AN EDUCATOR.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—With reference to your editorial in today's issue entitled "Suggestions from an Educator" may I make the following comment:

No member of the University of Chicago faculty believes in or advocates civil bloodshed or violence or the "arming of wage earners with revolvers, rifles, and machine guns." Dr. Krueger was retained by the university as an assistant professor of economics because his record indicated that he is a competent scholar in that field. From my knowledge of his personal views, however, I can say with positiveness and as a matter of routine denial that he is opposed to all forms of violence.

A careful scrutiny of the dispatch from Paris, printed in THE TRIBUNE of Aug. 23, upon which the editorial was apparently based, reveals no statement attributed to Dr. Krueger which would bear out the language of the editorial. The obvious interpretation of the expression "fighting organization," which he is quoted as using, is an organization which fights without violence, as the American Federation of Labor does for better working conditions or as THE TRIBUNE does for the repeal of the 18th amendment.

TELEPHONE MANNERS.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—I want to protest most vigorously and I hope every business man in Chicago reads this. I refer to the practice of a secretary or telephone girl in an office calling a busy man so the head of the office can talk to him and then have the person called hang on the telephone until the office head gets connected up to talk to him. Common politeness suggests that the effort when one person telephones another should be on the caller and not the person called. This practice is growing every day and I know many people dislike it without being able to match the impoliteness of the caller by letting the dislike be known. H. H. K.

HE KNOWS HIS FACTS OF LIFE.

Reedsburg, Wis., Aug. 24.—I know I am just another dam phool, but I can't help thinking that if Mr. Wallace really wants to limit the hog crop [4 legged, of course] the most direct way would be to order all boar pigs slaughtered at once, a fine of $1,000 or a year in jail the punishment to any one who has in his possession a boar pig of any breed for a period of six months from the date of such a law, and after that the government to allot boars to hog raisers a demand might determine for more hogs—for more government pork.

This would bring about a decrease in oversupply and save the taxpayers 60 or 70 millions and save all that tankage which other farmers would buy to raise more cotton and more wheat for the taxpayers to buy later, ad infinitum.

The two legged hogs and government pork is something else again.

EZRA HONUM.

AT SOLDIERS' FIELD, TOO.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—I wish to call your attention the fact that a 5 cent charge is made in order to gain entrance to the comfort stations at Soldiers' field. Can't this situation be remedied? It certainly time that we taxpayers rebel against conditions like this. When and where will the grafting political faction stop? LEE H. LASKER.

TWO LOSE LIVES, FOUR INJURED IN AUTO COLLISION

Three Women and Man in Critical Condition.

Two men were killed and three women and a man were injured yesterday in an automobile collision at 147th street and Torrence avenue, Calumet City.

Turner Eadus, 63 years old, of Valparaiso, Ind., and Ernest P. Person, 38 years old, 1111 South 4th avenue, Maywood, were dead when their bodies were taken from the wreckage of the two cars.

Eadus' wife, Dorothy, 53 years old; James Herring, 46 years old, of Kouts, Ind.; his wife, Bessie, 42 years old, and an unidentified woman were injured. They were taken to St. Margaret's hospital in Hammond, where it was said that the condition of Mrs. Herring and the unidentified woman, who was with Person, was critical.

Person and Herring were driving the two cars which crashed at the intersection. Person is a laborer employed by a paving contractor. When Maywood police went to his home to notify members of his family, they were told that his wife was severely ill and news of his death was kept from her.

Six Others Are Killed.

These deaths and six others yesterday increased the 1933 motor toll in Cook county to 684. The other victims:

George Nawdzwiec, 78 years old, 2031 Coulter street. Fatally injured when struck by an automobile at Blue Island and Damen avenues. John Trekovich, 16 years old, 3610 South 53d court, Cicero, driver of the car, is being held for the inquest.

William Clay, 7 years old, colored, 4101 South Dearborn street. Died of injuries incurred when he was struck by a truck in an alley near his home. The driver, Charles Varceal, 41 years old, colored, 21 East 57th street, was being sought by the police last night to be held for the inquest.

Rudolph Skilning, 29 years old, 1444 North Claremont avenue. Fatally injured last evening when his automobile collided with that of Thomas Ullo, 2150 West Ohio street, at Damen and Grand avenues. After the collision Skilning's car ran over the sidewalk, inflicting critical injuries on Mrs. Theresa Toth, 42 years old, 1831 West Grand avenue. She was taken to St. Mary's hospital.

Mrs. Lillian Saunders, 52 years old, colored, died in the county hospital of injuries incurred Aug. 21 when she was struck by the automobile of Archer Beverly, 6713 Eberhart avenue, as she was crossing the street at 54th street and Eberhart avenue.

Unidentified man, about 65 years old. Killed early today when he was struck by the automobile of a hit and run driver in front of 3031 Wentworth avenue.

Toll Cut 7 Per Cent This Year.

Automobile deaths in the county were reduced 7 per cent during the first eight months of 1933 as compared with the corresponding period of last year. This was disclosed yesterday in a report made by Coroner Frank J. Walsh.

In the first eight months of this year the deaths totaled 684. For the similar period of 1932 the deaths totaled 735. A comparison of the deaths by months for the two periods as prepared by the coroner follows:

WORLD ZIONISTS VOTE TO PROBE ALLEGED 'TERROR' IN HOLY LAND

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 31.—[Jewish Telegraphic Agency.]—The eighteenth world Zionist congress today adopted, against the protests of the revisionists, a resolution to send a commission to Palestine to investigate the alleged use of violence and terroristic methods by a certain revisionist group.

The delegates' benches and visitors' sections were crowded and police were on hand to maintain order when the world Zionist organization actions committee, after three days of deliberation, presented its resolution. After its reading in three languages Dr. Leo Motzkin, president of the congress, announced there would be no debate.

The resolution was carried, by a vote of 179 to 62, after a counter-resolution proposed by Vladimir Jabotinsky, leader of the revisionists had been shouted down. A demand by Jabotinsky that he be permitted to make a declaration from the tribune following upon the adoption of the resolution was rejected by the presidium in an uproar of revisionist shouts that "Justice is dead!" The tumult following upon this refusal lasted a quarter of an hour.

LAUNCH DRIVE ON BEGGARS AFTER FATAL STABBING

The police last night began a drive on all panhandlers in the South Chicago district after two men had been stabbed, one fatally, by beggars whose requests for alms were refused. The action was ordered by Judge Leon Edelman in the South Chicago court. On Wednesday Judge Edelman imposed a six months' jail term on Edward Gordy, 39 years old, for stabbing a man who refused him money.

A coroner's jury yesterday recommended that Jesus Carnica, 35 years old, 10038 Commercial avenue, a Mexican, be held to the grand jury on a charge of murdering George Sertich, 20 years old, 9948 Commercial avenue. Carnica stabbed Sertich with a penknife last Saturday when a request for "moonshine money" was refused, according to Sertich's deathbed statement read at the inquest.

Judge Edelman ordered Capt. Michael Lee to arrest beggars and to charge them with the most serious offense warranted by the circumstances in each case. If knives or other weapons are found the charge should be carrying concealed weapons, Judge Edelman said. If the beggars have police records he will issue warrants for them under the new vagrancy law, Judge Edelman said.

73 TRUCK DRIVERS SEIZED IN DRIVE ON SOLID TIRES

Seventy-three drivers of trucks were arrested yesterday and charged with speeding as the police traffic division resumed its campaign to enforce the statute requiring pneumatic tires on all vehicles driven faster than ten miles an hour. It was announced by Capt. David Flynn, head of the traffic division. The trucks whose drivers were arrested all had solid rubber tires and were traveling faster than ten miles an hour, he said.

The drivers will appear in the Traffic court before Judge Eugene J. Holland, who has announced his willingness to coöperate with the police department in the enforcement of the tire law. There have been no convictions under this provision of the motor vehicle code since it went into effect last Jan. 1, despite the fact that there have been 1,693 arrests, Capt. Flynn said.

ILLNESS WRECKS MRS. WALKER'S HOPE FOR BABY

CANNES, France, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. James J. Walker left today to spend a month in Evian, a resort in southern France, where Mrs. Walker, the former Betty Compton, has been ordered by her doctor because of delicate health.

A close friend of the former New York mayor said the Walkers had expected a baby, but that hope was destroyed following a severe intestinal illness which she suffered recently.

Mrs. Walker, who often has expressed a desire to have children, has been despondent since the illness, the friend said, and failed to respond satisfactorily to treatment. The doctor consequently ordered the change.

BRITISH UNION DENOUNCES ALL DICTATORSHIPS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Strong denunciation of all dictatorships, whether "right" or "left," is contained in a report adopted by the general council of the Trades Union congress today. The report is to be presented to the annual congress which opens at Brighton next week.

Union leaders expressly dissociate themselves from any sympathy with dictatorships and urge as of primary importance the preservation of the democratic spirit in Great Britain.

"The principle of a dictatorship is the same whether of communists or Fascists," the report says. "Each suppresses its opponents ruthlessly. The first duty of trade unionism is to affirm its adherence to the democratic spirit which has made its existence possible. We shall resist any attempt to supersede parliament or undermine its democratic working."

Oppose Tieup with Reds.

For these reasons the demand of some trade unionists for a "united front with communists against Fascism" is strongly opposed, the report pointing out that "communism stands for a dictatorship just as ruthless."

Launching of a big trade union campaign against Fascism and in defense of the principles of democracy was advocated.

Many resolutions attacking Fascist methods in Europe are included in the agenda of the congress, while President Roosevelt's measures for restoration of industrial prosperity in the United States have inspired several demands for similar action in Britain.

Industrial control by workers in various forms also figures largely in the convention program, with proposals concerning workers' action throughout the world to prevent war, a 40 hour week in all industries, and questions of wages and vacations with pay.

Plans Empire Fascist League.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—(AP)—The initial steps in the organization of a huge Swastika League of the Empire are being taken in negotiations now under way between Sir Oswald Mosley, leader of the British Fascists, and Col. Eric Campbell, head of the Australian "New Guard."

Col. Campbell, it is said, also has been delegated to speak for South Africa and New Zealand. A Facist movement is being formed in Canada and is likely to join up, according to party spokesmen.

The new organization will represent "a very powerful combination of forces," the British Fascists say.

Although the British Fascist union has sent emissaries to Canada to make contact with a Canadian group, it disowns any connection with recent "Swastika" riots in various parts of the dominion, notably Toronto.

Frown on Physical Force.

"We understand there are five separate Fascist organizations in Canada," an official at British Fascist headquarters said today. "We have not recognized any of them, nor do we intend to recognize any organization which advocates the use of physical force. We propose to bring about changes by constitutional means.

"When the time comes—it will probably be five years yet—we shall have parliamentary candidates. When we have a parliamentary majority and head the government, we shall likely proceed by orders in council. But we are against physical force. The only exception we make is that if we are attacked by communists we shall certainly meet force by force."

Symbolic of British Fascism's increasing activity, the organization has opened a branch in Regent street and transformed a former women's college in the Chelsea district into a "brown house" for its members.

Dirt! Dirt! endless dirt!

Be rid of it all with clean automatic Gas Heat

To prove that every home can afford to heat with gas . . . we will install it at our expense and remove it at our expense, if you don't like it

GET rid of all dirt with gas heat? Certainly. How do we know you can? We asked thousands who use it. Their answer came—without hesitation—"Cleanliness, if nothing else, makes gas heat indispensable." They know from experience. They know that gas heat eliminates soot, dirt and grime from walls and curtains, from window sills, from corners, from furniture and furnishings, from under and over radiators and registers—from everywhere in the house from cellar to attic. They know that it brings new leisure hours, new joy to any clean housekeeper.

And countless other reasons

This is only one of the many, many reasons why you want gas heat. It saves days and nights of back-breaking coal shoveling . . . dirty hours of hauling ashes . . . the nuisance of chopping kindling . . . the anxiety of watching and waiting for heat to come up and dozens of other home-heating troubles.

With gas heat in your home, a single match is your kindling pile. You get the heat you want unfailingly day and night by simply setting a thermostat located in your living room. You never have to go downstairs to even look at the fire.

You never run out of gas. It is the only fuel that is not delivered on your premises by grimy or black, dusty methods. When gas is piped into your furnace or boiler room, you are freed of all care, worry, grime and dust.

Every home can afford it

You may say to all this—yes—that's all right for wealthy folks who can afford gas heat. That's where you're wrong. Because now through greatly lowered cost even the most modest home can afford gas heat.

To prove it—and we take the full burden of proof—we'll install it in your home without your making one cent of investment. Then you'll know from your own personal experience whether you can afford gas heat or not. And if we're wrong and you decide you don't want it—out it comes. We remove it at our expense.

During the nine heating months of the first year you pay $3.00 a month rental for the equipment in the average home. This charge will be included with your gas bill. And if for any reason during the first year you want it removed, we take it out and the rental charge stops immediately. Further, we replace your former heating equipment in good workmanlike order. If you decide you want it, the rental applies on the purchase price.

GARMENT STRIKE PEACE PARLEY IS OPENED BY NRA

Both Sides Hopeful for a Settlement.

With hopes of reaching an agreement which will result in the termination of the garment workers' strike, representatives of the dress manufacturers and of the labor union met yesterday with Max Meyer, member of the national labor board. The strike of some 8,000 members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union has been in progress eleven days.

Mr. Meyer said that the meeting was "very significant" in that it was the first time that the national administration has brought workers and employers together under the auspices of the NRA to arbitrate their differences.

Show Get-Together Spirit.

"The spirit shown by both sides and their expressed willingness to get together is a gesture of good will, in keeping with the new philosophy and spirit which are permeating the country," he declared.

Morris Bialis, vice president of the union, declared that the workers were not attempting to "stifle industry," and said he believed that the differences between employers and employés could be settled. The manufacturers' representatives, including Joseph Greenstein, vice president of the Chicago Dress Manufacturers' association, and Abraham Heller, president of the Independent Dress Manufacturers' association, were also optimistic that a settlement could be reached.

Recovery Council Meets.

The district recovery council, appointed by NRA Administrator Hugh S. Johnson, also met yesterday with F. L. Roberts, manager of the local department of the United States department of commerce, and elected Willoughby T. Walling chairman. Members of the council discussed means of making certain that merchants follow the provisions of the reemployment agreement.

As yet no orders have come from Washington other than to secure the enlistment of employers and consumers in the campaign. A date for the beginning of enforcement of the measure is expected to be set soon.

More than 325,000 NRA pledge cards and consumer stickers had been distributed last night, according to George W. Rossetter, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce and chairman of the Chicago recovery council. Increased headway was reported in lining up every recognized community business and civic organization in the movement to enlist consumers under the NRA standard.

Oil Stations Go on Code.

Service men in 3,600 stations owned and operated by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana will go on the 48 hour week prescribed by the oil code beginning today. Officials estimated that 2,500 new attendants have been emeployed to compensate for the shortening of working schedules.

Expansion of the company's personnel will increase wage and salary payments in the service station branch by $2,725,000 a year, it is announced.

A resolution indorsing the NRA and acclaiming President Roosevelt and his efforts to restore prosperity was passed yesterday by the Cycle Jobbers' Association of America, in convention in the Palmer house.

Jesse Edwards of Philadelphia, president, and other officials were reelected. The association adopted a code including a 40 hour week and a minimum of $15 pay.

Accept Auto Parking Code.

Sixty members of the Chicago Public Parking institute, all operators of loop parking places, last evening accepted the parking industry code as approved by NRA officials.

The code limits working hours, minimum salaries, and contains an agreement to construct no more parking garages until the present facilities are inadequate.

No mention was made of racketeering, although it was stated prior to the meeting that efforts would be made before the code was accepted to eliminate racketeers.

Approximately 810,000 Chicago employés were under the NRA yesterday. Assistant Postmaster C. P. Scheel announced the signing up of 1,633 Chicago firms, making a total of 35,546 concerns in this city which have now pledged themselves to abide by the provisions of the reemployment agreement.

Rout 2,000 Pickets; Jail 50.

Police last evening used tear gas bombs to disperse 2,000 men and women members of the Millinery Workers' union picketing the plant of the Lepman Brothers' Millinery Manufacturing company at 600 South Marshfield avenue. Nearly fifty of the strikers were arrested when they defied orders to depart, and they were being held at half a dozen west side police stations.

EDITORS MEET HERE TO DISCUSS LUTHERAN UNITY

More than 30 members of editorial staffs of various official Lutheran publications met yesterday to discuss the movement toward greater unity in American Lutheranism. The Lutheran groups combined would form what statisticians would regard as the largest Protestant group in this country. At yesterday's session a resolution was unanimously passed indorsing the NRA and calling Lutherans of the country "to encourage our government by giving the NRA their full assistance in prayer, word, and action in the sincere hope that it will accomplish its aim."

SEN. SCHALL DECLARES HE WILL DEFEND FORD IN STAND ON NRA CODE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Offering his services to Henry Ford, Senator Schall [Rep., Minn.] said in a formal statement tonight he would defend the automobile manufacturer from any efforts to force him under the NRA code if he already was paying higher wages and working employés shorter hours than it requires.

"It is with pleasure that I offer my services to Henry Ford," Schall said. "As a citizen, an attorney and a United States senator I feel it is my duty to volunteer assistance to the industrialist willing to prevent the nullification of the constitution of the United States.

"If this administration resorts to mob law or boycott to force him to do so I shall defend him with all my strength and ability, and suggest those persons who prescribe such measures against him be treated as ordinary hoodlums and racketeers."

FORD TAKES NO PART IN DETROIT NRA CELEBRATION

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 31.—(AP)—The announcement that 29,133 Detroit firms employing 250,210 workers have signed national recovery administration codes or agreements tonight lent substance to Detroit's NRA celebration which centered about the raising of an official NRA banner over the city hall.

A parade described as the "march of the reëmployed" wended its way down the main thoroughfare of the city with newly employed men and women estimated by police at 10,000 forming the bulk of the parade line.

A telephoned address by Director Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, broadcast at the city hall from a loud speaker formed the high spot in the evening's program.

The Ford Motor company played no part in tonight's celebration. Henry Ford and his son Edsel both are out of the city on vacation, and both repeatedly have refused any statement regarding their position concerning the recovery program.

Parade officials said they had issued no orders to prevent Ford employés from participating in the parade. The Ford Motor company has not signed the automotive code.

GARMENT STRIKE AT MICHIGAN PLANTS SETTLED

Coldwater, Mich., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—One thousand workers of the Hillsdale Manufacturing company, makers of men's and boys' clothing, with branches here, at Hillsdale, and Hudson, who went on strike Monday, returned to work today. The walkout, directed by George Slater of the United Garment Workers of America, Chicago, was ordered when the clothing concern failed to carry the wage scale of the NRA which its president, Joseph Baumgarten, signed several weeks ago, according to the strikers.

magnate, refused tonight to discuss a long distance telephone call from his father earlier today or to comment on the Ford Motor Car company's attitude toward the automobile industry's code.

Returning from a yacht trip, he went directly to his summer estate here and denied himself to all visitors.

The local telephone exchange operator said she had been instructed to accept no calls for Ford.

A member of the household, who consented to carry a request for an interview to his employer, brought back word of Ford's refusal.

"No, I will see no one and will talk with no one," the messenger quoted the motor manufacturer as saying.

A Sketch of Ford's Career.

New York, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Henry Ford, who has been silent on the NRA automobile code, has built his economic philosophy on the axiom that unfettered competition is a fundamental industrial need.

"Competition is the great teacher," once said the Michigan farm boy who hitched his wagon to a horseless carriage and became one of the world's wealthiest men.

Throughout his career Ford has regarded himself as the lone worker of big business. He has been a proponent of higher wages for labor, lower prices and shorter working hours.

But he has believed always in working out his own economic theories from his own experiments.

In asserting his individual beliefs, he has clashed frequently with those holding opposing views. One instance of his ability or determination to "go it alone" under all circumstances, occurred in 1921.

Battle with Wall Street.

It was reported Ford needed cash badly. In fact, 1921 is sometimes referred to by executives of his company as the "year we went broke."

Wall street assistance, it was said, was offered, but Wall street's terms and conditions were unacceptable to Ford. In that situation he called on all the industrial strategy he had learned in the give and take of industry.

He speeded up production, while other plants were choked with unfinished products. He set out boldly to make himself independent of organized banking.

Ford had decided to make his dealers buy the output, pay cash, or surrender their agencies. Some dealers sank in the flood of machinery, but the daring scheme succeeded. Wall street gasped.

U.S. to Audit Milk Companies' Books to Fix New Farm Price

BY PAUL POTTER.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace invoked another of the broad legal powers granted him in the federal farm adjustment act yesterday to enforce the Chicago milk trade agreement. News of his action reached a meeting of 500 representatives of dairy farmers from three states in the Auditorium hotel to consider a milk strike for Chicago, and turned a threatened revolt into a vote of confidence for the "A. A. A." and "full support of the government's new policies for dairy farmers."

The new power used by Secretary Wallace, it was announced, will send government auditors to inspect the books of every milk company and distributor in the Chicago area in the next few days. This is believed to be the first time an outside agency has attempted to get accurate information on the business of milk distributors.

Audit to Be Basis of Price.

Upon the basis of the new audit, according to D. N. Geyer, manager of the Pure Milk association, which met yesterday, a new scale of prices will be paid dairy farmers which is expected to raise the retail price of milk from 10 to 11 cents a quart. The farmers now receive $1.75 per hundredweight [46½ quarts] for a "base" quantity of milk, and a price fixed by current butter quotations for the rest.

Under the "new deal" the farmers are promised a price of $2.10 per hundred for all milk sold in fluid form. All milk consumed as cream will bring the farmer $1.50 per hundredweight, or an average of about $1.95 per hundredweight for the milk sold in these two forms. At present prices, milk sold for cream brings the farmer about $1.26 per hundred.

Considering the price they are to receive for the "surplus" milk converted into dairy by-products, the weighted price of milk to Pure Milk association members is to be about $1.63, although no definite figures will be available until the government's audit is completed.

Hearing in Capital Sept. 8.

These price advances will be argued at a public hearing on the Chicago milk agreement in Washington Sept. 8. If found reasonable they will be enforced upon every farmer and distributor selling milk from Waukegan to Chicago Heights and the Fox river to Gary.

Announcement late Wednesday night that Wallace had cited the Meadowmoor Dairy company to show cause why its license to sell milk should not be revoked caused a hundred or more of the cut rate milk distributors in the Chicago area to raise their retail prices from 7¼ to 10 cents a quart yesterday. Several independents continued to defy the license provisions, however, declaring they invited prosecution under the new law.

In the local offices of enforcement of the milk code in the Congress Bank building, officials were kept busy yesterday aiding independent milk sellers and farmers in revamping their trade practices and prices to conform with the code.

It was hinted that the government would not wait until the Meadowmoor company's case was heard before citing other violators against whom formal complaints have been filed by the large milk companies and the Pure Milk association.

Officers of the Meadowmoor concern said no formal communication had been received from the government, but that many of the peddlers who buy milk from it for their own customers are meeting the trade agreement prices.

HEARINGS OPEN SEPT. 8 ON CODE FOR PACKERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—The meat packing industry will meet with officials of the agricultural adjustment administration here Sept. 8, it was announced today, to discuss provisions of a proposed marketing agreement for the packers.

The code has already been submitted in tentative form by the Institute of American Meat Packers, claiming to represent 85 per cent of the commercial live stock slaughter in the United States. The meeting next Friday will represent the public hearing prescribed by the farm adjustment act, at which all interested parties are to be heard.

As originally submitted, the packers' code calls for the periodic allocation of the live stock supply among the various processors. This allocation, to be based upon production and demand, would be made through a specially created committee of packers, with the approval of the secretary of agriculture.

Such an allocation, according to the proposal of the packers, would be based on "the same percentage of the United States commercial slaughter as the kill of each processor bears to the total United States commercial slaughter for a given period."

CALL OFF TODAY'S HOSIERY STRIKE; 3 DIE IN RIOTS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—(AP)—A widespread strike of 12,000 union hosiery mill workers set to begin tomorrow was called off today through the efforts of the national labor board. An agreement was reached between the full fashioned hosiery manufacturers and the American Federation of Full Fashioned Hosiery Workers. It provided that if, after 22 days, no compromise is reached, the labor board will arbitrate their differences and its decision will be accepted as binding.

Announcing this, Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York, labor board chairman, said that tomorrow his unit would consider the Philadelphia strike at the Cambria Silk Hosiery company, where three people were killed in disturbances today.

This mill was the only one in the Philadelphia area that had refused to accept the board's proposed settlement of a strike involving a free election among the workers to decide between the company's nonunion policy and unions.

Charles B. Barnes, Philadelphia representative of the board, reported that he had all but negotiated an agreement when the company backed down.

Fights in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Picketing of about seventy shops and factories, which has accompanied the strike of about 6,000 clothing and millinery workers here, attracted thousands of spectators in the downtown district here today and ended in the arrest of 31 persons, injuries to six, and egg, bottle, and brick throwing. The strikers are demanding improved working conditions and increases in wages. More than 200 arrests have been made this week.

CATES, NRA AID, QUITS IN CLASH ON LABOR ISSUE

Chicagoan Submits Plan for New Unions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—The burning issue of organized labor versus industry, long seething under the surface of the NRA, blazed into the open today and disrupted the high ranks of the NRA command.

Dudley Cates of Chicago, assistant administrator of NRA, a key man under Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, resigned. He assigned as the cause the labor policy of the recovery administration.

That was followed by another event of greater significance, a statement from the NRA labor advisory board, protesting strongly against the adoption by NRA of codes containing labor clauses similar to the one wedged into the automobile code.

Green Hints Trickery.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and acting chairman of the NRA labor advisory board, indicated in his discussion that its board's members had been tricked into approving the auto code clause, and that they would fight desperately to prevent any other industry from gaining the same advantage over labor.

In the foreground of the whole situation, the ranks of labor, and of industry appear to be forming for a long struggle, with leaders of labor seeking by the aid of NRA to unionize all of American industry, and with leaders of industry fighting to maintain control over their workers.

Gen. Johnson is confronted with a necessity for taking early sides in the dispute, for since the approval of the automobile code, with its clause giving employers the right to hire and fire workers on a merit basis, 29 other industries have come forward with demands that they be permitted the same rights in their codes.

Cates Would Remake Unions.

In resigning, Mr. Cates made public a plan pronounced by others to be wholly unworkable, for drastic changes in the labor policy of NRA. They were changes which would have necessitated a nation-wide making over of the entire labor union structure, with practical dissolution of all present labor organizations. Mr. Cates is vice president of the Chicago insurance firm of Marsh & McLennon, and a long time personal friend of Gen. Johnson.

Although Mr. Cates assigned the labor dispute as the cause of his quitting, other high officials of the Johnson staff revealed that there were many other differences of opinion. It was learned that there had been a serious clash over the President's reemployment agreement, or blanket code.

Mr. Cates and other NRA officials handed Gen. Johnson a recommendation that the whole scheme of the blue eagles and the President's reemployment agreement be abandoned before it was launched. This, Gen. Johnson refused with a sharp warning to Cates and the others that he had asked them to carry out the policy of the NRA, not to attempt the establishment of a new or contrary policy.

President Takes Over Code.

The drafting of a lumber code, given in charge of Mr. Cates, also brought him into clashes with Gen. Johnson, with the result that it was necessary for President Roosevelt to take a hand in directing the policy of that code.

In many other ways, according to one high NRA official, Mr. Cates became hopelessly irreconcilable to the program being executed by Gen. Johnson, finally making it impossible for Mr. Cates to continue in the recovery administration.

The labor plan proposed by Mr Cates provided for the setting up of new, vertical unions in each industry, under direct government sanction and supervision.

Declaring that, under the present system, the only means for collective bargaining are left with the units of the American Federation of Labor and with the trade associations of industries, Mr. Cates declared both agencies to be "essentially provocative" and "inconsistent with the spirit of the NRA."

Urges Definite Stand.

"Abuses arising from the misuse of power and privilege on both sides are prevalent throughout industry," Mr. Cates declared. "In this situation it is unthinkable for the government to support either side, although a definite stand is called for to prevent widespread disorder and to effectuate that part of the policy of the act which reads: 'To induce and to maintain united action of labor and management under adequate government sanction and supervision,'"

Conceding the probable end of company unions, he despaired of harmonizing certain large employing interests with the A. F. of L.

"The underlying purpose of NRA is to create a balanced economy in the United States," Mr. Cates asserted. "This must necessarily consist of a proper balance in each trade or industry between the economic rights of capital properly invested, the social rights of labor productively employed, and the rights of the consuming public to protection against monopoly prices.

"The industry, therefore, should be the unit in establishing the field of collective bargaining or 'united action of labor and management under adequate government sanction and supervision,' the sanction being the approval of a capital code of fair competition embodying labor agreements for the whole industry.

Urges Unions by Industries.

"This means a vertical union in each industry, free of domination or control, either by employers or outside labor leaders. Such unions would consist of organization by classes or class within the industry to establish and to maintain fair differentials agreed to among the employés themselves, with local branches in each unit of the industry conforming to the standards established for the industry as a whole.

"Such local branches should properly have representation of their own selection on boards of directors or management committees of each establishment. Objections to this plan and obstacles to its adoption will be put forward by the reactionaries on both sides of the present labor question."

Johnson Praises Cates.

Gen. Johnson, in making formal announcement of Cates' resignation, praised his ability. When the differences in their opinions first arose, the administrator said, every effort was made to reconcile them.

"Over a month ago Mr. Cates expressed a desire to leave," the general said, "and he has remained at my solicitation and in the hope that we could find a way to use his great talents in some position which would not raise controverted questions of policy. This has not proved feasible."

YACHT CARRIES PRESIDENT ON WAY TO CAPITAL

New York Salutes Him as Vessel Passes.

New York, Aug. 31.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt, aboard Vincent Astor's yacht Nourmahal, sailed down the Hudson past New York City this afternoon on his way from Poughkeepsie to Washington. He received a tremendous ov tion from harbor craft as the yacht passed the battery, presidential flag flying.

There was no mistaking the President's vessel, even if the flag had been overlooked. Two destroyers and a yacht carrying newspaper men accompanied the Nourmahal, and innumerable small craft trailed along behind.

When the President left Poughkeepsie at noon, he expected to be on Long Island sound tonight. What his movements will be for the next day or two were not announced. The Nourmahal is not due at Washington until Monday night or Tuesday, and no landings are scheduled until then.

Craft Salute Yacht.

All the way down the Hudson the yacht was saluted from the shore and thousands of persons were lined up at the water side to watch it pass. Small boats joined the procession at almost every town and trailed along for a few miles.

The President will not be in direct touch with the affairs of the nation until he returns to Washington.

As he boarded the yacht with Mr. Astor and a party of friends, Stephen T. Early of his secretarial staff said that he had been in communication with Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, the national recovery administrator, today, and that Gen. Johnson had reported satisfactory progress on the troublesome coal code, although it has not yet been completed.

According to Mr. Early, the President is confident that the code will be on his desk awaiting his signature when he reaches Washington.

Moley Sees Him Off.

Among those at the dock at Poughkeepsie as the 1,500 ton yacht with its crew of 42 men pulled out into the Hudson, was Raymond Moley, recently resigned assistant secretary of state. He and Mr. Astor announced that the new magazine they are starting will be called Today and that the first issue will appear on Oct. 1.

At the wharf to see the President off also were Mrs. James Roosevelt, the President's mother; Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall, his daughter, and his two grandchildren, "Sistie" and "Buzzy" Dall, the former proudly wearing the red second prize ribbon she had won this morning with her pony at the Dutchess county horse show. As the yacht backed away, then swung around for the downstream journey, loudest among the farewells were those of the two children calling out to the President of the United States, "Good bye, pop."

Those in the party with the President and Mr. Astor are Justice Frederic Kernochan of New York, Dr. Leslie Heiter of Mobile, Ala., George St. George of Tuxedo, Lytle Hull, W. R. Stewart, and Kermit Roosevelt, son of the former President.

Bricklayers' Pay Rises 12½ Cents an Hour Today

Beginning this morning, the wage scale for bricklayers for the period from Sept. 1, 1933, to May 31, 1934, will be $1.50 an hour. This scale was decided upon more than a month ago at a meeting of the joint arbitration board of the Associated Builders and Bricklayers union No. 21. The new rate, which will give the bricklayers a scale of wages equal to that of electricians, is an incerase of 12½ cents an hour over the temporary scale of $1.37½ per hour which has been in effect since March, 1932.

3 IRISH FACTIONS NEAR MERGER TO FIGHT DE VALERA

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Aug. 31.—(AP)—An official announcement of the fusion of the National Guard, the Center party, and the party of former President William T. Cosgrave into a united national organization is expected during the week-end, it was reported in informed political circles tonight.

An executive conference of the Cumann na nGaedheal, the Cosgrave party, will be held tomorrow, it was added. Although Gen. Owen O'Duffy, organizer and leader of the outlawed National Guard, and Frank McDermott, chief of the Center party, have not given an indication of their plans, it has become known that they have been in close touch with Cosgrave officials.

O'Duffy, who last Sunday addressed a meeting of his banned organization contrary to government orders, said he was confident that in a general election which he expects soon the new party will sweep many parts of the country heretofore regarded as strongholds of President Eamon de Valera.

CO-OPERATION OF POLICE CALLED CUMMINGS PLAN

Not for Federal Control; Defends 'New Deal.'

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 31.—(AP)—The attitude of the federal administration toward the fight against crime was summarized late today by Homer S. Cummings, United States attorney general, in a statement as "Department of justice plans for increased and more effective coöperation between federal, state, and local authorities on a basis of mutual helpfulness."

Mr. Cummings' statement clarified the government's position, which yesterday was described by Pat Malloy, assistant United States attorney general, as favoring the establishment of a strongly centralized federal constabulary through the granting of federal commissions to state and county police officials.

Malloy's address precipitated a controversy and brought comments that such measures were unconstitutional and constituted a threat to states' rights.

Cummings' Statement.

In his statement to the Associated Press today Attorney General Cummings said:

"Evidently there has been some misunderstanding. I do not advocate any plan which contemplates giving federal commissions to state, county and local police officers or members of their prosecuting forces with centralized control at Washington.

"The plans of the department of justice are along the lines of increased and more effective coöperation between the federal, state and local authorities. Of course, it quite goes without saying that any plan having the sanction of the department of justice will be clearly constitutional and in accord with sound principles."

In a formal address before the bar association tonight the attorney general gave his pledge that "emergency legislation is recognized as such by the government and must be and will be exercised within the letter and the spirit of the organic law."

Says Congress Meets Duty.

"Congress," he declared, "has neither abdicated nor shirked its rights or its duties: it has functioned patriotically and efficiently to meet a national crisis. What is really happening is not an alteration in the established form or texture of government, but a change in the spirit and application of government."

He assured his fellow lawyers that there is no occasion to indulge in "artificial fears" of the ultimate outcome of the extraordinary power which has been placed in the hands of President Roosevelt. "There has not been the slightest fundamental departure from the form of our government or the established order," he said. "Our jural system remains intact. The federal equilibrium has not been disturbed. The life, letter and integrity of the constitution have not been impaired. The law of the land."

President Not Dictator.

The attorney general took exception to the term "dictator" as applied to the President. It is "nothing of the kind," he said. "With us there has been no usurpation of power; no substitution of the executive will for the national will; no resort to force or fear; no repression of dissenting thought or criticism; no pretensions to omniscience or omnipotence.

"New laws and new powers, yes; but they march with the sense of justice and the needs of our common country. They rest on established and traditional sanctions."

The attorney general said he believed that constitutional difficulties lying in the path of the so-called new order are "grossly magnified." He said he was confident the courts, in dealing with "given cases," would consider them in the light of our whole experience, not merely by what was said a hundred years ago.".

Defends "New Deal."

Mr. Cummings warned against false tendencies in interpreting current developments. "For this reason we are apt to be bewildered when some movement like the 'new deal' comes along and seeks to treat ideas and principles as living and vital things," he said.

"Many of the current criticisms, as well as the excessive hopes it inspires, spring, I apprehend, very largely from the passion to generalize and to see it in the abstract for what it isn't, instead of in the concrete for what it is.

"Pressure of necessity and widespread distress have made us acutely conscious of serious social maladjustments and have created a condition in which new ideals and forces, long gestating, have a chance to be born, and under conscious planning and leadership they may give us something of a new order."

Sees Great Energy, Many Things to Learn.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

His highness the Maharajah Gaekwar of Baroda, Sir Sayaji Rao III., served tea and conversation yesterday afternoon in the bungalow on the roof of the Morrison hotel, from which he departs today on his return to India.

Although he is said to be the fourth richest man in the world and lives amid great magnificence in his capital city of Baroda, ruling over 2,443,007 Hindus and Moslems with the help of the British resident and native ministers, the maharajah is a simple and modest man of extremely liberal ideas. He informally parked a pretty girl on either side of him at the tea table and talked amiably of his impressions of America and Chicago.

"It is much energy that I see here," he said. "I would like to come many times. There is much to learn. One needs much knowledge to see your Exposition. It is here I would come to study and learn. To Europe I go to repose. I am 72 years old, you know, and must go there every year during our hot season. In India it is a place to sleep. There is much need for progress. There should be great contact between our people and yours."

Expounds Religion of Service.

As to religion, although he is head of the church in his state and keeps all customs, his conviction is that it is the service which a man gives to his fellows that really counts.

"There is not much difference between the religions," he said. "It is what results in service that counts. I am trying to bring my priests to this idea, to get them away from forms. At home I wear a little red mark on my forehead and the proper turbans and costumes. It is all a complicated system that has grown up among us. I might apply it here by saying that a man's dress and the color and form of his caste marks would show what city and what church he came from. A New York Presbyterian would wear a certain sign. A Chicago Methodist would have another mark."

Wealth Means Little to Him.

All these things, even his wealth, seem to mean very little to the maharajah.

"I am a very rich man," he said, "and so people approach me with special marks of reverence. [He placed his folded hands on his forehead to indicate the salute.] But among themselves they do not keep close class distinctions. In the east a person is taken for what he is worth. No great distinction is made against women. I have women physicians in my service and have legalized divorce, for it is a human need."

"Is the Gandhi movement growing in India?" he was asked.

"I have been away since last spring and cannot tell," he replied. "That feeling is like the American people when they dumped the chests of tea into the harbor at Boston. Your people were strong and independent, but our people can do nothing."

He was about to continue in this strain when he was deftly interrupted by an English friend, who turned the talk to something nearer home, Hull house.

Anxious to Observe the Poor.

The maharajah has been anxious to learn something of conditions among the poor in Chicago, but he did not have time. He got as far as Hull house and tea there, but did not see the slums.

"It is very good to see how different grades of people live," he said. "I have been out among my own people and seen the huts where the sun shines through the straw roofs in summer and the rain comes through in winter, and then I have seen the orderliness and cleanliness and organization of life among the higher grades. I am afraid there has been much unemployment among my people, although I do not know. I am going to study these things."

The maharajah is a doctor of laws of Benares Hindu university and maintains a college in Baroda. He astonished the Hindus by building a mosque for the Mohammedans in Baroda. He also sat down at dinner with members of the untouchable class.

"But I am a maharajah and may do anything," he said. "It was to show that these old divisions were becoming thinner."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 31.—The bulk of a fortune of nearly $1,000,000 will benefit hospitals of America as a result of a last minute revocation of bequests to British hospitals in the will of a wealthy Londoner of German descent named Alexander Henry Louis Bohrmann.

The testator died on Aug. 3 at the age of 51, leaving over $900,000. His original will directed that the residue go to such hospitals in England as his executors should determine. But by a codicil just before his death he directed that the will "should be read and construed as if the word 'England' were deleted and the words 'United States of America' substituted.

A friend of the testator explained tonight that the latter was angry because the London county council took over his house in Denmark Hill, a London suburb, for use as an extension to Maudsley hospital, adjoining.

Peasants and Shepherds Flock to Polls.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ANDORRA, Aug. 31.—The impression in the tiny republic of Andorra tonight was that the party of co-princes—President Albert Lebrun of France and the Spanish bishop of Urgel—would win the three cornered fight in today's elections with universal male suffrage, which put an end to 1,100 years of patriarchal rule. The other two contending parties were those of the young Andorrans and their elders.

The issue was, however, still uncertain in four of the six villages. The triumph of the supporters of the co-princes would smooth the way for reconciliation between the Andorrans and their overlords, although the young Andorrans might be expected to continue their agitation.

Day Like a Festival.

Today was like a festival in the mountain state. Sturdy mountain peasants put on their best clothes and descended, staff in hand, down the precipitous paths which lead from lonely farm houses perched high on the mountains. Shepherds left their flocks grazing 3,000 feet high on the mountains and came down in order not to miss the election.

The elders did not give way to the claims of the younger generation that they had "sold out" the republic to concession hunters. Young Andorrans who came home from Barcelona in order to vote were refused permission. The orders were that no Andorran who had not lived in the republic during the last twelve months could vote.

Others were prevented from voting because they could not submit proof that they were over 25 years of age. In several places there were demands that the election be annulled because of difficulties with which would-be voters were confronted.

Women in Noisy Demonstration.

In San Julian women of the village, evidently regretting they had no vote, noisily demonstrated in favor of the party of co-princes and urged their men folk to vote for this candidate.

Gendarmes with rifles patrolled the vayys in motor trumks, but did not approach the polling booths, where the Andorran police maintained order. Crowds of tourists from France and Spain visited Andorra today to watch the elections.

PACIFISTS URGED TO USE MOVIES FOR PROPAGANDA

Speaker Calls Present Methods Useless.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Prof. Francis J. Onderdonk of the University of Michigan advocated the use of motion pictures to spread pacifist propaganda before the convention of the World Fellowship of Faiths at the Morrison hotel yesterday. He said that the present propaganda methods reach only those persons who already belong to the peace movement, and argued that pictures would move thousands not enlisted in the cause.

Use Wholesale Methods.

"Modern warfare," Prof. Onderdonk said, "is conducted with machine guns, tanks, and poison gasses. The sharpshooter is nearly out of date. Likewise, a peace campaign must be carried on in an equally wholesale manner. A peace campaign can no longer rely on the individual speaker."

Other speakers were the Rev. Hugh S. Mackenzie, pastor of the Morgan Park Congregational church and Dr. Frank E. Mossman, president of Southwestern college, Winfield, Kas.

Science and Religion.

Last night Prof. Masahary Anesaki of the Imperial university, Tokio, told the convention that science and the modern scientific method had usurped the place formerly held by philosophy. This, he said, has resulted not only in vast scientific and industrial progress, but also has thrown religious thought temporarily into chaos.

Prof. Masahary, who is widely known in this country for his contributions in the field of comparative religion, pointed out that the scientific method never could be the docile "handmaiden of religion' that philosophy has been. He added that the crux of the problem of science and religion is "the preponderant influence of science on the popular mind and the consequent preference of scientific knowledge for religious faith."

BENNETT SPURNS U. S. RECOVERY PLAN FOR CANADA

MONTREAL, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Canada cannot afford to imitate the United States in all phases of the national recovery program, Premier R. B. Bennett told a group of leading Montreal business men at a dinner arranged in his honor tonight by the board of trade. The premier returned today from London.

As the fifth exporting nation of the world, Canada's very life depends on her export trade, he said. In this she encounters the competition of highly specialized, highly industrialized, and highly efficient nations.

If this country is to continue to compete it could not afford to experiment with shorter hours of work and higher rates of pay," the premier added. Earlier in the day Bennett revealed that competition of Russian lumber with Canada lumber in the United Kingdom market is receiving the serious attention of the governments of the two countries.

Find Life Preserver of Boatman Lost in Lake

One of two life preservers worn by Lawrence Carlson, 21 years old, of Muskegon, Mich., when he disappeared from the view of two companions who reached shore by swimming for several hours on Monday night after their sailboat capsized on the lake, was washed up on the beach at Gary yesterday. Finding of the life preserver convinced coast guards that Carlson had lost his life. Glen Smith, also of Muskegon, and Frank York, 21 years old, of 6648 North Maplewood avenue, were Carlson's companions in the 18 foot boat.

Gold from Duck Gizzard Put on Display in Museum

Some placer gold which was "mined" by a duck in New York state is now on exhibition at the Field Museum of Natural History in the Frederick J. V. Skiff hall. The gold occurred in a deposit of glacial gravel and was appropriated by the duck with gravel taken into his gizzard.

LINDBERGHS VISIT ROYALTY OF TWO NATIONS IN A DAY

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Danish and Swedish royalty opened wide their doors today to Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, who had a private audience with the king and queen of Denmark and later visited the Swedish crown prince and his princess.

Leaving the castle by automobile, the American aviator and his wife then went to Elsinore, where they boarded a steam ferry and proceeded to Helsingborg on the Swedish mainland. The car belonging to Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf took them to Sofiero palace, where the crown prince, through the Swedish ministers at Copenhagen, had invited them to lunch. Several hours later they returned to Copenhagen. It was the American flyer's first visit to the land of his forefathers.

TRIBES CLASH IN TURKESTAN; 500 SLAIN IN BATTLE

IMLA, India, Aug. 31.—(AP)—One hundred and fifty persons were killed today as the result of heavy fighting between Tungans and Kirghiz tribes in eastern Turkestan.

The Kirghiz captured the old city of Kashgar from the Tungans, and most of the inhabitants fled, taking refuge in the new city of Kashgar, five miles to the southwest. Reports reaching here indicated that there was looting and massacre in the old city.

Kashgar is in a rich oasis at the confluence of roads leading to Peiping, India and Russia. It is a collection of squalid huts enclosed within a mud wall. The new town, which was constructed in 1838, is almost as large as the old. From 1864 to 1877 Kashgar was the capital of an independent Mohammedan kingdom embracing the western portion of the Chinese empire. The population is about 50,000.

Stirring Tales of Sea Offered Readers Today

Autobiography of Skipper Is One of Them.

BY AL CHASE.

"DEEP WATER," by Pryce Mitchell, the autobiography of a sea captain [Atlantic Monthly-Little Brown], easily takes a place on the shelf with the really great books of the sea. It's a simply told, straightforward, clean cut story of a clean minded youngster climbing from the lowest in the sail to the highest in steam. It's packed with salty thrills of an adventurous life on sea and land as well, for some of the fastest moving chapters are the author's youthful adventures in Australia. It's an inspiring, splendid life story, told modestly but vividly and humorously.

"The Sea Saga of Dynamite Johnny O'Brien," set forth by Milton A. Dalby [Lowman & Hanford Co.], is one of the saltiest deep water biographies of a two fisted, scrapping seaman we ever raced through. He fought his way from the fo'c's'le of a windjammer to the bridge of a steamer in a deep water career of sixty-five years. The chapters on his bucko mate, Robert O'Malley, whom Jack London used as his "Sea Wolf," are as thrilling and terrible as anything ever written about the sea. Dalby has done a smashing job.

High hatting it round the world in a super de luxe 118 foot yacht, with not a thrill in the boatload, is "The Cruise of the Zaca," by Templeton Crocker [Harpers]. Never have we read of such a long journey with such a sedate and ladylike log as this voyage produced or such fussy, timid travelers.

The author-owner climbed into his bunk and went on a liquid diet every time the boat rocked a bit. In fact, sickness and medicines seem to have been his hobby.

He even compiled a list of various diseases one might enjoy during a cruise of the tropics and labeled them "Health Rules for the Tropics." At the end of the book, instead of a much needed map, is a list of medical supplies taken on the cruise and the sizes of the doses.

William J. Makin, whose "South of Suez" filled a unique place on the 1932 travel shelf, has written another vivid volume of tropical peregrinations in "Red Sea Nights" [McBride] which is as colorful, entertaining and picturesque as his other work. Mr. Makin is a British newspaper man who knows the sultry secrets of Asian and African underworlds. This volume is a glowing picture of oriental life on the Red sea and in the desolate desert ports of Arabia and Egypt. Bandits, slave traders, tomb robbers, drug smugglers, pearl divers, pilgrims and tourists pace the picturesque pages of Mr. Makin's lively book.

George Gibbs, who has a long list of stirring fiction to his credit, has written another thriller of the sea in "Foul Weather" [Appleton]. It's a lively tale of a battle between a hard drinking captain and his equally hard fisted mate for the love of a young woman, sole survivor of a wreck. It's based, so it's claimed, on the "Glendower" murder case, a famous unsolved crime.

With perhaps one exception "The Sea Witch," by Alexander Laing [Farrar-Rinehart], is the most gorgeously thrilling, beautifully written and romantically alluring novel of sailing ship days that we've ever reveled in. It's the life story of the fastest clipper that ever sailed between Manhattan and China—the Sea Witch—and the three brothers who sailed her as captain, mate and seaman, two of whom loved the same woman.

It's a terrifying tale at times, with horrific happenings at sea that make Jack London's worst brutalities seem rather casual. Wholesale death, battles with Malay pirates, mutinies, fights with sea and men, unbelievable cruelties by bucko mates and bestial fo'c's'le hands, all lend contrast to the charming chapters on old New York of the forties between record breaking voyages.

Reading "The Sea Witch" is like dashing through a travel tale, for it takes the reader round and round the world, on voyage after voyage.

The Sea Witch was an actual clipper and the author has made "The Sea Witch" a living, authentic and vivid picture of glamorous days. It's one of the finest salt water stories of all time.

Society Sees Rugby; Some Understand It

English Visitors Play at Onwentsia Field.

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

SOCIETY assembled at the Onwentsia polo field again yesterday, but this time it wasn't to watch a polo match. It was to see fifteen young Englishmen and the same number of young men from this part of the country play an exciting game which isn't seen here often—rugby. For many in the audience, which filled the grandstands and numerous automobiles parked at the edge of the field, it was their first view of English football, and during the first period every one practically was so busy asking his or her neighbor questions about the game that the rapid actions on the field weren't observed.

By the time the second period started, however, the novices had read the brief explanation of the game in their programs or obtained some information from their more cosmopolitan neighbors and every one was thrilled at the events on the field. Heeling the ball appealed particularly to the youngsters, of whom there were many in the audience, and we predict that this will be a favorite sport of young Lake Foresters from now on. All the girls who have been giving the young Englishmen a sample of Chicago hospitality and cordiality since they arrived here a week ago were there to watch the game and to cheer the visitors on to victory.

Some of them were Miss Jean Schweppe, Miss Mary Reed, Miss Eleanor Wheeler, Miss Edith Behr, Miss Fleury Leonard, Miss Hope Leonard, Miss Jean Wilhelm, Miss Jean Wingfield, Miss Suzette Morton, and Miss Jean Stevens. They all were among Gaylord Donnelley's guests at the supper dance at the club that followed the match. Miss Mary Senior, who had given a luncheon for the young English visitors before the match, left for Charlevoix before time for the game—it didn't start until 6 o'clock—so she was not among the rooters. Miss Schweppe and her cousin, Miss Reed, were with the latter's mother and brother, Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed and John Reed, and their grandmother, Mrs. John G. Shedd.

Miss Schweppe was as piquant as ever in a mustard yellow silk suit, dotted in white, and a white hat. Miss Reed had chosen a dark blue and white printed silk frock and a dark blue narrow brimmed hat with a white band as her costume for the afternoon. A white coat which was hanging on her arm when she arrived was on her back before the game was finished, for it turned cool as soon as the sun went down and those who were in summer frocks without coats were decidedly uncomfortable.

Most of the women present were wearing summer clothes, by the way, and almost the only new fall outfit we saw was that worn by Mrs. Owen B. Jones, who was smart in a brown ostrich wool gown, a brown silk turban, and a brown and beige plaid taffeta scarf and bag to match. Mrs. Willard Boyden, who sat in the next box to the one in which Miss Schweppe was sitting, was wearing a gown of the same material as Miss Schweppe's suit, and she also was wearing a white hat, but hers had a brown band.

Mrs. Laurance H. Armour was looking unusually pretty in a sky blue piqué frock and a white hat. With her were Mr. Armour and their son, Larry. Mrs. Edward F. Swift and her two grandsons and their mother, Mrs. T. Philip Swift, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Connors, and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Morse were sitting together, but since none in the party knew much about rugby they didn't seem to be having a very good time until a young society reporter who had gone to school in England explained something about the game to them. Miss Libby Chase, in riding clothes, was there, and also Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, who had arranged the exciting East-West polo matches that were played at the Onwentsia field several weeks ago.

Two of the most interesting onlookers were young Bobby and Billy Coleman of Baltimore who were with their aunt, Mrs. John Coleman Jr. Mrs. Coleman was stunning in a large brown hat and a very becoming beige cloth coat with a huge fox collar the same shade. The Leonard sisters, Fleury and Hope, were with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Belden, their son, Joe Jr., and their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Roy McWilliams of Bidart, France.

The Alexander H. Revells, the Arthur A. Burrows, and the William A. P. Watkinses were together in a car, and so were Miss Theodora Shaw, Miss Mary Robinson and Miss Helen Ewing. Mrs. Ronald P. Boardman was escorted by her twin brothers, Sanger and Theodore Robinson, and Miss Suzanne Morris was beaued by Newell Childs and his father, C. Frederick Childs.

Some of the others who watched the game were the Benjamin B. Bryans Jr., Benjamin III., Helen Mary, Grant, and David Bryan, the Gordon Kelleys, the Russell Kelleys and their son, the "Nick" Galitzines, the Woodberry Obers, the Ellsworth Laflins, the Lloyd Laflins, Mr. and Mrs. Donald P. Welles, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Welles and Charles W. Dempsters, the "Jack" Shaws, the British vice consul, Malcolm F. Henderson, and his charming wife, the former Paula Wilms, the Walter S. Brewsters, Mrs. Helene Martin, Mrs. George Richardson, and the George F. McLaughlins.

By Anna Nangle.

I have never been one to go into a dither about such things, but I've a feeling that an unusually brilliant star has arisen in the motion picture firmament—one who, with the sort of treatment methinks the young lady astute enough to insist upon receiving, will be a real addition to our screen. In her latest rôle, Miss Katharine Hepburn is positively breathtaking!

While the entire cast of "Morning Glory" is composed of experienced and finished workmen—Adolph Menjou, C. Aubrey Smith, and Douglas Fairbanks Jr. for example—although direction is intelligent and photography superb—it's the girl of the cleanly chiseled features—the clipped, lovely speech, who brings life and warmth to the film.

Creeping in out of the cold and rain to gaze with awe and adoration at the portraits of the great ones of the theater—Terry, Drew, Bernhardt—shabby Eva Lovelace, idealistic, naive, makes her starry eyed way into the world of the footlights. To the denizens of that callous sphere she's just a mad child no one has the heart to disillusion.

Three men figure in her destiny—a woman chased producer who is casually and unmeaningly cruel to her; an old actor with the wisdom and understanding of a long and varied experience; and a young playwright who seeks only to protect and befriend.

The first half of the film couldn't be better. The climax and finish don't fulfill the startling promise of the preceding reels—the plot is at fault, I think—but the talent and glamour of its star remain. Mr. Lowell Sherman, the director; the gentlemen of the cast, and the writer of the dialogue are deserving of praise—but for Miss Hepburn—the laurel wreath.

If you'd like to see something sensitive, delicate and stirring—by all means see "Morning Glory"!

Tavern Tars to Meet Cliff Dwellers Sept. 16.

BY JUDITH CASS.

SHIP AHOY! The sailing supremacy of the great lakes is about to be settled. Beginning at four bells (translated 2 o'clock) the afternoon of Sept. 16 the Cliff Dwellers aboard the good craft Bluenose are going to try their hardest to outsail the Tavern Tars skippering the Gertrude L. Thebaud in a four mile race on Lake Michigan.

Over lamb chops and black coffee the papers in the matter were signed yesterday noon by the presidents and the chairmen of entertainment of the two clubs concerned. Now there remain only two things to do: issue neat little dodgers to all of the members informing them of the event and telling them that the first 125 persons to reply will be the lucky sailors . . . and secondly, to sail the race.

It was some weeks back that the Tavern members with light hearted rivalry challenged the Cliff Dwellers to a sailing race and received an acceptance from their more conservative "forbears" (you will recall it was a group of merrymaking Cliff Dwellers who organized the Tavern). But it has taken several luncheons and dinners to iron out all of the wrinkles of the race and decide which club would take the Bluenose and which the Thebaud, both famous representatives of the North Atlantic fishing fleet here for A Century of Progress.

Course of Race Still in Question.

The course of the race is still in question. It may be four miles out to the Carter H. Harrison crib and back and then again it may be something else. Herbert E. Hyde, the Cliff Dwellers' chairman of entertainment, explained yesterday. It is definite, however, that the lucky members of each club with their guests will board tenders at 1:30 the 16th and then cruise out to the two schooners anchored at the mouth of the Chicago harbor, the starting point and the goal of the race.

Just to insure that all of the sailors are on time there are to be no elaborate club luncheons before, but there will be refreshments on board and a real seaman's dinner [win . . . lose . . . or tie] at the Tavern following the race with the Tavern Tars as hosts to the Cliff Dwellers. Other entertainment on the day's bill includes some antics . . . pirate stunts and things similar . . . aboard the two ships during the sailing. Mr. Hyde and Alfred L. Shaw, chairman of entertainment for the Tavern, are in charge of this, but they're not telling what it's to be.

Just how much of a part the guest sailors are going to have in sailing the race remains to be seen. The two crews are, of course, going to be aboard the schooners, but for one afternoon we understand they're planning to put away thought of serious competition and leave it up to the Tavern and Cliff Dweller skippers.

John W. Norton, as the president

Small Velvet Hats Shown in Many Designs

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Flattering little scraps, these new fall hats! . . . even though they are made of mere nothings of velvet and this sleek new suede cloth! And they aren't the simple little things they look. Knowing fingers have twisted and deftly draped and swathed until these new creations are about the most ingenious models you can spend your money for.

They are high and pointed, they have feathers and trimmings of two toned ribbon and velvet . . . they have glittering pins and clips, and some of the very new arrivals have gone Mae Westish with wide brims and ostrich feathers.

If you like vermillion you will grab the tiny numbers of fabric in this glowing color . . . they are perfect for a smoke gray frock or suit . . . and there is a ruby red velvet trio of small draped hat, shoulder cape, and long gloves that will contrast a plain colored ensemble and make it an instant success.

Dashing black hats are molded or swathed close to the head, and the designers are doing exciting things with veils . . . one high hat of black is fitted with a very wide meshed veil, and where each thread crosses the other to form the wide square a tiny glittering sequin is sewn.

Stitched velvet berets and lots of very full black unstitched berets are fashioned so that one side of your face and an entire eye are completely obliterated. You pull them down further than last year's numbers . . . and if you like this pull down idea you'll fall for the visored affairs that look like sissie jockey caps, with frivolous bows planted coquettishly in the middle of the visor.

If you are dallying with the idea of a wide brimmed picture hat of velvet, be sure the line is perfect and the crown a miracle of cut and design. A pluggy crown can ruin the very classic effect you are trying to get . . . but these new, simple face framing, wide brimmed velvet hats are undoubtedly quite the most interesting things you can pull on your curls as a perfect foil for the new long afternoon dresses.

Front Views and Profiles

HE was a long, lean westerner in boots and a sombrero, and he wandered into a Wabash avenue piano store. Sitting down at one of the pianos he began to play. He sounded like Pianist— Lee Simms, and Future— Eyefuls— Resourcefulness even played Jews. some of the favorite Simms numbers. Then he changed his style. His fingers wandered over the keys in the harmonies of "Nola" and you'd have sworn it was Vincent Lopez playing. He imitated several more artists of the air while people gathered around to listen. Just picked it up, he says. Spends all winter sitting around a ranch house listening to the radio, and puts in the evenings learning to imitate the pianists who broadcast.

JOSEPH SANTLEY says he knows his little girl, who is four years old, will be an actress when she grows up.

. . . A young matron with a highly paid job, curled up in a big chair in pink satin pajamas, doing petit point. . . . Two boys from Louisiana in a dilapidated topless roadster bearing the sign "No top, but fully covered by a mortgage." . . . The automobile licenses of 40 different states counted on one thoroughfare within an hour, also a Manila and a Hawaii license. . . . A pair of step-ins hanging on the line at the Indian village at the Fair, looking anachronistic. . . . Barber in West Madison street (is there no place that girl won't go?) talking about radio celebrities and adding, "I do like the Old Microbe." . . . An old man selling incense burners and fat Buddhas in front of a church on Sheridan road. . . . Sign on hotel at Van Buren and Plymouth, "Post No Bills. Zone of Quiet." . . . Well, posters sometimes fairly shout their message. . . . Walter Greenebaum, manager of a lake steamship line, wearing a waiter's badge when he assists at the loading of cargo before a boat sails, because, with a badge on, the stevedores pay attention to his orders.

A FELLOW at State and Madison streets the other day showed a nice sense of how to act in an emergency. The light had changed and one of those annoying drivers who have no thought for pedestrians' rights completely blocked the crossing with his limousine. Most of the crowd trying to cross the street merely looked annoyed, but this fellow was not stopped for a second. He opened the car door, walked through it, and out the other door, while the driver looked back in amazement at his thus making a thoroughfare of his tonneau.

BY way of report. John J. Riley writes that there are between 500 and 600 Jews living in Chicago who were born and reared in Ireland. His source of information is Prof. Hugh Smith, curator of the Irish Free State exhibit at the Fair. Prof. Smith also says there is a party of 65 Dublin Jews now in the city who came here to visit the Fair. Most of them speak good Gaelic, and they take great delight in translating the Gaelic inscriptions on the Irish works for the benefit of other visitors to the exhibit.

HOWEVER, it was neither an Irishman nor a Jew who translated the signs around the lagoons as reading "Don't Throw Rufus in the Water."

Opera Revival Chances Good, Says Leader

The chances are good that the project to bring opera back to Chicago for the winter will be successful, it was admitted yesterday by Herbert M. Johnson, formerly artistic director of the Chicago Civic Opera. With Gennaro Papi and others Mr. Johnson has been prominent among the opera lovers who have gathered at the Auditorium theater in recent weeks to discuss the possibilities. It is probable that an announcement will be forthcoming the latter part of next week as to the personnel of the prospective organization.

Whatever arrangements are made the new organization will have no connection with the demised Chicago Civic Opera, it was emphasized. It will have a name and an identity of its own, although individual members of the original undoubtedly will be engaged for the successor company.

The apparent choice for conductor under the new régime will be Papi, whom many consider the equal if not the superior of any conductor in the world today.

There is little doubt that the old Auditorium, dear to Chicagoans through its historic associations, will be the scene of the productions in the event that the plan is realized.

U. S. TELLS YOU HOW TO PREPARE FROZEN HONEY

New Delicacy Is Easily Made, Chemists Say.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—A seasonable discovery of how to make a new quick frozen dessert from honey has just been announced by two United States department of agriculture chemists. In announcing frozen honey as a new delicacy, R. E. Lothrop and S. I. Gertler of the bureau of chemistry and soils explain that their discovery was accidental in the course of studies of carbohydrates.

A solution of honey—about one part honey to two parts water—can be frozen quickly, right at the table if desired. All that is required is a small glass container, such as a jelly glass or heavy tumbler, the solution of honey and a small quantity of solid carbon dioxide [dry ice] which has been pounded to a powder in a small sack.

How to Freeze Honey.

Wrap the glass container in a towel or napkin, and add a part of a spoonful of the carbon dioxide. Stir the mixture vigorously and add small quantities of carbon dioxide until the consistency of the mixture is satisfactory. Then let it stand for a few moments to allow any surplus of carbon dioxide to evaporate. The result, according to the chemists, is "a product of very smooth texture resembling sherbet in appearance and texture."

It is easy to make a similar dessert in larger quantities either in an ice cream freezer, using salt and ice, or by rapid stirring of a honey solution in a can set into a pail of solid carbon dioxide.

Quick Freezing Necessary.

With an ice cream freezer and the salt and ice mix, it is necessary to turn the handle rapidly and freeze the mixture as rapidly as possible. Slow freezing causes formation of ice crystals that injure the texture of the dessert. In quick frozen honey the flavor seems to be intensified. The addition of small amounts of lemon juice before freezing tends to reduce sweetness and adds tartness to the frozen product.

Since in recent years many soda water and ice cream dealers have been carrying solid carbon dioxide in stock to use in packing ice cream, it is now more readily obtainable than formerly. The chemists advise caution in handling it, and warn that children should not be permitted to play with it or to put the substance in their mouths, since it is likely to cause serious injury.

COLORFUL TABLE ADDS ZEST TO THE DAILY FOOD

"Everyday meals become more interesting when they are served against a colorful background," says Mrs. Dorothy Barnard Scott of Cornell college of home economics. "The best part of it is that, to produce such a background no big outlay of money is needed.

"You might start by dipping an old white tablecloth into pale gold dye. With it, use green glasses from the 'five-and-dime.' Add green glass plates and a shallow glass bowl of floating pansies, and your summer luncheon will look different and appetizing even if the food is the same kind you had yesterday.

"Woven runners from the 'five-and-dime' make the foundation for a different type of table setting. Often these inexpensive runners have all the charm of hand woven peasant designs. They are large enough for individual places, or they may be stitched together by hand to form a larger cloth. Their bright reds and blues call for the same colors in glasses, flowers and dishes. The pottery type of china ware is particularly suitable with such cloths.

Oyster Season Officially Here; It's SeptembeR!

When the clock struck midnight last night the oyster season was officially under way, and some 40,000 persons in addition to the 30,000 employed year round, will return to work this month to harvest the 1933 crop of oysters, which this year will attain a value of about $20,000,000. Oysters contain vitamins A, B, C, D, and G, their vitamin content is about 200 times as great as milk, eggs, or beefsteak and, next to milk, they supply a more balanced and complete diet than any other food, according to many dietitians.

NOW IS THE TIME FOR PRESERVING YOUR TOMATOES

Season Reaches Height; Important Food.

The bright red tomato is beckoning housewives just now to be canned or preserved for the winter table. All the fine nutritive values of the tomato, as well as the flavor, are at their best when the sun has had full opportunity to do its work, explains Miss Aneta Beadle, extension nutritionist, Purdue university, in urging home canning of tomatoes.

Season at Height.

The season for home grown tomatoes is now at its height. Last year the tomato crop that was sent to market amounted to more than 18 million bushels of fresh tomatoes, and the canneries put out more than one and a half million tons—nearly all used in the United States.

Americans appreciate tomatoes, as the United States is said to be the largest per capita consumer. Tomatoes are unique, in that they are one of the very best of the "protective foods," because they are a good source of three of the principal vitamins.

Easier to Can.

Because of their acid content and their juiciness, tomatoes are easier to can than other vegetables. Scald and peel. Pack whole or cut into pieces. Cover with hot tomato juice, then process in a hot water bath or steamer 20 to 25 minutes.

Tomatoes are an important winter food and it is recommended that they be served in some form three times a week. This amounts to about a pint a week for each member of the family or 16-20 quarts per person for eight months of winter. It generally takes about 2½ to 3½ pounds of raw tomatoes to make one quart canned, or, roughly, a bushel of raw tomatoes to make an eight months' supply for one person.

Household Hints

Floors must be cleaned thoroughly before they are painted; paint will not stick on dirt or grease.

Use wet scissors to cut marshmallows for salad or dessert.

For safety, can all vegetables immediately after picking. If they are allowed to stand in a warm kitchen, flat-sour may develop.

Sheer material like chiffon will not pucker when it is stitched on the machine if strips of paper are placed underneath it and the stitching is done through both fabric and paper.

FOOD BARGAINS AWAIT SHOPPERS OVER LABOR DAY

Prices Not Yet Reflecting Signing of Codes.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Many bargains in foods await the thousands of families preparing for a jaunt into the open spaces over Labor day and for other thousands who will be coming to the World's Fair city for the three day holiday.

Grocers report that food prices have been held in check in spite of the signing of new codes and the compliance with terms of the President's NRA drive among consumers. This was verified last night as week-end food prices were checked in advance of today's "big rush" to food markets by the shopping public.

Home Grown Tomatoes.

For one thing, tomatoes fresh from the gardens and truck farms are in the market in abundance and at the season's lowest prices. They provide a convenient form of juices while the orange crop is at low ebb, as well as an economical salad.

Salad dressings in many forms are attractively priced also. A short crop of head lettuce this season has kept the prices up in local stores at a time when the prices usually go down. The heads are smaller than usual and some stores are selling green leaf lettuce from nearby gardens instead.

A wider variety of apples is available this week-end than has been possible in recent weeks, as shipments arrive from Arkansas, southern Illinois and Michigan. Cantaloupe and watermelons are abundant, cheap and of unusually fine flavor. Fresh peas from Colorado, cauliflower, kale, eggplant, Bartlett pears, fresh plums and peaches are also in season, while the first of the gulf orchard grapefruit are being sold in local stores.

Bunch Bananas Passing.

Housewives who have noted the absence of the tall bunches of bananas hanging in store windows are finding upon inquiry that a new method of handling this old standby fruit has come into vogue. The bananas are ripened in central warehouses, the fruit is picked off in "hands" of 6 to 10 bananas each, and sent to stores wrapped in boxes.

Less bruised bananas are sold in this manner, grocers pointing out that, although the tips might show a greenish tinge, the fruit is fully ripened and the starches turned to easily digested sugars when brown or black spots show on the main exterior of the peel.

The late potato crop has improved so much in the last two weeks that most kinds of potatoes are going down somewhat in price, and may be even lower during September. Onions are much cheaper than a year ago, when the crop was next to a failure, making pot roasts and vegetables a favorite entree on local tables at this season.

Picnic Supplies in Demand.

Sales of potato chips, peanut butter, bottled beverages, cheese, crackers and cookies, cold meats and sandwich spreads of all kinds are expected to be heavy this week-end.

Efforts to place the new government trade agreements for food products into effect before snow flies are being made in Chicago and other food centers of the nation. Codes are being drawn up for the producers and handlers of such crops as melons, prunes, oranges, grapefruit, potatoes, apples, pears and other perishables.

Jelly and juice grapes are coming into the Chicago markets in increasing amounts. The Michigan Concord crop is not expected to be ready until late in September; table grapes now coming largely from California. Peaches from Michigan are still plentiful and reasonable in half bushel and bushel lots for canning or spicing.

In the meat markets spring lamb, hams and picnics, cold meats, pork and beef roasts, broiling and frying chickens, bacon and soup concentrates continue to offer bargain possibilities.

HOMEMADE RYE BREAD BALLASTS THE "NEW DEAL"

Flowing Seidels Beg Its Company.

BY MARY MEADE.

It didn't take the return of the flowing seidel and the foaming stein to show us that we adored rye bread—though the loaves now consumed along with great hole-y slivers of Swiss and drafts of liquid amber certainly must have it all over those enjoyed B. N. D. [before new deal].

But rye bread has always been a friend of Dutch supper lovers, midnight snackers, hustling noontime lunchers—and just about every other kind of eating animal there is. And, say I, if rye bread picked up at the corner as we dash home to feed 'em is good, then how much better—for an occasional glorified treat, at least—would great brown slices of homemade rye seem to an appreciative family. And lest in the hustle of fall cleaning you've mislaid the way to do it, may I pass on my rye favorite guaranteed not to shrink, ravel or run down at the heels:

1 cake compressed yeast
2 cups milk, lukewarm
1 tablespoon melted, cooled butter
2 cups rye meal
2 cups white or whole wheat flour
2 tablespoons sugar

Dissolve the yeast in ½ cup of the lukewarm milk and then combine it with the rest of the milk. Add the shortening and then the mixed dry ingredients, beating them in a portion at a time. Beat well, turn into 2 small, well greased bread pans and let rise till doubled in size. Then bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] for 45 minutes.

But maybe you have an affinity for steamed breads—and still love rye. Then make it—

STEAMED BLUEBERRY RYE BREAD.

1½ cups rye meal
1 cup whole wheat flour
2½ cups corn meal
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups sour milk
½ cup dark molasses
1 cup fresh blueberries

Mix the meals and flour and thoroughly blend in the soda and salt. Add the milk and then the molasses. Finally stir in the blueberries and turn into well greased tin cans. Cover and steam for 2 hours.

Our next recipe is not only a Russian favorite, but also a tempting way of using up stale rye bread and some of this fall's husky crop of apples. Here it goes:

RYE-APPLE CHARLOTTE.

6 good apples
2 cups rye breadcrumbs
½ cup butter
⅔ cup sugar
4 tablespoons powdered sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup whipping cream

Pare, core and slice the apples. Place them in a saucepan with the water, ⅔ cup sugar and the salt all mixed together. Simmer until tender. Meanwhile, toast the breadcrumbs under a broiler flame till golden brown and then fry them in the butter. They should take up as much of it as possible, but if any is left, drain it off. Now line a baking pan with waxed paper which has been lightly buttered. Sprinkle over this some of the breadcrumbs, then sprinkle on evenly all of the powdered sugar. Add a layer of apples, sprinkle with breadcrumbs, add more apples and continue alternate layers till all are used. Top with a layer of bread crumbs. Cover with more buttered paper and weigh down with a ½ pound weight. Bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] for 20 minutes or until well heated through. Unmold and strip off the paper from the Charlotte. Slice to serve, topping each piece with whipped cream, sweetening with powdered sugar.

FISHERMEN'S PIE.

2 hard cooked eggs
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 pint cream sauce
Mashed potato

Arrange a thick layer of the fish in the bottom of a baking dish. On the top of it arrange slices of hard cooked egg. Add another layer of fish, with a second layer of egg, until dish is nearly full. Have ready a pint of cream sauce, very hot, and pour it in the dish, covering top well with it. When sauce has soaked through, spread the top of the pie with a thick crust of mashed potato. Dot with lumps of butter and bake 20 minutes in a hot oven.

BLUEBERRY ROLL ADDS A SURPRISE TO SUPPER MENU

While fresh blueberries are on the market it is possible to surprise the family returning from the Fair and expecting a cold supper by serving blueberry rolls. Somewhat different from berry muffins, these rolls may be made with the same kind of dough used in making Parkerhouse rolls or with a baking powder biscuit dough.

Roll out the dough to about one-fourth of an inch in thickness and cut it into three or four inch squares. In the center of each square place a little mound of blackberries, sprinkled with a little sugar and topped with a small piece of butter. Pinch the dough together so the blueberries are completely enclosed.

Use More Butter—It Improves the Flavor of Every Food!
In cooking or baking and for table use, butter improves the flavor of every food. An extra lump of butter on fresh cooked vegetables gives an added delicious flavor. A little more butter in cakes, cookies or puddings, makes them richer, more delicate and more appetizing. An extra portion of butter eaten by everyone at every meal will help in this patriotic movement. And, butter is healthful and nourishing too. It is rich in vitamin "A"—the vitamin that promotes growth and builds resistance against infection. It contains calcium and phosphorus too—the minerals that build strong bones and teeth. Be patriotic and enjoy good health—eat more butter.

HOLIDAY MOTOR TREK FROM CITY STARTS TONIGHT

Fair, Late School Opening Reduce Outflow.

BY HAL FOUST.

The Labor day week-end traffic movement, always one of the heaviest of the year, will start tonight as motorists begin to leave the city for holidays in the country. The departures will swell tomorrow afternoon and evening when office and shop employés finish their week's labors.

Unusual this year will be an influx of visitors for the Labor day week-end. Hotel reservations, train excursions, and touring bureaus gi e indications that A Century of Progress will be the main objective of holiday travel this year. Heretofore, the crowds have moved to the resort areas of Wisconsin, Michigan, northern Indiana, and northern Illinois.

No serious traffic congestion is expected before late Monday, when the highways will be carrying folks homeward bound from week-ends in the country, in addition to those who have spent a day on the open road. Others will be returning from vacations.

Fair Keeps Some at Home.

This traffic peak will probably be less pronounced than in former years. Many Chicagoans will be remaining in the city to entertain relatives or friends from out of town at the Fair. The later opening date for the public schools is another traffic influence. In other years, with the semester starting the day after Labor day, families were returning on the holidays from summer cottages. This year school convenes on Sept. 18.

Nevertheless, the Chicago Motor club estimates there will be a quarter of a million Chicagoans on pleasure drives from the city this week-end. This is only about half normal, yet it's a movement of considerable volume. Some suggested tours for those still debating where to go are as follows:

ROCK RIVER—A stream a hundred miles west of Chicago, with wooded limestone cliffs where Black Hawk led the last serious Indian uprising in Illinois in 1832. Recommended route: Lake street highway to Rockford, Ill. 2 to Dixon, Roosevelt road to the outskirts of St. Charles, and thence in North avenue to Chicago. Round trip mileage, 235.

STARVED ROCK—A state park, site of Sieur de la Salle's fort in 1683; canons and bluffs overlooking the Illinois river. Recommended route: Joliet road to city of this name, Ill. 7 to Ottawa, Ill. 7A to park. Round trip mileage, 200.

WISCONSIN DELLS—Clear lakes surrounded by treed hills, rock promontories and caves. By U. S. 12, 202 miles one way. By optional route for return trip, U. S. 16 to Wis. 100, near Milwaukee, and thence to Chicago over U. S. 41, Ill. 42A and Ill. 21 to Chicago, 214 miles.

TURKEY RUN—Indiana state park, 155 miles from Chicago; virgin forests in river made cañons. U. S. 41 to within a mile or two of the park, which is on Ind. 47.

Numerous other attractive drives are within easy reach of Chicago. Further suggestions can be obtained from THE TRIBUNE touring bureau at Dearborn and Madison streets.

Drive Extension Open Tomorrow.

The new extension of the outer drive, which extends from Montrose avenue more than a mile northward to Foster avenue, will be opened to motorists during the daylight hours tomorrow afternoon, Sunday, and Monday. President A. D. Plamondon of the Lincoln park board announced that this would be done to accommodate the heavy traffic expected over the Labor day holiday. Night driving on the extension will not be permitted because neither lights nor curbs have yet been installed.

BISHOP JOHN J. DUNN, NEW YORK, DIES ON 64TH BIRTHDAY'S EVE

Bishop Dunn suffered a heart attack at noon yesterday as he sat on the porch of the convent of Mount St. Mary at Newburg. He died a few hours after reaching the hospital.

Bishop Dunn was born and reared in St. Gabriel's parish in East 37th street. As a young priest he organized the New York diocese branch of the society for the propagation of faith, a mission organization. He was New York director of the society fifteen years and was credited with having raised more than two million dollars for Catholic foreign missions.

In 1921 Pope Benedict appointed Msgr. Dunn to be auxiliary bishop of New York to fill a vacancy left by the appointment of Cardinal Hayes to the archbishopric. Bishop Dunn then had been chancelor of the archdiocese for seven years.

In April, 1918, Bishop Dunn received a personal letter from the pope in commendation of his arduous work in behalf of the church. His consecration as auxiliary bishop took place on Oct. 28, 1921.

Rantoul, Ill., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Rantoul is one of the few cities in Illinois that has no indebtedness. The financial report today revealed that there was $13,000 in the city treasury. The sum was accumulated by sale of light, power, and water from the municipal plant.

112 CONVENTIONS MEET IN CHICAGO IN SEPTEMBER

There will be 112 national and international gatherings in Chicago during September, placing the month second to only June in the number of meetings for the World's Fair period.

Bankers will convene next Monday at the Stevens hotel under the auspices of the American Bankers' association. Eugene R. Black, governor of the federal reserve board; Comptroller of the Currency F. T. O'Connor, and A. A. Berle Jr., special adviser of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, will address the meetings.

Conventions of the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks and of the National Federation of Rural Letter Carriers, will also open Monday at the Palmer house. The gatherings are expected to draw 5,000 persons.

The American Chemical society is expected to have the largest attendance of any convention in its eighty-six years' existence when the annual meeting opens Sept. 11. More than 3,000 men and women of this science will be there.

Two hundred members of the New York Manufacturing Retail Bakers yesterday started a four day program of entertainment here by attending a picnic given by the Associated Bakers of Greater Chicago at Pilsen park. Today, tomorrow, and Sunday they will visit A Century of Progress. Then they will depart for St. Louis, Cincinnati, and Washington on a tour. The Hotel Sherman is headquarters for the group while in Chicago.

of the Tavern, is responsible for issuing the challenge. Thomas E. Tallmadge, as the presiding officer of the Cliff Dwellers, accepted it.

Two Debs Plan Additional Party.

Debutante festivity the afternoon of Sept. 15 on the north shore will continue far into the night. Yesterday those two attractive "buds" of this fall and winter season, Miss Barbara Hobart and Miss Harriet Fentress, regretting that they will be unable to assist at each other's parties, since they are set for the same hour the same day, decided that they would join forces at 7 o'clock and complete the occasion with a supper dance.

Miss Hobart's parents, the Ralph H. Hobarts, are inviting the assistants for both of the debut teas to come with their beaux for supper in their garden at 660 Prospect avenue, Winnetka, the weather man permitting. In case of low temperatures or showers the service will be indoors. After supper the gay young group will move on to Fenbrook, the Hubbard Woods home of Miss Fentress' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Fentress, for dancing.

Miss Fentress, whose tea is to be from 4 to 7 in the gardens at Fenbrook, has chosen a number of her sister debutantes to assist. Included in the list are Miss Dorothy Ott, Miss Jean Lamson, Miss Allene Withers, Miss Jean O'Brien, Miss Mary Louise Gardner, Miss Barbara Ann Bastien, Miss Helen Fulton, Miss Eleanor Janney, and Miss Marian Daughaday.

Although Miss Hobart has not yet completed her list of assistants, she has dispatched a letter to her good friend, Miss Anne Palmer, at West Falmouth, Mass., asking her to be in Winnetka on the 15th. The hours for Miss Hobart's party are from five to seven.

Both Will Attend Eastern Schools.

Within a week after this day of gayety Miss Fentress and Miss Hobart will be tearing themselves away from the gay whirl of dinners and dances. When Vassar opens on Sept. 22 Miss Fentress will be enrolled as a sophomore. Having prepared last year at Brillantmont at Lausanne in Switzerland Miss Hobart is going east to enter Smith as a freshman.

In Northampton for their first year will also be Miss Nancy Burley, the Clarence Burleys' daughter; Miss Miriam Fetcher, Miss Harriet Daughaday, Miss Nancy Brown, whose parents are the E. V. L. Browns; Miss Jane de Peyster, Miss Anne Jenkins, and Miss Peggy Sargent. Miss Dorothy Ott, Miss Marion Thomas and Miss Betty Zimmerman are all going to resume their studies in the sophomore class at Smith this month.

Miss Hobart's older sister, Virginia, who was also presented to society at a tea given by her parents, is returning from a western ranching vacation just in time for Miss Barbara's debut party. Having earned a holiday after her strenuous activity this summer with the Junior League players at the Enchanted Island, she went out to Dayton, Wyo., a week ago to the ranch of the Philip Moores. In another week she is going on to Tepee lodge at Big Horn for several days of trial riding and hiking before her return.

First Debut Party to Be Next Thursday.

Miss Roslyn Paine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Smith, will be assisted by a coterie of north shore friends when she makes her bow to society at the first of this season's debutante parties next Thursday afternoon at her parents' home in Evanston. There will be Miss Allene Withers, Miss Jean O'Brien, Miss Nancy Harris, who is due home from Vermont that very day; Miss Virginia Thatcher, Miss Patty Calkins, Miss Mary Louise Morris, Miss Helen Johnson, Miss Dorothy Davis, and Miss Cornelia Fabian.

Although Miss Barbara Dauchy is spending this winter in Chicago, she is not to be a debutante, according to her mother, Mrs. Samuel Dauchy. This enterprising young lady has been working this summer in an exhibit on the Enchanted Island at A Century of Progress. An exhibit of Hull House workmanship has been on view there and they have just recently hung the work done by the Frances Parker school.

Lynde Wedding to Be Sept. 16.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Lynde yesterday announced that the marriage of Mr. Lynde's daughter, Miss Margaret Emily, to Eugene V. O'Brien would take place on Saturday morning, Sept. 16. Only the immediate families will attend.

Because so many of the contestants in the women's national amateur golf tournament being played this week at Exmoor chose yesterday afternoon to see the Fair there was a surplus of men between 2 and 6 o'clock yesterday on the Highland Park links. R. Arthur Wood Jr., William Egan, and a half dozen more were among those deploring the fact that they had no feminine champions against whom to match their skill.

Wearing a smart active sports costume, a gray skirt and a tan shirtwaist, Mrs. Charles Dennehy, Chicago's own star, matched up in one of the mixed foursomes that were the order of the afternoon with Henry C. Bartholomay. Miss Charlotte Glutting, who lost yesterday morning to Enid Wilson in the championships, received a round of applause when she teed off with Miss Jean Armstrong, John Stevens, and Harold C. Gifford.

Roland J. Histed was with his daughter, Mrs. Stephen V. Horton, a fashion plate in a white skirt and slate blue sweater, in the gallery. Others noted on the side lines were Miss Suzanne Morris with Newell Childs, Robert E. Kenyon, Bruce W. Kenyon, and Mrs. Paul Walker, who has a number of golfing trophies to her own credit.

Junior Otises Are Moving.

The junior Ralph Chester Otises are in the midst of moving into a new apartment on Lincoln Park West. They have been staying in the senior Otises' apartment since Mrs. Otis Sr. and her daughter, Miss Florence Otis, went west some time ago to visit the Robert Burnses [Sarane Otis].

With three days at the most for repacking their bags, Miss Frances Whedon and her niece, Miss Frances Jeffery, are leaving today for Poughkeepsie, N. Y., where Miss Jeffery is to be entered this month as a freshman in Vassar college. Just the day before yesterday they returned to their Bellevue place apartment from a glorious month of riding the trails, fishing, and hiking at the Diamond G ranch at Brooks Lake, Wyoming.

Miss Vesta Culbertson, who is better known as "Babsy," daughter of Mrs. Wallace F. Kirk of Lake Shore drive, is just back from a summer at a camp in New Mexico, and is busy getting ready for her first year away at school. She is going to Miss Porter's at Farmington.

Simpsons to Return in Two Weeks.

The Simpson party that has been spending this month in Guthrie castle in Scotland, enjoying the August hunting, will be arriving home in about two weeks. In the party are Mr. and Mrs. James Simpson and their three sons, James Jr., John, and William—and the wives of the first two [William has no wife] and Mrs. John W. Gary. Guthrie is on the east coast of Scotland, a short distance from the sea, on the outskirts of Forfar in Forfarshire.

Mr. Simpson was born in Glasgow on the west coast of Scotland, and our correspondent ventures the guess that memories of the steady rains which afflict the west coast doubtless persuaded him to pursue his hunting activities in the pleasant glens of Forfarshire on the drier east coast.

With serious ideas about the practice of law, Daggett Harvey has returned home with his father, Byron S. Harvey, from their favorite vacation in Santa Fe. Young Mr. Harvey was graduated last June from the law school of Northwestern university with the Order of the Coif.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank Wickes Blatchford of Winnetka and their two sons, Frank Jr. and Walter, are planning on winding up the summer with a two weeks' vacation at their Desbarats camp

Getting away this next week [at least, that is what they hope to do], they will be back in time to welcome the Ludlow S. Fowlers of New York the end of this month. Before her marriage Mrs. Fowler was Elsie Blatchford.

Mr. and Mrs. Bartle Bull [Rosemary Baur] are arriving today to visit Mrs. Bull's mother, Mrs. Jacob Baur, in her Astor street home.

The gallery for the Seignory club's fourth annual tennis tournament this week included some Chicagoans. Among the spectators were Mr. and Mrs. James C. Younglove, who are vacationing at the Canadian resort with their son, Gilbert Simpson Younglove, also Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Cummings.

Sydney and Morrison Waud, the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest P. Waud, have gone east to spend the next five weeks. They are motoring first to Manchester, Mass., where they will play a bit of golf, and then to Edgartown, Mass. Morrison is going especially to play in a golf tournament at the Myopia Hunt club, while Sydney is going to visit his fiancée, Miss Isabel Palmer Morrell, and her parents, the Clarence Pitman Morrells, in Morristown, N. J.

Jane Regny Makes Checked Jersey Sports Dresses for Riviera Wear

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Ginghams and calicos beloved this summer may end their style life with summer, but their patterns linger on, in jerseys and other sporting fall materials. Jane Regny has been making cunning sports frocks for her favorite clients to wear on the Riviera, and making them of gingham checked jersey, like the one shown in our sketch today.

This frock is a model that would be equally suitable around the house, though it is at present being worn along the beaches of Juan-les-Pins, Cannes, and such fashionable resorts.

The jersey used for the model is white with gingham checks in navy blue. The sleeves hardly deserve the name. They are a mere widening of the straight bodice, which is slashed up diagonally under the arms to represent sleeves. A square shoulder line is emphasized by buttoning the top of these baby sleeves with a red button.

The skirt of this frock is cut entirely on the bias so that the checks run diagonally, and it has two side seams. It ends below the normal waistline at the sides, and in front and back rises in a big tab with pointed sides. The red belt passes under these tabs which are buttoned on to it with four red buttons, two in front and two at the back.

Salon Dictator Forces Clients to Stay Young

Regular Visits Check to Feminine Lethargy.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

An interesting thing was told me recently by a friend who runs a salon for reducing, developing, or what ails you. She has built up a smart clientele among the women who come in to report regularly. That is, after she has got them down or up to the weight wanted, they have to check in to her every three months. Put themselves on probation, so to speak. If their weight is up, they go on another week's exercise bat until it is off. And check in again for another examination three months later.

A grand idea, don't you think? Forecasting a possible day when a woman of variable weight will be called up and reminded of her appointment, as our best dentists keep teeth in good condition.

At this particular salon, one woman whose name would have a familiar ring to you did I mention it, goes three times a week the year around to be watched over and exercised. And does she keep looking young?

"I'd never do it alone," she explains; "But I will do it if some one gets hold of me and makes me."

The statement reflects the average woman's weakness toward exercise. Funny thing, too, when you think of how she'll diet without any one standing over her. [Of course, she usually does a lot of talking about it and maybe helps her to stick]. But there really are few women of my own particular aqualntane who the year round will go through any sort of daily setting up work.

Many of them have violent spasmodic attacks, when they're amenable enough to stand on their heads if asked. But the common run of women are not exercise enthusiasts. So, I say, if this reporting in once in three months does catch on popularly it will be a grand day for women. And more power to the salon dictators who can bring women around to doing it.

I do not know how or if it can be applied to the woman who cannot afford this especial type of service. But it is, to me, a highly interesting development and in line with our most advanced scientific plan of health management. Also, it indicates how much the particular woman realizes the value of exercise in her fight for youth and figure.

Origin of the Princes Quilt Remains Mystery

Princess Feather.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The actual origin of the "Princess Feather" quilt design has always remained a mystery. Some contend that it might have been the waving plumes of a royal princess' headdress and others that it was the flower found in old fashioned gardens called "Princess Feather." But no matter. Back in George Washington's time—the pattern is as old as that—the plume in the upper right hand corner of the block was sometimes changed to a lighter color. In that case it was known as "Washington's Plume."

For a quilt pattern of this design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

Ensemble of Hairy, Taupe Woolen Gives Piquant Note to the Campus Wardrobe

Fifteen of his friends from Chicago and Waukegan complimented Julian Stripe, champion male soloist at the Chicago Music Festival, with a dinner last night at the Hotel Sherman. Julian is appearing this week at a loop theater and has in prospect a series of singing engagements in the central states before returning to Lake Forest college to resume his studies. MOTORISTS!
100 times on every trip you'll wish you had KLEENEX!

OH, for a clean cloth to wipe that dusty windshield! But the only cloths in the car are greasy.

Oh, for a clean handkerchief, to wipe the perspiration from your face! Another wiping with the same handkerchief would smart and irritate.

With Kleenex handy in the car, what a difference! Kleenex is your handkerchief, your dusting cloth, your eternal comfort.

Stop for a roadside bite, and you have a dainty napkin in a fresh, clean Kleenex tissue. Stop at a roadside pump to wash and you have an emergency towel.

Let the children have that ice cream cone! Kleenex will keep the drippings from soiling their clothes or the car.

SYNOPSIS.

Lucas Cresap and his Chinese servant are found dead in the upper room of Cresap's boathouse on Kettle pond, near the eastern end of Long Island. Gilbert Jonathan Redd, Cresap's stepbrother, keeps a private written account of developments in the case. A blow on the forehead from a slender, sharp edged implement killed Cresap. The cause of the Chinaman's death is not apparent. Capt. Bray, a special investigator, is an old friend of Redd's. Redd is a former police reporter. Florence Dane, Cresap's niece and an orphan, lived with him. Redd was fond of Florence's mother. He bought a home near Cresap's in order to protect Florence. Cresap made his fortune in the far east. Redd freely admits to Bray his hatred of Cresap, who was a drunkard and a débauché. The Chinaman and a dwarf, Subino, are the most important of the servants, and there seemed to be some secret bond between them and their employer. Bray finds, spread out on Cresap's desk, a new will, disinheriting Florence. As it is unsigned the old will stands. Cresap had disapproved of Florence's moneyless sweetheart, Gregory Thorpe, who had arrived the day before Cresap died, having driven east from his home in Ohio in response to an urgent wire from Florence. Thorpe can't be reached at the local hotel where he registered as George Thomas. Florence is on the verge of prostration. Redd, sitting in his study late at night, sees a prowler spying in his window and sets out in search of him.

INSTALLMENT XXIII.

A TRAPPED EXPEDITION.

Somewhat less than half a mile beyond my place, Kettle creek concludes its meanderings by breaking through to the brine. When I got that far I meant to turn back. But just before I got that far I saw, perhaps two hundred yards out in the surf and almost abreast of me, a craft at anchor. She showed no riding lights. At that distance she looked to be a chunky steamtug, very bluff in the bows and heavy butted.

That wasn't all I saw. I saw a motor boat which obviously must have put in from this off-shore sojourner and which was just on the point of nosing up to the north of the creek. I got upon all fours so as to put her broadside to the skyline and, so doing, could make out the figures of two men, one at the wheel and the other aft, and also I discerned a smaller black object traveling behind her, and by that I knew this incoming launch was towing a skiff.

Still at a squat, I watched her maneuver across the sand reef at the entrance, and my ear caught then the change in the beat of her tempo as the steersman checked his motor down before he began following the torturous windings of the stream.

I turned inland and accompanied them, keeping well back though. Trailing along was no very difficult task since I often had traversed this ground and knew when to avoid marshy puddles and treacherous round tussocks of the spiny salthay and, better still, knew when a short cut across from the head of a bend to its foot would save rods. For the launch it was perhaps three miles from the entryway to where the bridge on Pharaoh's lane spans the creek. For me, the journey was considerably less. Just beyond the bridge the creek widens out into Kettle pond, so that abutting on the nearer side is the Cresap estate and on the farther side are those waste lands drowned under swamp water on the north and wetted to a brackish mire on the south, with the squatty dorsal of Van Houk's Neck lifting as a barrier between.

At least twice during that pursuit I felt that telltale prickling up and down my spinal column. Once, not thirty yards behind me, I could have sworn I heard a subdued splash as though some heavy creature blundered into a flooded place. And again further on, when I resorted to the small stratagem of suddenly stooping behind a thickish clump of marsh mallows and cat-tails and peering rearward through the frieze of tasseled reeds, I almost was sure, but not quite, that for one fleeting moment before it huddled below the horizon, I caught the blurred outline of a squatty human shape.

I was in a dilemma, being pulled at by two desires—a desire suddenly to turn and dart back and lay detaining hands upon whoever it was that tagged me, and a desire to stay close to those mysterious voyagers inching upstream just yonder. The latter course seemed to me the more expedient. So while the launch crawled at snail's pace under the bridge, I was scuttling over the road above; and as she slid gently up the middle of the widened out inner basin, I was wriggling through a shielding undergrowth of semi-aquatic vegetation, some of it natural and some of it artificial planting, which fringed the lands of my dead stepbrother.

Traveling as slowly as she might and still have headway, she moved on until her snout was about even with the boathouse and then the tillerman killed the engine entirely and she drifted slowly, while the two men standing in her hull vigilantly studied the deep shadows against the shoreline. They directly faced me, because by now I was behind a back corner of the boathouse. Since the throbbing of her motor had stopped, there wasn't a sound to be heard except for the gentle lap-lap of baby ripples eddying against the bank.

And then—I almost jumped out of my hide with the suddenness of it—and then, not thirty feet from me I heard a voice. Bray's voice it was and in a cordial deep hail it said:

With that ironic greeting he flashed on an electric pocket lantern and its light lanced out like a long fine pencil of radiance and picked up those startled chaps balancing on their floor-boards with their jaws lolled and their eyes goggling. He was standing in a patch of black shade at the top of the slanted wooden apron on the front of the boathouse. As I veered out from the side wall against which I had been squeezed, I saw him.

For just a moment the couple in the launch stayed frozen. Then one of them grabbed for the spokes of his wheel and twitched the motor on and swung her bow away from us as though minded to attempt flight. But at that, young Terence Bray called out from where he was stationed, almost directly opposite on the prong of the neck and wigwagged with a light which he simultaneously flipped on. And from the south there was a shrill answering whoop by Shapiro. At least I think it must have been Shapiro. This tandem team had been allowed to slide into a big and now the slack of the drawstring was being puckered up behind them.

There being nothing else for him to do, the tillerman yanked on his rudder until the motorboat straightened and rounded to and glided slowly shoreward, the skiff bumping against her side.

I stepped around and joined Bray on the slatted wooden lip. He spoke to me out of the side of his mouth, never taking his eyes off the approaching craft or letting the focussed shaft from his bulb waver on its occupants. He manipulated the lantern with his left hand. His other hand made a lump in his right coat pocket. He carries a gun in that pocket.

He said:

"Welcome to Snug Harbor, Gilly! You're right on the dot to join the reception committee for the visiting regatta. Got something else to tell you when we get time for it." He said that last in a gloating, jubilant tone.

By now the chagrined pair were right up to us. I laid hold on the launch's gunwale and helped ease her into the narrow bulkheaded slip which extends inside the building. As soon as she was docked, both men climbed out on the cleated runway and the one who has been in the stern bent over and cast off the skiff and hitched it by its painter to a ring in one of the guard posts. He tied the rope with a landlubber's knot. I noticed that. He didn't suggest a seafarer. He was a youngish man, roughly dressed, and on his face he wore a fixed grin bespeaking sheepish dismay. His companion, an older man and plainly the commander in this trapped expedition, seemed less abashed. He was stroking the bows of a big black cow horn mustache while he glanced intently at us looming there alongside him.

"Kind of overdue, ain't you, Mister Antonio Maria Tontini?" asked Bray.

"I didn't get wold from nobody," answered the principal captive. He had no foreign accent but spoke as a New York cockney does. "That's God's truth, chief."

"Where have you been then since Tuesday morning?"

"Maybe that might explain it. I sent out from Barnegat trying to get you. Well, what did bring you then, if you didn't hear from me?"

Cause and Effect.

Father asked, "What are you doing?"

Looking up, as he turned the watch upside down while a dead fly fell out, he replied, "I know what made it stop. The engineer died." G. R. D.

Use 4 Seater Bicycle to Go to Film Show

Three Take Footman to Hollywood Premiere.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—Messrs. Moe Howard, Larry Fine, and Curly Howard provided fun for 5,000 who stood around in Hollywood boulevard for the coast premiere of "Dinner at Eight" by driving up to the Chinese theater on a four man bicycle. The first seat on the bicycle was occupied by a resplendent footman in white top hat, with feather, boots, light breeches, and colored tail coat, and the three passengers on the rear seats wore high hats and immaculate evening wear with tail coats. They gravely parked their vehicle and ambled inside.

Another party of interest attending the premiere was Carole Lombard, recently divorced in Reno from Bill Powell, and none other than Mr. Powell. They seemed to enjoy each other's company.

On the strength of Mary Astor's showing in her two recent Warner films, "Kennel Murder Case" with Bill Powell and "The World Changes" with Paul Muni, she has been signed to a long term Warner First National contract. Her first rôle under it will be in "Convention City." The cast includes Joan Blondell, Dick Powell, Adolphe Menjou, Guy Kibbee, Hugh Herbert, and Ruth Donnelly.

El Brendel's first starring film will begin at Fox on Sept. 11. It's "I Come from Hell."

Little by little the Wing family is making its way onto the Paramount pay roll. Toby [Virginia] Wing called at the studio, a very cute trick [particularly in a dancing costume], has been on the contract list for some time. Now her dad, Capt. Paul Wing of Virginia, who was invalided out of the United States army with war wounds in 1921, has been named business manager of the unit filming "White Woman" with Dorothea Wieck in the lead.

Jean Rouveral, Pasadena, 17 years old, whose mother, Mrs. Aurania Rouveral, is a playwright, has been given the lead in "Eight Girls in a Boat," the C. R. Rogers production at Paramount. The girl, who has just been graduated from high school in Pasadena, has been playing the lead in "Growing Pains," which her mother wrote, at the Pasadena playhouse. This stage play will be taken to New York, with Jean again in the lead, after she completes the film she is now engaged for.

Paramount is to feature Baby Leroy in his own right in "Mrs. Fane's Baby Is Stolen," which is to be joint directed by Alexander Hall and George Sommes, the same pair who directed "Torch Singer" and "Midnight Club."

M-G-M has found it necessary to send a pack train of mules, loaded with food to lure wild animals, into the high Sierras near Heather Lake, Cal., where its location company is making "Sequoia," story dramatizing forest animals. It's being filmed at an altitude of 11,000 feet, which required that physical examinations for their reactions in rare air should be given to the principals, Jean Arthur, David Landau, Olin Howland, and Willie Fung, before they, too, started into the wild country by pack train.

Collecting the statistics on a number of films it is interesting that studios argue that one week of camera shooting on location under climate and other conditions of average favorableness will produce twelve minutes of screen entertainment. But one week of shooting on the studio stages will produce 20 minutes of completed negative.

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

THE TIP-OFF.

"Shut up, Bugs . . . you know it ain't loaded. Keep your eyes open and for God's sake if anything goes wrong give me the signal early enough this time. Remember that last job!"

Being tipped off, Professor Fordney and Inspector Kelley were hiding in the shrubbery near the house and heard the hoarse whispered reply as the burglar climbed through the opened window into the study of Percival Whitney—then they put their plans into operation.

Fordney turned on the lights. The three were in the study standing near the dead body of Whitney.

"It all happened so quickly," whined Swanson. "While I was rifling the safe Whitney caught me off guard. I'd been tipped there was nobody home. You know Inspector, murder's out of my line, but Whitney was here and during the struggle he grabbed my gun and kept me covered with it, threatening to kill me. Suddenly in the light from the desk lamp I glimmed a revolver in the partly opened drawer. I knew it was his life or mine and quick as a flash I grabbed his gun and fired. You've got me, all right, but I tell you I killed him in self-defense!"

Fordney picked up both guns while the inspector was thundering at Ole, slipped them in his pocket and inquired, "Where did you get that scar on your neck?"

"What's it to yuh?" was the retort.

Young Children Seek Religion Spontaneously

Training Should Release Spiritual Forces.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

I have many times tried to write articles in answer to that baffling question that parents ask, "What shall I tell my children about religion?"

As I have said before, we can really only give them what we believe. And for many parents this belief may range from a deep and abiding faith in a personal and omniscient God to a sure but vague feeling that there is a force, an order, a law in a universe that is beneficent.

The most important phase of this subject of religion we sometimes forget. And that is that there are stirrings or emotions in the child himself which—properly nourished—will be the religion for him. Any one who has been near the heart of a very little child [before he may have had other concepts imposed on him] has oftentimes marveled and been deeply touched by the imaginative thoughts he has had.

Felix Adler, who recently died in New York, was interested in the "sublime possibilities that dwell in the individual and in the bosom of mankind." He felt that in every human being there is a "vital spiritual force." The best that we can do is to give it a fruitful soil to develop in, to see that it is liberated—to set it free. This is the true religion.

Like all generalizations, this is not as helpful as more specific instructions would be. But with a subject as big, as full of personal and religious modifications as this, only a basis on which each one of us can work is truly helpful.

★ GRETA GARBO ★

Probably the Greatest True Story Ever Written!

"The story is deep. It is fundamental. It touches the lives of millions of married women in their homes and of other millions of men and women about to be married. It is a story that springs from the masses and therefore is common to us all."

BERNARR MACFADDEN

"Garbo's story is basic because it represents what many people call genius, which usually springs from the common people and is usually thwarted in the common people by the natural laws of life. Nobody will ever know how many sparks of genius, how many flares of talent, how many knacks of doing something better than anyone else, have had to be surrendered by men to the daily drudgery of life and by women to their childbearing and the deadly routine of their home."

FULTON OURSLER
Supervising Editor

"Nor that she was a lather girl in a Swedish barber shop; not that she was a shop girl in a department store like so many millions of other girls who smile across the counter and hide their dreams, but, that from her thirteenth year, her body was definitely made for motherhood which has never been fulfilled. And there is nothing deeper nor more tragic than a body that was made for motherhood that has never been fulfilled."

WILLIAM JOURDAN RAPP, Editor

CLARENCE BROWN, the director, introduced Garbo and Gilbert on the set. Half an hour later they were in each other's arms.

"A long kiss held them, their lips crushed together, their arms about each other. Garbo's eyes were closed. The world swung dizzily and melted away beneath her. There was nothing left but the wild beating of her heart, those strong young arms that held her so close, the fresh young lips pressed upon her own.

"Slowly the long lashes quivered upward, lifted like silken curtains, the great blue eyes gazed up and saw the dark, handsome young face bending above her, the fine dark eyes that were all aflame as they looked into hers.

"Garbo saw youth and love for the first time. She saw romance for the first time, with all its glamour and sweetness. And she knew that she was lost——."

Yet, today, Jack Gilbert is married to another, a sweet, fine girl, the mother of his child whom he adores, and Garbo, the silent, not meant by the gods for marriage nor for any man, stands alone upon her pinnacle—woman of genius, tragedy, mystery.

This is a great issue of True Story Magazine that has arrived on the stands today. It is great not only because it solves the Garbo mystery but because almost every one of its human documents deals deeply with some common problem of the people at a time when our welfare is concerned most earnestly with just such problems and experiences.

BRAVES WHIP GIANTS; TRAIL BY FIVE GAMES

Five Runs in Eighth Decide Battle.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 31.—[Special.]—The New York Giants' lead in the National league was reduced to five games today as the Boston Braves won the first game of a series of six between the first and second place clubs.

JOHNNY VERGEZ.

Taking the lead with two runs in the opening inning and then pounding across five more in the eighth, the Braves won, 7 to 3. The steady pitching of Ben Cantwell, the National league's leading pitcher, held the Giants in check, the New Yorkers having little success with the lean right hander's curves and speed until the ninth, when they put together four singles for their last two runs.

Double Header Today.

Two games are scheduled for tomorrow, but they will have to be played without important cogs in each team. The Braves have lost Randy Moore, right fielder, whose right hand was broken by a pitched ball in the first inning. Johnny Vergez, Giant third baseman, was operated on tonight for appendicitis. Although complaining of abdominal pains, Vergez finished today's game and then was rushed to a hospital, where an immediate operation was deemed necessary. Both players will be out for the remainder of the season.

Jordan singled off Bud Parmelee, who drew the task of carrying on a duel with Cantwell, to start the eighth. Berger grounded to Vergez and the Giant third baseman threw wild to second in an effort to force Jordan. This put men on first and second and the panic was on. Parmelee grabbed Mowry's bunt and threw wild past first base, both Jordan and Berger scoring, and Mowry getting to third.

Parmelee Goes Out.

Two more singles followed and Parmelee was taken out. Whitney sent a hit through Ryan at shortstop, scoring Mowry, and Lee drove a fly over second. Herman Bell came in and Sphorer was retired on a short fly to Ott. Maranville doubled past Ott, who missed a shoestring catch, scoring Whitney, and putting Lee on third. Cantwell's fly to O'Doul enabled Lee to score. The inning ended when Ryan threw out Urbanski.

Berger hit his 25th homer of the season and R. Moore scored after being hit for Boston's two runs in the first.

In the Wake of the News

HOME AGAIN.

FRIEND ARCH: Well, Arch, I've finished my chore, or my "vacation," as you were prone to call it, for Dick Little over on the editorial page, and I hope he returned according to his schedule, for as soon as I write this little note I'm going home to rest and to read up on some of the sport events I've missed. Now that I'm gone, the readers over there, no doubt, will think they're resting, too, and that makes it unanimous.

Well, you've had a lot going on, what with the polo matches and the East-West football game, and this women's golf and the rugby football, etc., and I'm anxious to get back to work again, so whatever you decide on for me first is all right. I'm just rarin' to go except that I'm all rusty on expense accounts because there aren't any expense accounts on the editorial page, and you know how meticulous I am about them.

There seems plenty ahead on the sport line, however, with Big Ten football practice only two weeks away and the Sharkey-Levinsky fight, and the American-Australian tennis at Onwentsia, and, O, yes, that Bears-Notre Dame alumni football which perhaps you'll want me to see, and the baseball games, only our Cubs and Sox aren't so hot this season. I've almost neglected improving the breed, but perhaps that's just as well the way the favorites have been running at Hawthorne and me trying to buy more merchandise to help the NRA save the country.

You know, Arch, a month is a long time to be away from one's desk and attempting to do another man's job ain't all cakes and sirup. Most of the regular contributors over there were mighty nice and good sports, but one doesn't know all of them, and some hit in the clinches and you don't know when they're "clipping" like you do when you see clipping in a football game, for which there is a penalty.

That's how I got into one jam. Some bird sent in a pome, and it was a good pome, too, entitled "Hope," and I published it. It was signed Frank Kane. Well, that was all right, only some one else apparently wrote it before Frank did and published it about two years ago, and how should I remember a pome printed two years ago, especially when I didn't see it then? Well, anyway, it was written by Mrs. Ethel Fuller, who lives in Portland, Ore. Some of Mrs. Fuller's friends didn't like to have Frank write the same thing, and I didn't like it, either, only now I can't find Frank's address or telephone number to tell him he is penalized 25 yards for clipping.

I once asked R. H. L. what he did in cases like that, for he admitted he sometimes was stung, too, and he said: "There isn't much of anything you can do about it. Some folks are like that."

That's one nice thing about expense accounts. You don't have to look out for repeaters because I never put the same thing in twice. If I have cab fare and then more cab fare on the same day, Arch, why it's another cab.

Well, I'm mighty glad to be back and I hope you are the same—that is, I hope you're glad I'm back. I'm all right under the code, for I see we newspaper fellows are either "domestics" or "professional men," or something. Anything you want me to do is all right, for I'm feeling fine. I usually don't get all run down so I need a vacation until along in January or February. By the way, did you notice Primo Carnera is scheduled to fight in Florida this winter? If he does, it might be pretty important.

Let's have dinner together tomorrow night if you have no other plans.

Regards,

HARVEY T. WOODRUFF.

INDIANS COME FROM BEHIND TO BEAT SOX, 4 TO 1

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Ted Lyons yesterday followed the White Sox vogue for five inning pitching in acquiring his 18th defeat of the season. Ted had the Cleveland Indians shut out on four singles for the first five innings, but bogged in the sixth under four more hits, three of them after two were out. He gave up two more singles and a spurious triple in the seventh. Four runs were made during the two inning let down and the Indians won the opener of the series, 4 to 1.

The Sox made a hit an inning during the first seven innings and added two in the eighth, but their only run was driven in by a fly ball in the third inning.

Simmons Makes a Catch.

Al Simmons and Jack Hayes were the only Sox who didn't make a hit, but Simmons gave the crowd of 15,000 a show with some marvelous fielding, the peak of which was a catch of Vosmik's drive to the left field wall just before Lyons blew up in the sixth. The catch was one of the most sensational observers have seen in Chicago in several seasons. Running back under the ball, Simmons made a one handed catch just as he crashed into the wall. He sprawled on the play, but held the ball and arose without injury.

Simmons also sparkled when he threw out Boss trying to reach second on a single in the eighth.

Berry got around in the third inning for the first run of the afternoon. Charley opened with a single to left—the third Chicago hit—and Lyons walked. The pair advanced on Swanson's sacrifice, then Haas drove the ball to Averill in deep left center. Averill made a fine catch of what looked like a certain double, but Berry had no difficulty in scoring.

Swanson Loses One.

The Sox preserved the 1 to 0 advantage till the sixth, or swoon inning. After Cissell had fanned, Averill singled to center. Then followed Simmons' miracle catch for the second out. Al's great work failed to inspire Lyons, or maybe it made the Indians more determined. At any rate, Hale, Kamm, and Boss singled in less time than it takes to tell about it. The net was two runs.

It was not altogether Lyons' fault that the Indians whanged out two more runs—in the seventh. After Harder had fanned for the third time, Porter singled to left and went to third on Cissell's single to right. Averill bounced to Kress for the second out. Swanson made a hard run for Vosmik's drive to right center and seemed about to make the catch when he lost the ball in the sun. The ball bounded off Evar's shins and went for a triple, scoring Porter and Cissell.

Game of Century Enriches Baseball Fund by $46,506

BY ARCH WARD.

Baseball's fund for dependent players will be enriched by $46,506 as a result of the game at Comiskey park July 6 between the stars of the National and American leagues.

Commissioner K. M. Landis yesterday announced that the gross receipts were $56,378.50. The expenditures, including federal tax, were $9,871.51. The profits will be invested in government securities until Mr. Landis, William Harridge, president of the American league, and John Heydler, president of the National league, decide upon a plan for turning it over to the baseball charity fund.

If the interleague game becomes an annual event it is likely that only the interest will be donated to old timers no longer able to take care of themselves. It has been agreed, however, that under no circumstances will the entire amount be contributed at one time.

Contest Sponsored by Tribune.

The contest, was suggested and sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. It attracted a capacity crowd of 49,000. Forty-six states were represented in the reservations.

Requests for Another Game.

THE TRIBUNE invited the fans of the nation to help pick the teams. More than 500,000 responded. It was the greatest demonstration of America's enthusiasm for baseball in the sport's history. The American league team, thanks to Babe Ruth's home run with one on base, won the game, 4 to 2.

Nearly every city in the major leagues wants to promote a similar contest next season. These requests will be acted upon at the winter meetings. President Harridge of the American league probably reflected the opinion of club owners in his organization when he remarked:

"The interleague game was my biggest thrill. I doubt if it ever again could be presented with such precision and wide acclaim. If it were made an annual event it might sink to the level of an ordinary ball game. I prefer to remember it always as the high spot of baseball."

WHITE SOX BUY OTTO NITCHOLAS, TEXAS PITCHER

McKinney, Tex., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Announcement was made here today of the purchase by Roy Largent, scout for the Chicago White Sox, of Otto Nitcholas, pitcher on the Oklahoma City team of the Texas league. Nitcholas will report to the Sox next spring. He ranks third among the league's hurlers in runs earned with a grading of 2.75. After leaving McKinney where Largent first discovered him, Nitcholas has pitched for Baton Rouge, Tyler and Oklahoma City.

Sox, Pirates Must Pay Texas Sport Writer $1,000

Amarillo, Tex., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Jerry Malin, Amarillo sports editor, won a verdict of $1,000 today in his suit again the Chicago White Sox and the Pittsburgh Pirates for their failure to play an exhibition baseball game here last April. Malin, who promoted plans for the game, had sued for $1,300. Officials of the teams cited weather conditions in announcing it had been called off.

RUTH DENIES REPORTS HE'LL QUIT PLAYING

New York, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Babe Ruth was so indignant tonight about a published story that he was "through" and had about decided to "hang up his spikes" that he called up the sports editor of the Associated Press to make a sweeping denial and dictate a formal statement.

"Say, where do those fellows get that stuff about me being all washed up?" demanded the Yankee slugger. "When I am ready to quit for good everybody will know it. What's more, I'm going to make a statement now and make it stick. Take this down."

"So much has been written about my plans for next year that I wish to make myself clear on this matter. I will make no decision about retiring from baseball until I am convinced I can no longer play. I will not know about 1934 until I have had some spring training. I hope to play next year. I believe I will be able to, so, for the present at least, I am not retiring from baseball."

This sounded more in the spirit of hope than conviction from the veteran, now nearing 40, who has been playing only part time with the Yankees for the last few weeks and manifesting visible signs of failure to stand the day by day grind.

The Babe said he had not yet had any conversation with Col. Jacob Ruppert, Yankee owner, as to signing a 1934 contract or as to any other angle to his future. The former home run king's salary was reduced fom $75,000 to $52,000 this year.

CHAMPIONS OF U.S., ENGLAND ON EXMOOR LINKS

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

There were those in the gallery at the opening of the women's national golf tournament at Exmoor Monday who were so rash as to predict that those would be the pairings for today's semi-final matches, and now their guesses are vindicated. The Big Four came through their third round matches yesterday with a display of the finest golf ever played in a national tournament, and this morning they will argue over 18 holes, more or less, to settle the question of who will meet in tomorrow's 36 hole championship match.

HELEN HICKS.

Champion vs. Champion.

The matches could not have been more fittingly arranged if a scenario had been written for the tournament. The Wilson-Van Wie match, of course, carries the greater interest of the two, for it brings together the champion of Great Britain and the queen of American golf. Nevertheless, it is only because of the meeting between two national champions that it shades the Hicks-Orcutt battle. Miss Hicks, who has won the last seven tournaments in which she has competed, won the title in 1931, and Miss Orcutt is probably the most feared opponent in the national on the basis of her record.

It was Miss Wilson, the girl from the Robin Hood country, who scored the most satisfying victory of the third round. In the tournament of last year she was eliminated in the third round by the then unknown Charlotte Glutting of West Orange, N. J. Yesterday she avenged that defeat with a 2 and 1 victory over Miss Glutting. Miss Van Wie reached the semi-final round in the defense of her title by defeating Mrs. Louis D. Cheney of Los Angeles, 1 up.

Miss Orcutt, playing the tenacious Mrs. Opal S. Hill of Kansas City, also was forced to the 18th green before she finally won, 1 up. Miss Hicks came home with most convincing decision of the round, a 4 and 3 triumph over Lucille Robinson of Des Moines, Ia., western champion.

Miss Wilson Out in 37.

Great as had been the scoring in the tournament from the qualifying round on Monday, when Miss Wilson set a new record of 76, through the first two rounds, the Exmoor course probably has never experienced such concentrated punishment as it underwent yesterday. A glance at the medal scores of both winners and losers is sufficient testimony.

At the end of the first nine, Miss Wilson had scored a 37, two under women's par and one over men's figures. In spite of this performance, she was only 1 up on Miss Glutting at that point, for the New Jersey girl, matching Enid almost shot for shot, was around in 38. Miss Van Wie, who was forced to go the route against Mrs. Cheney, needed only 38 on the first nine and Mrs. Cheney was even with par of 39. Virginia finished

ENGLISH VANDALS' SECOND RUGBY MATCH IN CHICAGO JUST A ROMP

The Vandals, touring English rugby team, continues to give Chicago players a lesson in how to play the fast, rough game at which they excel. The Britons last night piled up a 23 to 5 victory over the Chicago Goths at the Onwentsia club polo field for their second triumph here this week. The teams are scrambling for the ball, no player as yet being able to kick, pass or run with it. In their first Chicago game the Vandals had to rally in the second half to win, but last night they swarmed all over the Goths. TRIBUNE Photo.]

TERALICE, ONCE PLATER, SCORES IN DERBY TEST

Charges Down in Stretch at Hawthorne.

BY FRENCH LANE.

A despised selling plater of a little more than a month ago this morning appears the possible winner of the revival of the Chicago Derby at Hawthorne tomorrow afternoon.

In the Derby Teralice—the reformed plater—will be running for a prize of $10,000. On July 14 out at Arlington park Teralice was claimed by Abraham Bartelstein of Chicago for $1,500.

Since Bartelstein got him at the bargain counter Teralice has rounded out three victories, winning much more money than the claiming price. His third victory in the Bartelstein silks came yesterday when he won the Arrowhead purse, which was a final prep for some of the western candidates for the Chicago Derby.

Makes Great Stretch Run.

Galloping a mile and a sixteenth in 1:45 3-5, one of the fastest run races of the Chicago season, Teralice skimmed through on the rail and, charging down the stretch like a real route runner, was up to beat Ted Clark by a length and a half with Red Roamer third. Bobsled, from Col. E. R. Bradley's stable, the victim of a weak ride by the veteran Jimmy Smith, Big Red, Knights Gal, the favorite, and Dusky Devil trailed the three leaders home.

The success of horses which Bartelstein has claimed this year and then turned over to his veteran conditioner, Harry Unna, has been one of the amazing features of the Chicago season. Every horse he has taken via the halter route turned into a small gold mine for him.

Wouldn't Run for Hirsch.

He took Teralice, a royally bred son of Terry-Alice Harris, from Sam H. Harris, the theatrical man. Trainer Maxie Hirsch, one of the shrewdest horsemen in the country, brought Teralice to Arlington Park for Mr. Harris. Teralice wouldn't run for Trainer Hirsch—he wouldn't even get up a gallop; so that was the reason he was finally dropped into the $1,500 claimer out of which Bartelstein took him.

Since Unna took charge of Teralice he has been a different horse and has run like a champion.

Magic Is Nothing New.

What is this magic that causes horses owned by Bartelstein and trained by Unna to run so fast and true? They have been doing it for some seasons. It was Unna who made Golden Prince, a crippled horse from Kentucky, wade in the sands of the Pacific ocean until his aches and pains had disappeared, after which he stepped out and won a $100,000 Coffroth handicap at Tia Juana. Polydorus was another noted claim made by them.

The Hawthorne regulars were of the opinion that Teralice was going to run a smashing race in his qualifier for the Derby. They backed him stoutly. He went to the post as the second choice, Knights Gal commanding the most backers.

In the mutuels Teralice paid $7.40 to win, $3.94 to place, and $3.56 to show. Ted Clark was a long shot and paid $48.24 to place and $19.18 to show. Red Roamer paid $7.36 to show.

Brown Wisdom Wins.

Another old crippled horse which Bartelstein claimed at Arlington also registered for him during the afternoon. This one was Brown Wisdom. It was the second race he has won since he started wearing the red and black Bartelstein jacket.

Brown Wisdom, due to a rather dismal showing made in his last outing, wasn't backed with much confidence, so paid nearly 6 to 1. In his earlier races for Bartelstein he had been going far out in front in the early stages. He was rated along back of the leaders in this race and got up half way down the stretch to take the lead and go on and win handily.

Jockey Lee Humphries rode Teralice and Brown Wisdom, completing a triple for the day. He climbed into the saddle on Drole Polly in the first race and after a bit of rough riding down the stretch was winner over Even Play.

Folks out around Hawthorne seem to think Mr. Khayyam is going to win the revival of the $10,000 added Chicago Derby tomorrow afternoon.

The wagering on the Derby started in some spots yesterday and Mr. Khayyam, the winner of the American Derby, was at 8 to 5. Predictions were made that he might be at even money at post time.

The betting did not indicate which of the Derby starters will be the second choice. Col. Bradley's Barn Swallow had a lot of backers, but so did the Dixiana stables Esser and F. A. Griffith's Sarada. There was also some backing for the Nash Brothers' At Top and the Audley farm's Royal Blunder. Okapi, Gay World, Big Red and Dusky Devil were not able to muster many supporters.

Rusty, quite a handy sprinter a year ago, collided with Don Leon during the training hour yesterday and suffered a broken shoulder. The injury was so severe that Rusty was destroyed.

Domino Player, one of the shortest priced horses of the Chicago season, won the second race yesterday and Mrs. Lat, at 4 to 1, captured the third. The daily double which they completed paid off at $18.90.

MRS. LET, well up from the start, gradually overtook the leaders when entering the stretch and, continuing stoutly to the end, won drawing out and under speed reserve. VICTORIUM, blocked in first quarter, failed to find room when racing wide on the turn, but closed resolutely in the final drive and headed ALPERS in the last stride. Latter, well in hand for half a mile, slowly gave way to winner and, weakening badly in the last sixteenth, failed to withstand. VICTORIUM.

BROWN WISDOM, taken back and saved off the pace, lost ground on stretch turn and, working his way to the front with a rush, weakened, but outgamed BARNEY SEXTON. Latter, under mild restraint for three-quarters, slowly wore down CATHERINE FOX, then failed to withstand winner, but held on fairly well. CATHERINE FOX, well handled, saved ground throughout and weakened after reaching the final eighth.

EVERGOLD raced very wide while working his way into command in first three-sixteenths, saved ground on stretch turn and, maintaining his advantage, had something left when challenged. GIFT OF ROSES began fast, saved ground to stretch, where, after coming out, she tried to threaten winner, yet held on well. REHOBOTH fell back on the turn, raced wide in stretch and outstayed KARL EITEL.

Winner trained by H. Unna. Went to post at 4:20½. At post ½ minute. Start good from gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

TERALICE, beginning slowly and a good distance back for a half mile, moved up rapidly on inside when rounding the lower turn, again worked his way through next to the rail when passing TED CLARK as the latter, in the stretch, was drawing out but had little left. TED CLARK pulled away fast in first quarter, following which he was steadied along to stretch, where after failing to withstand winner he weakened, yet outstayed RED ROAMER. Latter lost ground throughout and stood a long drive gamely.

Bass Biting in Wisconsin Lakes Near State Line

BY BOB BECKER.

Although generally rated as only fair to good for bass fishing, several southern Wisconsin lakes within easy driving distance of Chicago have been yielding fine strings of fish.

Powers lake, just a few miles north of the Illinois line, recently caused a stampede when Edward Jones, chief of police of La Grange Park, Ill., and three other fishermen, G. W. Swanson, Frederick Croft, and Herbert Fisher, also of La Grange Park, took 13 bass weighing from 3 to 4¾ pounds from this lake on artificial lures. Besides these whoppers, they snagged a fine string of large mouths which didn't tilt the scales quite so much.

Powers lake is almost due north of Genoa City and southeast of Lake Geneva. It is just a short drive from Chicago compared to the larger bass lakes of the northern Wisconsin lake country.

Although Lake Geneva is more noted for its small-mouth bass, this body of water, always a good bet for a string of fish, now is reporting more activity on the part of the large mouth black bass. During the last week this species of game fish has been striking better, and from now on anglers should connect with them in increasing numbers, according to veteran fishermen at Williams bay.

One of the best small mouth black bass taken from Lake Geneva this summer was reported a few days ago when a 4¾ pounder was hooked on a spoon lure by Ben Frost of Lake Geneva. However, fishermen who go to Lake Geneva should plan live bait fishing if they want a string of small mouths, because the bronze backs have been prowling around in deep water, and you have to get way down with live bait to fool them.

Miss Orcutt Ties Record 76.

Miss Orcutt turned in the greatest match play card of the tournament in defeating Mrs. Hill. Both went out in 40, being even at the turn, but Maureen went to work coming home and finished in 36 for a 76, tieing the course record set by Miss Wilson in the qualifying round. At that, it was only a stroke better than Mrs. Hill's effort, for the former western champion came back in 37 herself, duplicating Miss Orcutt's birdie on the 18th. Miss Hicks was out in 37 in her match with Miss Robinson, and was even with par for the remaining holes.

Miss Van Wie and Miss Wilson will drive off the first tee this morning at 10 o'clock, and Miss Hicks and Miss Orcutt will follow them a half hour later.

*Picked up.

Miss Glutting Wins First.

The Wilson-Glutting battle attracted the largest gallery of the week, due not only to the forceful style of the English girl, but also to the fact that she was playing the girl who had defeated her in last year's tournament. It didn't take the crowd nor Enid long to discover that there was going to be a golf match. Miss Glutting informed them of same with a birdie on the first hole, achieved by dropping her approach five feet from the pin and sinking the putt for a 4. She repeated the performance on the second green, which she reached in two, 20 feet from the cup, and so was two up on Miss Wilson going to the third tee.

Miss Wilson answered her opponent's two birdies with one of her own at the third, which she was on in two shots. They halved the fourth and fifth, and Miss Wilson squared the match with another birdie at the sixth, sending her iron shot ten feet from the pin and running the put down for a 3. Miss Glutting missed the green with her second shot. She needed two putts from five feet at the eighth, and was one down for the first time during the match.

Miss Wilson Wins 10th.

Enid went two up at the 10th with another birdie, scored with an approach which dropped four feet from the pin. She was only one up after the 11th, where she drove into the rough and was short with her second. Miss Glutting reached the green in two.

A birdie 3 at the 12th sent Enid two up again, her approach falling a foot from the pin. She was trapped at the 13th, which Miss Glutting won with a par 3. They halved the 14th and 15th, Miss Wilson three-putting the latter. She was over the green on the 16th, but chipped back perfectly for a birdie 4. They halved the 17th, and the match was over.

Like Miss Wilson, Miss Van Wie also was down in the early portion of her match with Mrs. Cheney. The latter scored a birdie on the second, her brassie shot going over the green, but she returned within two feet of the cup. Both had birdies on the third, reaching it in two and getting down in as many. They halved the fourth and fifth, and Miss Van Wie squared the match at the sixth with an eight foot putt for a birdie.

The champion was one up for the first time after the seventh, where Mrs. Cheney's drive was over the green. Both found a troublesome tree midway down the eighth fairway, and halved the hole in 5s, one over par. They divided the ninth also, Miss Van Wie making the turn one up.

Halve Last Seven Holes.

She got a birdie on the 10th, which Mrs. Cheney three putted, and was two up, only to lose the 11th to Mrs. Cheney's third birdie, made with a 14 foot putt after she had been in a trap with her second shot. They halved the rest of the holes. Both were trapped at the 13th and three putted the 14th. Mrs. Cheney's second to the 16th struck a tree, but she earned a half with a seven foot putt.

Virginia lost her opportunity to end the match on the 17th by three putting. Both got birdies on the 18th. Mrs. Cheney sending her approach from the right corner of the green to within five feet, while Miss Van Wie was home in two shots, 12 feet from the pin.

Miss Orcutt Starts Right.

Miss Orcutt went one up at the first hole of her match with Mrs. Hill, sending her third shot four feet from the cup for a birdie. She was two up after the third through another birdie, Mrs. Hill's second shot being trapped and her third over the green. Miss Orcutt lost the fourth by three putting. Both scored birdies on the fifth, Mrs. Hill dropping a 15 foot putt for hers. She squared the match with a par at the sixth, where Miss Orcutt's second was trapped.

The Kansas City golfer went one up at the seventh, when Miss Orcutt was in two traps. Mrs. Hill, however, needed three strokes to reach the eighth green and once more the match was even. They halved the ninth in par and the tenth with birdies, Mrs. Hill's putter delivering from ten feet. Mrs. Hill was two up after the next two holes, scoring birdie 3's on both.

They halved the 13th in threes, and Miss Orcutt was only one down after the 14th, where Mrs. Hill was in trouble reaching the green. Maureen squared the match with an eight foot putt for a birdie 4 on the 15th and repeated on the 16th to go one up. They halved the 17th in 5s. They had birdies on the finishing hole which might have been eagles with a little luck.

Miss Hicks and Miss Robinson halved the first hole of their match, the latter sinking a five foot putt after going over the green with her second. Helen got birdies on both the second and third by reaching the greens in two, while Lucille shared the third with her by doing the same. Miss Hicks missed a short putt for a birdie at the fifth. She scored a birdie on the sixth by landing three feet from the pin with her second. Miss Robinson finally picked up after having overshot the green with her second and missed it coming back.

Helen three putted the seventh, but won it when Lucille's drive struck a tree and she wound up with a 5. They divided the eighth, and Helen went four up at the turn when Miss Robinson's drive to the ninth was trapped.

Iowan Makes Rally.

Helen three putted the 10th and 11th, losing the latter to Lucille's birdie, which she scored by getting on in two and down in two from 40 feet. The Iowa girl also won the next hole to be only two down. She sent her approach less than two feet from the cup for another birdie. Miss Hicks three putted the 13th, but won it when her opponent drove into the pond. Miss Robinson lost the 14th, where her drive and second shot both found the rough. They got birdies on the 15th.

Helen Hicks Hopes Miss Orcutt Won't Remember 1929

The statisticians in the press tent at Exmoor last night had a regular orgy of page thumbing in attempting to discover if the four members of today's semi-final cast had ever met each other. There was, of course, no record of a previous Wilson-Van Wie match, since Enid in her two previous appearances in the American tournament had never encountered Virginia. Helen Hicks, however, has reason to remember Maureen Orcutt, for the New Jersey girl eliminated her in the first round of the national tournament of 1929 at Oakland Hills, Detroit, 3 and 2.

A strange mongrel which has been enjoying himself all over the course during the tournament, and probably will trot off with a stymie before it is over, demonstrated yesterday that even dogs know what matches to follow. He was on the first tee when Enid Wilson teed off and had to be shooed away. He turned up again in a trap off the sixth green just as the English champion was about to putt for a birdie, and Enid stopped to help the gallery coax him away.

The third hole proved to be the most vulnerable for birdie shooters yesterday, par being nicked on it six times. Three of the matches ended with mutual birdies, Miss Van Wie, Mrs. Cheney, Miss Orcutt and Mrs. Hill scoring them on the 18th, and Miss Hicks and Miss Robinson going under par on the 15th. Two birdies were scored on the first, three on the second, two on the fifth, three on the sixth, four on the 10th, one on the 11th, three on the 12th, three on the 15th, two on the 16th, and four on the 18th.

Dawson, Smith Beat Goodman and Armstrong

George Dawson, Glen Oak amateur, and Horton Smith, Oak Park professional, defeated Johnny Goodman, national open champion, and Don Armstrong of Aurora, 1 up, in an exhibition match at the Ridgemoor Country club yesterday.

Dawson shot a 69, three under par. He had a 32 on the first round and a 37 on the second. Smith carded a 74, Armstrong a 75, and Goodman 76. It was Goodman's first round over the course and several times he had difficulty in escaping the traps.

Goodman stopped in Chicago en route to Mount Clair, N. J., where he will appear in an exhibition match at the Green Brook Country club. He will be in Cincinnati Sept. 6 to prepare for the national amateur tournament which will open Sept. 11.

LORBER NAMES RODES TO FACE ARMY POLOISTS

Capt. Peter Rodes, United States army polo player, was named yesterday by Herb Lorber, captain of the civilian-military polo quartet, as a certain starter in the first game of the series for the high goal championship against Fort Sheridan at the fort Sunday. As Maxwell M. Corpening already had been selected, only one berth on Lorber's team is unfilled. The fourth member of the lineup will be chosen tomorrow.

For Fort Sheridan, Capt. Wilkinson will line up with the same team that captured the 12 goal and intercircuit championship last week. The other players of his team are Capt. C. E. Davis, Lieut. G. S. Smith, and Lieut. Larry Smith.

9 Boats May Race Today for Gold Cup

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Nine potential starters in the Gold cup powerboat race were in various stages of readiness tonight. The Gold cup contest, a curtain raiser for the Harmsworth trophy race, will be run on the Detroit river in three heats tomorrow afternoon, the first 30 mile contest being scheduled for 1:30 p. m.

Five of Horace E. Dodge's Delphine boats, one of them to be driven by his sister, Mrs. Delphine Dodge Baker, have been entered in defense of the trophy.

Indiana Boat Breaks Down.

The Hotsy Totsy, owned by Vic Kliesrath of South Bend, Ind., suffered a mishap this afternoon that left her owner worried over the prospect of making repairs in time for the opening heat. The craft broke down during a trial. A new crankshaft is being sent from South Bend.

The Hotsy Totsy won the cup in 1930 and 1931, being defeated last year by Dodge's Delphine IV., driven by Phil Horn. Besides the Delphine IV., Dodge has entered his Delphine VI., Delphine VII., Delphine VIII., and Delphine IX. Dodge will be at the wheel of the Delphine IX. and his sister will pilot the Delphine VII.

The race promises to be a family affair, for the crew of Imp II. will consist of husband and wife in the team of Jack Rutherford and his 111 pound blonde wife. Rutherford will be at the wheel and his wife will "look after the gadgets."

Expect New Records.

Aside from the five Detroit boats, the Imp II., entered from New York, and the Hotsy Totsy, from South Bend, the entries are Armand D. Pugh's Miss Philadelphia and El Lagarto, entered by George Reis, from Lake George, N. Y.

Speedboat enthusiasts are predicting a new speed record in the competition. The record of 59.21 miles an hour was made by Horn in the Delphine IV. last year.

Should inclement weather cause a postponement of tomorrow's race, the Gold cup contest will be run on Sunday, the first of the Harmsworth series being scheduled for Saturday afternoon on the St. Clair river course.

CUBS FACE REDS TODAY, AND HOW THEY DREAD IT

End Series Tomorrow and Then Come Home.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 31.—As a matter of necessity, not choice, the Cubs dropped in here from the east this afternoon to keep engagements tomorrow and Saturday with the Reds, who just now have no excuse for playing except that there must be eight teams in a major league.

However, the Cubs are not entitled to do any laughing out loud at the lowly estate of Donie Bush's talent. That's why the Chicagoans didn't come here by choice. They've been here before this season and the results were shocking. Nine of the eleven local battles between them have passed into the records. Out of the nine the Cubs won exactly two. So it probably is the Reds' privilege to enjoy a laugh if they still have one in their systems. They can take credit for doing just enough to the Cubs to blast the dreams of those who thought the present champions were good enough to repeat.

They'd Have Been Up There.

Just stop and figure how different the present situation in the percentage column might have been if the Cubs had won about four of the seven lost here. They would have been four laps closer to the leading Giants. And who would have been concerned about the remaining slim margin with the Cubs going home Saturday night to play 25 of the 27 games still on their schedule. On the basis of their usual effectiveness at Wrigley field, they would wipe out that Giant margin in a hurry and go on their way to the flag. As it is, their chance isn't worth talking about. They now must keep on hustling even to finish in the first division.

The final eastern jaunt, while of no value in closing in on the leaders, at least helped the Cubs to round out a fairly successful season in the four eastern parks, in view of their usual work on the road.

They played 42 of their scheduled 44 games in the east, two with the Giants being transferred to Chicago. They won 19 out of the 42.

Malone Keeps Trying.

Pat Malone, who has been knocked out in his last four attempts, will be given the job of subduing the Reds tomorrow. For the Saturday game Manager Grimm intends to start Lynn Nelson or Bud Tinning. That will leave Warneke, Root, and Bush for the Cardinals at Chicago Sunday and Monday. A double header is billed for the latter afternoon. The Reds, in the two games here, will use Red Lucas or Paul Derringer in one of the games and possibly both will appear. That's not cheerful news for the Cubs.

Grimm will install himself at first base tomorrow. After a week of rest his bothersome leg has improved considerably. Stanley Hack, just recalled from Albany, also will be among the participants. He's to be given another chance to win the third base job, which has eluded him now for almost two full seasons.

CHICAGO BOXERS WIN 5 BOUTS IN MIDWEST MEET

Chicago boxers won five out of the eight titles in the first annual Italian-American Midwest boxing tournament before a crowd of 2,000 at Mills stadium last night. The meet was sponsored by the Italian Field Day Association of Illinois and attracted amateur fighters from Chicago, Rockford, Milwaukee, and Detroit.

The victorious Chicagoans were Henry Fusculado, flyweight; Sam Guidara, bantamweight; Sammy Scaglia, featherweight; Joe Esposito, lightweight, and Tom Pacetti, heavyweight.

The Chicago fighters represented the Catholic Youth organization, and the team trophy was presented to the Rev. Gerald P. Scanlon by George Spatuzza, grand master of the Royal Sons of Italy. The Chicagoans scored 28 points. Rockford was second with 21, Milwaukee third with 10, and Detroit fourth with 8. Results of the final bouts follow:

GRAINS SWING BACK AND FORTH BUT END LOWER

Wheat Off Fraction in Light Trade.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Uncertainty as to the immediate trend of the grain market was apparent in trade gossip yesterday and this was reflected in erratic fluctuations within a range of nearly 3 cents on wheat and 1½ cents on corn. The markets backed and filled rapidly, but there was a general disposition shown to keep close to shore with a three day holiday ahead, combined with the private estimates to be given out today and also expectations of liberal deliveries on September contracts.

Fluctuations in wheat in the main reflected relatively small operations rather than aggressive buying or selling. Wheat broke around 2 cents early, with December touching 89 cents, then rallied to 91⅝ cents, and broke again toward the last to close ⅞ to ⅝ cent lower. September wheat finished at 86 to 86⅛ cents; December, 90 to 90¼ cents and May, 94½ to 94⅝ cents.

Corn Sags After Advance.

An estimate of a corn crop of 2,160,000,000 bushels, or 113,000,000 bushels less than the government figures of a month ago, made by E. H. Miller, the J. E. Bennett & Co. statistician, was construed as decidedly bullish and was effective in causing a good upturn at one time. However, closing prices were ⅝ to 1⅛ cents lower, with September at 48⅞ to 49 cents; December, 54⅜ to 54⅞ cents, and May, 60⅝ to 60¾ cents. The oats crop was placed at 641,000,000 bushels, or 26,000,000 bushels under a month ago, but failed to have a lasting effect, futures closing ⅜ to ⅝ cents lower, with September 37⅛ to 37⅛ cents, and December 40⅝ to 40½ cents.

Reports that the government had decided to permit distilleries to operate full time in view of the prospect that prohibition would be repealed, led to buying of rye and net gains were ⅜ to ¾ cent, with December finishing at 76⅞ cents. Barley was not affected, however, and closed ⅝ to 1 cent lower, with September at 50⅞ cents. Cash barley was 2 to 3 cents higher.

September Deliveries Today.

Trade expectations were that 1,000,000 to 2,000,000 bushels of wheat and 2,000,000 to 4,000,000 bushels of cash corn would be delivered on September contracts today. The grain is expected to be taken care of by elevator interests, as the latter have been persistent buyers of the September and sellers of the December futures for some time.

Reports of leading Chicago statisticians on the American grain crops will be given to the trade at 10 a. m., daylight saving time, today, and are expected to show little change in spring wheat from the August figures, with moderate decreases in corn and oats.

The fact that the corn crop appears to have been steadily shrinking during August in the face of more favorable weather caused more or less comment, as the yield will compare with 2,876,000,000 bushels harvested last year and will be the smallest since 1901, with one exception. Production of all grain this season promises to be the smallest on record in comparison with population.

Inflation Fear Spurs Buying, Figures Prove

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Consumer apprehension over the threatened rise in living costs as a result of the NRA's boost in operating expenses and the possibility of inflation are reflected in a summary of department store sales in July compiled by the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago.

These figures include not only Chicago, which has enjoyed a phenomenal increase in sales this summer, largely as a result of the World's Fair, but the entire seventh reserve district, which covers all of Iowa, southern and central Wisconsin, the lower peninsula of Michigan and northern and central Illinois and Indiana.

* *

People are buying the kind of goods they think they will need for the long pull. They seem to reason that now is the time to buy the things they will need during the next year or so. Prices, they figure, are still low, but are going up.

In July, for example, the reserve bank's figures show that sales of furs were 149 per cent above such sales in July, 1932. Even silverware and jewelry departments are enjoying increased business, sales being 4.2 per cent greater than in July, 1932.

Similarly, in July people were buying nearly 30 per cent more linen than a year ago. They were spending more than 22 per cent more for muslins and sheetings; 27 per cent more for furniture, including beds, mattresses and springs; 33⅓ per cent more for oriental rugs and domestic floor coverings; 14 per cent more for draperies, curtains, upholstery, lamps and shades, and nearly 40 per cent more for china and glassware.

* *

Not all of this buying, however, seemed to be for the long pull. Even goods in which style is a factor and which might get out of date in a year or less were going well.

Women's and children's shoes, for example, were selling at a rate 4.7 per cent better than last year and sales of women's and misses' dresses were 5 per cent greater.

In other departments substantial decreases from a year ago figures were reported. These declines were mostly in goods in which style is a determining factor or which make up so small a portion of the ordinary householder's budget that the threat of a price advance would not stir up heavy buying for future use.

Laces, trimmings and embroideries were selling 14.6 per cent below 1932 levels; silks and velvets were down 12 per cent, and women's and children's hosiery 10 per cent.

The people of the middle west were buying 9.7 per cent less millinery. They were bringing into their department stores 4.6 per cent less for corsets and brassieres; nearly 2 per cent less for silk and muslin underwear; 17.6 per cent less for house dresses, aprons and sweaters; 8 per cent less for infants' wear; 5.6 per cent less for men's furnishings; 8.2 per cent less for men's and boys' shoes, and 20.4 per cent less for sporting goods.

In many cases where small declines were reported, however, the actual volume of sales was better than a year ago, the difference being accounted for in price reductions that have occurred since July, 1932.

* *

Figures for Chicago department stores alone are not compiled, but leading merchants here who have scanned the report for the seventh district say that it coincides roughly with their own experience.

The report for June, 1933, afforded a picture very similar to that given in the July report. In June fur sales in the middle west were up 47.4 per cent from June, 1932; furniture sales were up 26.6 per cent; floor coverings up 40.1 per cent; house furnishings up 17.1 per cent, sheetings and muslins up 14.6 per cent.

Ribbon sales were down 26.8 per cent in June; toilet goods and drugs were down 23.2 per cent; hosiery down 20.4 per cent, and infants' wear down 13.7 per cent.

Throughout the entire list, however, July sales made a better comparison than June sales, compared with last year's figures. In departments where declines were shown the declines were generally smaller in July than in June and in most instances where increases were shown in June they were still greater in July.

Reserve Banks Keep Up Drive to Boost Credit

The big push from Washington to force an expansion of credit throughout the nation continued last week, with the federal reserve banks still buying government bonds on the enlarged scale established the week before.

A 35 million dollar increase in the holdings of "governments" by the reserve banks, a 28 million dollar advance in brokers' loans in New York, and a slight increase in the holdings of government bonds by New York member banks were the only substantial changes in the bank credit situation in the week ended Wednesday.

Despite the exhortations of the NRA leaders and other administration spokesmen the member banks showed no appreciable change in their commercial loans or their investments in securities other than government bonds.

Bank Credit Fails to Expand.

Thus bank credit fails to expand except for the bulge in government bond buying by the federal reserve banks, a move ordered by the treasury. Prior to the last two weeks the reserve banks were adding to their holdings of governments at the rate of only 10 millions per week.

About two-thirds of the additional government securities acquired by the twelve federal reserve banks last week were short term certificates and bills, the remaining third being intermediate term treasury notes. There was little change in the holdings of long term government bonds.

Although the treasury is still threatening gold hoarders with dire penalties there is no appreciable movement of gold to the federal reserve banks. Their total gold reserves declined about a million and a half for the week. Recent estimates have placed the amount of gold still outstanding at approximately a half billion, although this figure is admittedly only a rough guess.

Money Circulation Off.

In the reports of member banks in New York and Chicago, also released yesterday, there was indicated a tendency toward stabilization of deposits. Chicago banks have been gaining deposits steadily for a long time, but New York banks had lost nearly three-quarters of a million dollars since June, due to the ban on interest payments on demand deposits imposed by the new banking act. For the second week in succession New York banks reported a modest upturn in deposits. Indicated increase in gross deposits of member banks in New York was 44 millions for the week, and in Chicago an advance of 3 millions was indicated.

The statement of the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago shows that it is still carrying the lion's share of the load in the purchase of government bonds. The Chicago institution added 11 millions to its holdings of governments, and compared with the increase of 24 millions for the other eleven reserve banks combined.

National Cash Register Sales Best in Two Years

Dayton, O., Aug. 31.—(AP)—The National Cash Register company announced today that its August sales totaled $1,612,350. The largest for any month since October, 1931, the volume represented sales to small business firms rather than a few large orders, the company said.

R. F. C. MAY CUT BANK LOAN RATE TO EASE CREDIT

Would Assure Liberal Supply of U. S. Cash.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—A reduction in its interest rate on loans to banks as a means of stimulating credit expansion, by assuring the banks that a liberal supply of government cash will be available at low cost to those institutions which coöperate in helping to finance the recovery program, is being considered by the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

At present banks in operation borrow at a rate of 4½ per cent and closed banks at 4 per cent. The treasury, which supplies the R. F. C. with cash for its advances, is getting a return of 3 per cent on Reconstruction Finance corporation debentures, which it purchase, thus leaving a considerable spread between the rate at which the corporation obtains its cash and that at which it lends it.

Program to Ease Credit.

Various features of a program to ease credit facilities for industries and businesses which want loans are still being reviewed by the board of directors of the R. F. C. Jess H. Jones, chairman of the corporation, has also conferred on the question with Dean Acheson, acting secretary of the treasury; Walter J. Cummings, assistant to the secretary in charge of the reorganization of closed banks; Gov. Black of the federal reserve board, and representatives of the office of the controller of the currency.

The banks of the country, which now have R. F. C. loans of about 800 million dollars, have been hesitant about seeking further extensions. In most instances this has been because of the fact that congress decreed that the identity of the borrowing banks should be made public.

Banks Fear Publicity.

This, the banks have feared, would be accepted as a sign of weakness. But R. F. C. officials are hopeful that this will cease to be a factor, as the government is urging that the banks borrow for the specific purpose of aiding the NRA drive.

Reduction in interest rates to borrowers—and the step, if taken, may include others than banks—it is felt by officials, would at least make it known to the banks that the money could be had at low cost if needed, and thus result in their releasing more credit for all legitimate purposes.

NEW YORK FAILS TO GET BANK AID; INTEREST DUE

New York, Aug. 31.—[Special.]—The city administration failed today to obtain from the Wall street banking syndicate money to meet the interest payment of $8,746,000 due tomorrow. Despite this, it was stated that the city would not default. No one in a position to know would state where the city would get the money to avert the default.

The bankers were said to be confident that the city would be able to "dig up" the money, presumably out of some quiet and untouched corner of the city treasury. The inference was that there was, in the city's possession, enough funds to meet the interest payment, but that the funds were earmarked for purposes that the city considers extremely important.

Pay rolls are in that category, and so are the funds for unemployment relief, when they exist. The city appropriated $2,500,000 last Friday for unemployment.

G. M. Reynolds Home Taken Over by Bank

Documents filed with the county recorders' office yesterday disclosed that before leaving Chicago to make his home in California, George M. Reynolds, former chairman of the board of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, conveyed title to his palatial residence at 1449 Lake Shore drive to the bank of which he was long the head.

GEO. M. REYNOLDS

In a quitclaim dated Sept. 21, 1931, Mr. Reynolds conveyed title to the bank and by quitclaim dated Aug. 25, 1933, the bank conveyed title to the Valley States corporation—a subsidiary used to hold title to real estate.

It was stated yesterday that the transfer to the bank was made by Mr. Reynolds in clearing up his Chicago affairs before his retirement. When he resigned from the bank last January, Mr. Reynolds had indicated that he and Mrs. Reynolds desired to spend their declining years in California. Mr. Reynolds was active in banking for more than 50 years.

The residence has been one of the show places of Lake Shore drive for years. It is a three story structure of brick and stone just south of Burton place. Erected in 1892, the residence was designed by the late Gen. A. C. McClurg. Ogden McClurg sold it to Mr. Reynolds in 1915 for $141,000.

LIQUOR AND OIL SHARES KEEP UP MARKET SPIRIT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 31.—Flurries of buying in liquor and oil stocks provided about the only show of activity discernible in today's dealings on the share exchange. Price changes were slight, the group movements mixed and the whole business generally meaningless. It was about the dullest trading since before the mid-July crackup.

The drooping speculative spirit manifested by the idling market reflected the growing disinclination to forecast the future which has been making itself evident for the last week or so. Uncertainties on the score of the NRA program, inflation and the receding activity noted in some important industries have caused many traders to retire once more to the side lines to await more enlightening conditions.

Utility Rally Fails.

Utility shares made a bid for prominence in the early dealings but the move petered out on reports of an impending public service commission order for a 10 per cent cut in rates in New York state. Brooklyn Union Gas gave up 2 points and losses of from a fraction to a point were suffered by American Telephone, Standard Gas, Public Service and others. Consolidated Gas, however, ran counter to the group trend for a slight gain.

Strength in the oil shares grew out of reports from Washington, D. C., that a basic price for the refined product would be fixed at a level between 5 and 6 cents. Amerada was a feature soaring to a new high and good performances were turned in by Consolidated Oil, Continental, Standard of New Jersey, Standard of California, Atlantic Refining and others. Most issues of the group sold up to the best levels of the year at one time or another during the day.

Whisky Tip Boosts Shares.

A report from Washington that the treasury department had let the bars down as far as the manufacture of whisky is concerned, having passed the word to reputable distillers that they may proceed to stock up in anticipation of repeal of the amendment now deemed a certainty injected some fresh life into the wet issues. National Distillers, American Commercial Alcohol, Schenely Distillers, and United States Commercial Alcohol attracted most of the buying. The gains ranged from a fraction to around 2 points. Distillers was up about 4 points at one time but was cut down by profit taking before the close. Chemicals did better with the alcohols.

The gold shares recovered from their profit taking setback of yesterday and Homestake Mining the big time leader of the advance, got back 5 points of its loss rising once more to 300.

Governor Bars Tobacco Sales to Lift Prices

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 31.—(AP)—A voluntary tobacco marketing holiday in North Carolina, which claims the world's largest markets, was declared tonight in a proclamation by Gov. J. C. B. Ehringhaus.

Acting at the demand of a mass-meeting of eastern Carolina growers here, the governor called on farmers and warehousemen to coöperate in the immediate holiday until the government could act "according to law to prevent the impending catastrophe."

Pointing out that he had no authority to force the markets' closing or to declare martial law for this purpose, the chief executive asked farmers and warehousemen "to refrain from selling or offering tobacco for sale under the warehouse laws of North Carolina."

South Carolina May Follow.

He wired Gov. Ibra C. Blackwood of South Carolina asking him to take similar action. From his sick bed in Columbia, the latter indicated favor of the proposal and that he would take action tomorrow.

Warehousemen, caught by surprise by the proclamation, indicated they would support it provided all others in the belt did and that South Carolina joined the movement. Fear was expressed that farmers would take their produce to South Carolina if it does not enter the holiday.

An assurance of coöperation was given by Ernest V. Webb of Kinston, president of the Eastern Carolina Warehousemen's association, but he said he would attempt to have Gov. Ehringhaus postpone the holiday's inauguration until Monday. Warehousemen pointed out hundreds of thousands of pounds were already on floors for sale tomorrow.

Virginia Appeals to Wallace.

The Virginia general assembly today adopted a resolution memorializing Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to apply the domestic farm allotment plan for the benefit of Virginia growers. Senator William M. Tuck of Halifax county said unless there was an early rise in prices "Virginia will ask the privilege of joining her sister tobacco states in whatever actions seems necessary."

DOLLAR SLIPS AGAINST FRANC; POUND STEADY

New York, Aug. 31.—(AP)—The American dollar was a trifle heavy in terms of European gold exchanges today, but was fairly steady against the British pound sterling. In terms of gold the dollar closed at 70.27 cents, compared with 70.66 cents yesterday.

French francs were firm all day and finished with a gain of a point and a half at 5.57½ cents. The pound, at $4.52½ for cables, was up ¾ of a cent, however, and there was an unconfirmed report that the Bank of England had resumed its support of this currency.

Dutch guilders were up ¼ of a cent at 57¼ cents. Swiss francs gained .13 of a cent at 27.46 cents, and Belgian belgas advanced .09 of a cent to 19.86 cents. German marks and the Scandinavians were moderately firm. Canadian dollars and Japanese yen were unchanged.

Fears End of Output Curb, High Costs.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—Making the first public statement on inflation ventured by any member of President Roosevelt's official family, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, himself formerly an inflationist, today warned farmers that currency tampering might make their situation worse instead of better in the long run.

Unusual significance was attached to Secretary Wallace's remarks here because of the studied silence which the Roosevelt administration, including the President himself, has preserved on the question of inflation. In the face of seething public interest, especially on the part of speculators and industrialists with large inventories, the administration has steadily refused to indicate its attitude.

Quotes, Abswers Letter.

Secretary Wallace's own constituents, the farmers, compose one of the groups most interested in inflation, on the theory it would raise their profits. The secretary today quoted a letter from a former college friend of his, now a farmer, who urged inflation, and then proceeded to reject the suggestion as a cure all for the farm depression.

"In the long run," Mr. Wallace pointed out, "inflation does not increase the foreign demand for our surplus farm products and does nothing toward adjusting the supply of farm products to the home market. In fact, there is some danger that the increase in speculative farm commodity prices may make the adjustment of supply to demand in the long run more difficult rather than less so by stimulating production and by making farmers less willing to adjust production."

Higher Return Offset.

Turning to the argument that inflation would raise farm prices, Wallace stated two fundamental objections to it. He declared that in a large part the increased return to farmers is wiped out by an accompanying increase in the cost of materials which the farmer has to buy. Secondly, drawing an example from recent inflationary tendencies, he pointed out that price increases are confined to those farm products in which there is speculation.

"Proper handling of our money undoubtedly will help us reach a true state of balance, but it also must be recognized that there are certain fundamental, stubborn facts which must be otherwise handled," Wallace warned. These "stubborn facts" are the adjustment of production to consumption, a problem which inflation may complicate instead of solve, he said.

"Since March 4," Mr. Wallace explained, "I have carefully avoided any

SALES OF BRITISH 5½S IS FEATURE OF BOND MARKET

Dealings in the market generally continued in small volume, with the trend toward slightly lower levels in most directions. Even speculative favorites failed to draw more than desultory attention. Here and there, however, moderate gains appeared to brighten the picture.

British Loan Sales Heavy.

The turnover in British 5½s exceeded that of all other foreign issues combined. Because 3 p. m. today was the deadline of depositing bonds under the exchange offer, bondholders who did not care to take a 2¼ per cent sterling bond in exchange for 5½s came into the market with bonds to sell for cash and immediate delivery. Bonds sold in the regular way would take a price representing only their pure investment value. Dealers were surprised to see the 5½s hold so well, in view of the manifest anxiety of nonassenting holders to take advantage of the exchange premium at the last minute.

It was well into the afternoon before the first transaction in British 5½s was put through "regular way." The bonds first sold in this way at 113½, or 5⅝ points under yesterday's closing and 5½ points under the average cash sale price.

Federal Issues Stronger.

United States government issues did little more than make up losses suffered yesterday, and high grade public utility, industrial, and railroad issues were fractionally off on small offerings. Among the exceptions were Lackawanna Steel 5s, Liggett & Myers 5s, New York Telephone 4½s, and Union Pacific first 4s.

Expect Railway Financing for Buying New Equipment

New York, Aug. 31.—The survey of freight car condition, ordered by Joseph B. Eastman, federal coördinator of transportation, has caused some banking specialists in equipment trust financing to anticipate early borrowing for equipment purchases by class 1 railroads.

Texas Pacific Coal and Oil.

Investors' Guide: I would appreciate what information you may be able to give me concerning stock of Texas Pacific Coal and Oil, listed on the New York Stock exchange.—T. S.

Answer: Texas Pacific Coal and Oil company was originally established almost 50 years ago as a coal mining enterprise. Since then it has virtually abandoned coal mining. Principal output is oil.

It is a minor figure in the oil industry. Operations are centered almost solely in Texas. It produces some natural gas and furnishes utility service to the town of Thurber, Tex.

Earnings during the last three years reflect conditions prevalent in the industry. During the first half of 1933 gross revenues were $1,519,000 and loss $473,000.

Gross for 1932 amounted to $4,116,000, against $4,516,000 for 1931, $7,114,000 for 1930, and $8,050,000 for 1929.

The company reported profit of $160,000, or 18 cents per share, for 1932. This included $518,000 profit from sale of capital assets and reflected a decrease of almost $500,000 in charges for depreciation, depletion, etc. Loss for 1931 was $1,413,000, against loss of $970,000 for 1930 and net income of $787,000, or 84 cents per share, for 1929.

Current assets at the close of 1932 amounted to $2,995,000 and current liabilities $1,778,000. Cash was $348,000 and notes payable, partially secured, $1,331,000. Working capital was $1,217,000, against $1,147,000 the year before.

There is no funded debt. Capitalization consists of 880,703 shares of $10 par capital stock. Nothing has been paid on the stock since the 10 per cent stock dividend in 1929. The last cash dividend was 15 cents a share in January, 1928.

DeLaney Products.

Investors' Guide: Can you give me any information on DeLaney Products company?—H. J. R.

Answer: This company was at one time engaged in manufacture of jams, jellies, and other food products. It was reported in 1923 that the company had been experiencing difficulty in meeting obligations, and in that year receivers were appointed.

In July, 1924, it was reported that the company's affairs were in such shape as to indicate only a small dividend to creditors. Federal receivers were appointed on March 14, 1924, and on Jan. 24, 1927, the company's Delaware charter was declared null and void for nonpayment of two years' taxes.

U. S. WILL ACCEPT JUST MINED GOLD FOR SALE TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—Decks were cleared at the treasury department today for the first large scale exportations of gold since President Roosevelt clamped down the embargo in April.

Newly mined gold will be accepted by the treasury for sale at the world price tomorrow. Beginning with the first receipt of the precious metal, the treasury will quote a price to domestic producers and conduct sales at home and abroad, in accordance with the President's new order.

At the same time the treasury issued regulations on domestic hoarding which made a blanket extension in the dead line from Sept. 28 to Oct. 8. In addition, registration of gold holdings is not required until Sept. 18, instead of Sept. 12, as originally set in the President's new executive order.

Acheson Tells Procedure.

Although official regulations on the exportation of gold are still being held up, Dean G. Acheson, acting secretary of the treasury, today outlined roughly the procedure which will be followed.

When newly mined gold is turned over to a treasury agent, either one of the mints or the reserve banks, a treasury representative in New York will be notified. He will ascertain the highest price prevailing at that time in any free gold market in the world.

The gold will then be offered to domestic consumers, jewelers, dentists, and goldsmiths at this price. If the metal is not sold in America, it will be sold promptly in the foreign market quoting the highest price. The producer will get the world price, minus charges for transportation, insurance and handling.

Gold Producers Get More.

By obtaining the world price for gold, which has been in the neighborhood of $29.00 an ounce, American producers will reap a 45 per cent increase in their return. Previously, they were allowed to sell only to the mint, which could pay only $20.67 an ounce. At present world prices, the 1932 production, valued at 52 million dollars, would be worth about 75 millions.

The new extension in the hoarding dead line was the second retreat in two days which the administration has made in the hoarding battle. Despite the assertions of Attorney General Homer S. Cummings that he intends to prosecute hoarders, the government thus far has delayed action. The official explanation this time was tardiness in preparing the form for reporting gold holdings.

CHANGE SOUGHT IN MONTGOMERY WARD POLICIES

Formation by a group of shareholders of the "Montgomery Ward Stockholders' association" was announced yesterday by Joseph Zook of San Francisco, one time treasurer and director of the mail order and chain store company. Incorporation papers for the association were filed yesterday in Springfield, Zook said.

The avowed purpose of the association is to "revise the management policies" of the company by electing to the board of directors men "qualified by actual experience in mail order, retail merchandising and manufacturing."

Associated with Zook in the stockholders' group are Donald K. Chadbourne and Anthony J. Bemis, Chicago, as incorporators; as directors: George C. Miller, Mishawaka, Ind.; C. C. Hatcher Jr., William G. Panodast, and Donald C. Brock, Chicago.

Montgomery Ward & Co. officials yesterday made no comment on the organization of the new group. Sewell L. Avery is president and chairman of the company. He succeeded George B. Everitt in the management personnel organization two years ago. Silas H. Strawn is chairman of the executive committee.

GRAIN LEADERS REVISE CODE AT PEEK'S BEHEST

Washington, D. C., Aug. 31.—(AP)—Grain exchange representatives completed a two day conference today with George N. Peek, chief administrator of the farm act, regarding a code for their trade which they expect to present formally next Tuesday with a request for an early public hearing.

Details of the revised code, which will supplant one that proved unsatisfactory to Peek, were withheld until exchange representatives complete its final draft.

Peter B. Carey, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, said he believed the new code would "more nearly meet with satisfaction on the part of farm administrators."

Today's discussion revolved about proposed provisions in the code to deal with maximum daily fluctuations in prices of grain, margin requirements for traders, limitations on the volume of futures which any individual trader would be permitted to hold at one time and indemnity trading. Representatives of the exchanges asked that the present limits on daily fluctuations in prices be increased, asserting that they are interfering with trading.

GRAIN MARKET TOUTS BARRED BY 'OPEN BOARD'

Wails Lead Directors to Reconsider Ban.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The weather prophets, star gazers, crystal watchers and dopesters of similar ilk who have made their headquarters for years in the board room of the Chicago Open Board of Trade, 334 Sherman street, are without a home as a result of action by the exchange governors. They will continue without a place to peddle their advice, unless the directors relent when they meet today to consider the protests against the ruling.

The dopesters for many years have carried on a thriving business, selling their opinions on the future trend of grain prices to the would be Guttens, Pattens and Howells who frequent the open board. They finally became so pestiferous that directors last week decided to withdraw the privilege of the exchange room from seven of the soothsayers.

Dopesters Raise Wails.

So loud were the protests from the dopesters themselves that the directors will reconsider their action today. But it looked likely yesterday that the dopesters would fail to regain their lost status. As far as is known, nobody but the dopesters objected to the boards' action.

The open board, which does a business around 1,000,000 bushels of grain a day, ranks next in size to the Chicago Board of Trade among the grain exchanges of the country. In recent weeks its volume has been running behind the Kansas City and Minneapolis markets, but for several preceding months it handled a larger volume of business than those markets.

It has been the training ground of many of the successful operators who later won fortunes and some fame on the pits of the board of trade. Among the well known operators who started with the open board are Thomas Howell and Dan Rice.

Smaller Trading Units.

The trading in the open board is based on the quotations of the big market. Its unit of trade is 1,000 bushels, while the unit in the big pit is 5,000 bushels. Unlike the big market the exchange room is open to the public and a trader may watch his broker execute the transactions.

The open board attracts many small speculators, some of whom have proved easy prey to the dopesters whom the directors are now shooing out of the exchange room. One of the most successful of the dope peddlers bases his opinions on barometric pressure readings. He is said to be one of the loudest objectors to the ejection order.
